Mansk Corporation

The Mansk Corporation is a car manufacturer located in an East European country. In November 2003, the company received a non-repayable subsidy from the government worth £200 million. A new team of senior managers has recently been recruited from the highly successful Japanese car producer, Toyota, with the aim of improving the firm's long-term competitiveness. To do this they have asked the government for a £400 million loan to help to ensure the firm's survival. The managers have proposed that the loan is repayable over 8 years at an interest rate of 1%.

The government was elected in July 2003, and would like the country to join the European Union in the next six years.

You are a management consultant to the government of this East European country. Analyse the main arguments for and against granting this loan to the Mansk Corporation. Based on this analysis, produce a fully justified recommendation on whether the government should agree to the proposed loan or not (see Appendices A to E on pages 4 and 5).
