Why learn foreign languages?

How many times did you hear or say: "I speak English, so I don't have to learn a foreign language. Everyone speaks English ..."

In fact only about 6% of the world's population speaks English as a first language. Only double this number of people speak English as a second or third language. This means that over 80% of the world's population does not speak English. This fact, therefore, should encourage you to learn a foreign language. Learning another language gives you the ability to fully appreciate and understand the world in which you live. It opens up new opportunities that you might never have had otherwise. Personal, professional, social, and economic reasons all point to the advantages of learning foreign languages.

In a world where nations and people are more and more dependent upon each other to ensure international peace and security, understanding other cultures is of great importance.
