Questions 1 to 3 relate to the information about a promotion by Coca Cola Ltd shown in Figure 1.

Figure 1

As part of a 2009 promotional campaign Coca Cola Ltd offered students at university the opportunity to win £3,500 toward their university fees. 'Freshers' (students joining a university for their first year) were the specific target for the promotion.

The promotion included posters displayed in cafes and common rooms on university campuses. The posters were shown in the familiar red colours used to promote its cola range of drinks and showed bottles of its three main colas.

Two rewards were offered:

1. A £3,500 prize offered each week towards paying one lucky fresher's fees.
2. Nintendo DSis and Nintendo Points cards to be won every day.

In order to enter the competition freshers needed to text their details and the name of their university to a number given on the poster.

1 The main heading for the poster said 'BUY ONE GET YOUR FEES!'

(a) Examine a likely objective behind Coca Cola's choice of the words 'BUY ONE GET YOUR FEES!'
