The fire service is called. One of the fire-fighters, Martin, goes into the cinema but cannot see clearly. Martin rescues Craig and carries him outside. Martin then realises he has just rescued his own son. Craig is badly burned and Jasmine becomes hysterical when she sees him. Craig dies in Martin's arms and his body is taken to the hospital. Martin calls Pat, Craig's mother. Pat goes straight to the hospital where she sees Craig's body immediately.

Jasmine and Pat are both suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder. Martin has been off work since the fire as he is completely devastated by the death of his son.

- 6 On an industrial estate Phil makes beer which he stores in barrels. Next door to Phil, Quentin has a Koi carp business. He keeps the fish in a tank behind his shop. In the shop opposite Sophie runs a cupcake bakery.

One night, after Phil has gone home, there is a violent thunderstorm. Lightning goes through a window, which Phil has left open, and strikes a barrel of beer which explodes. The force explodes several other barrels and blows out a window in Sophie's shop. Rain ruins all the cupcakes Sophie has just made for a wedding.

The following day, Phil's young son squeezes through a hole in the fence which surrounds the fish tank. Quentin has failed to repair the fence. He tips some of his father's beer into the tank killing several valuable fish. A week later, Quentin's cleaner forgets to turn off a tap in his shop. The resulting flood ruins gallons of Phil's beer.

Discuss the liability of Phil and Quentin in the tort of Rylands v Fletcher. [50]
