

Which communication channels will your students choose to present their projects?

Switch on to a modern and exciting course

Our new specification gives students the opportunity to use modern channels of communication like websites, blogs and podcasts to present their work. Engaging and inspirational, the course provides a wide range of interesting project briefs to encourage creativity and to provide a firm grounding in communication skills for the modern world.

Don't forget our media conference on 14 March 2008, for more details visit www.ocr.org.uk/mediastudies/newalevel
