General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the first candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the last.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- There is no ceiling on achievement. All marks on the mark scheme should be used appropriately.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification may be limited.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, the team leader must be consulted.
- Crossed out work should be marked UNLESS the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

- Building is Jade's jewellery shop
- As a trespasser such as the absence of permission to enter the shop and the mens rea
- Consideration of S9(1)(a) Theft Act 1968 on the basis of Simba's conditional intention to steal
- Consideration of S9(1)(b) Theft Act 1968 on the basis of actual theft
- Use of relevant cases such as R v Collins, R v Brown, Stevens v Gourley, R v Walkington, Barker v R, R v Mohan, AG Ref(No1 & 2)

For Simba's defence of intoxication consideration of:

- Definition of intoxication is a defence established by common law principals based on the inability to form the MR of the criminal offence, voluntary intoxication, basic intent crime
- Simba is voluntary intoxicated through being aware of drinking significant amount of alcohol
- Burglary/Theft are specific intent crimes so Simba may be able to raise the issue of being so drunk that it negated his ability to form the mens rea of either/both offences proving Simba was voluntarily drinking alcohol before the crime took place is seen as evidence of a reckless course of action proving the MR of both offences.
- However, drinking alcohol in order to gain 'dutch courage' to then commit an offence would be sufficient to prove Simba's mens rea of burglary and theft
- Concluding that Simba is unlikely to be able to use the defence
- Reference to cases such as DPP v Beard, Sheehan & Moore v R, AG for NI v Gallagher

Coming to logical conclusions focusing on key elements of each offence and the defence such as there being a clear theft/burglary of the bracelet due to conditional intent and the inability of Simba to successfully argue voluntary intoxication is able to negate his mens rea.
