Use the following information to help you answer Questions 1(c) and (d).

The travel and tourism industry is subject to external pressures.

Losses at easyJet

In 2010, severe weather and air traffic control strikes in Europe cost easyJet £31 million. Shares fell on the stock market as a result. The airline was also affected by the rising cost of oil. However, their income increased by 7.5% to £654 million. To try to increase income further, the airline plans to put three extra aircraft into service, and hire more standby staff to ensure that flights can take off even if crew are stranded elsewhere because of strikes or severe weather.

Thomas Cook and Co-operative Travel agents to merge

Plans were revealed today to merge these two high street travel agencies. With more than 1,200 shops, the newly formed company will be the UK's largest multiple travel agent. Savings of around £35 million a year are expected, achieved through job losses, agency closures and combining the two head offices into one.

Thomas Cook will own 70% of the new company.

Question 2 continues on the next page.

All travel agencies have to motivate customers to book holidays with them. One of the ways high street agencies do this is to have a range of brochures on display.

Use the following brochure information to answer Question 2(f).

7 Nights in Ibiza

£299 each ★★

Departures: Birmingham, Manchester, London Gatwick

Date: Various departure dates in July and August 2012

The fun, sun, and party capital of the Mediterranean awaits you!

On this holiday, you will stay in a spacious one-bedroom apartment which sleeps up to five people.

They are located in the heart of San Antonio, the largest resort on the island.

The apartment has a fridge, 2 ring cooker and is air-conditioned. On the doorstep are a wide choice of bars, restaurants and clubs, and the beach is a only a 10 minute walk away.

Cities and Cheetahs – South Africa

£1579 each for 17 nights ★★★★

Departure: London Heathrow

Date: 12th September 2012

This once in a lifetime 17-day holiday departs from Heathrow with South African Airways (connecting flights are available from other UK airports at a supplement).

The first city you will visit is Cape Town, with its famous Table Mountain, where you will stay in a four star hotel for 5 nights on a bed and breakfast basis.

Then on to a safari in the Kruger National Park for 7 nights with your accommodation in luxury tents and all meals included. Daily drives into the Park to see cheetahs and other game are also included.

Your final city destination is Johannesburg from where you can visit the casino capital of South Africa, 'Sun City'. You will stay in a four star hotel for 4 nights (on a bed and breakfast basis) before your overnight flight home.

A supplement of £375 applies for a single room.

(Image Source: www.kruger-national-park.com)

- (f) Evaluate the effectiveness of both brochure extracts in motivating potential customers to book these holidays.

You may wish to consider:

- different customer types
- content of the brochure extracts.

Making Waves: Britain's new ferry

P&O Ferries' new ship, the Spirit of Britain, is the largest ferry on the English Channel, at 213 metres long and 30 metres wide. She made her first crossing yesterday. She is no faster than the 25-year-old ship she is replacing. The journey took 90 minutes.

She holds 2000 passengers and twice the amount of vehicles as the ship she replaces.

The Spirit of Britain offers a more comfortable journey, with facilities such as seatback entertainment, free Wi-Fi, shops selling designer goods and more upmarket eating and drinking facilities including a waiter service restaurant, a high street coffee shop and an alfresco cafe for eating outside on sunny days.

However, she is much more environmentally friendly as she consumes no more fuel than the old ship.

There is a lot of competition for channel crossings, including French ferry operators and Eurotunnel, but a P&O Ferries spokesperson said that this ship would offer passengers 'a different product'.

(d) Other transport organisations have also adapted to meet customer needs through innovation and development of their products.

Using examples of transport organisations you have researched or studied in class, describe how they have responded to the following changing customer needs and expectations:

- safety and security
 - speed and convenience
 - excellent customer service.

You should NOT consider ferry operators.

- (e) Tourism has positive and negative impacts on host environments.

Several new high speed rail links have been proposed in the UK. One of these is between London and Birmingham. This will reduce the journey time to only one hour and will be excellent for business people. However, some of the route will go through farms, towns and villages.

There is a lot of opposition to this plan, as local people think it will have a negative impact on the environment.

- (i) Describe the possible negative impacts that a new high speed rail link may have on the environment.

- (ii) Using two of the negative impacts identified in 3(e)(i), suggest ways in which each could be addressed. Justify your suggestions.

Read the following information before answering Question 4(d).

Major events such as the Royal Wedding in 2011 and the Olympic Games have shown that tourism benefits from increased publicity of the destination in terms of increased visitor numbers and spending.

The London 2012 Olympics – Key Facts

The Olympic Games will run from 27 July – 12 August 2012.

- Approximately 8 million tickets have been sold.
- A high speed rail link called the Javelin will run from central London to Stratford International station, which is a short walk from the Olympic Park.
- New hotels have been built, and accommodation is available in 120,000 rooms across the city.
- Up to 180,000 spectators per day are expected to enjoy the games at the Olympic Park. Other venues will also host events including the archery at Lords Cricket ground, the triathlon in Hyde Park and tennis at Wimbledon.
- A survey undertaken has forecast that tourism will generate £2 billion for the whole of the UK, and 54% of this will be after the Olympic Games have finished.

(Source: based on a VisitBritain Media Centre News Release)

*(d) Evaluate the benefits that events such as the Olympic Games can bring to tourism in the UK both now and in the future.
