With its keep, battlements and working well house, Carisbrooke Castle is an exciting site for the whole family to explore. There has been a fortress here since at least Saxon times, but the present castle was built on the site in c.1100, when the island was granted to the de Redvers family.

When the Spanish Armada passed alarmingly close in 1588, Carisbrooke became enormously significant for the defence of the realm. It was suspected that the Spanish might attempt to seize the island, and in response the castle was transformed into an artillery fortress.

Charles I was imprisoned here in 1647. He was comfortably accommodated in the Constable's Lodging, and a bowling green was constructed for his recreation.

Nevertheless he made two attempts to escape: the first was foiled only when he became wedged in the window bars. Today the Charles I room is furnished as a typical bedroom of the Stuart period.

The well house and tread wheel are still in working order and open to visitors. Prisoners may have originally worked the wheel, but from the late 17th century donkeys were used. These hard-working animals can now be found giving demonstrations.

The on-site Carisbrooke Museum (managed by the Carisbrooke Museum Trust) provides more historical information about the castle, as well as memorabilia and artefacts relating to Charles I.

WWW.LECONFIELDHOTEL.COM

Enjoying uninterrupted views across the English Channel from an elevated position 400 feet above the sea, the Leconfield is situated on St Boniface Down above the historic village of Bonchurch, offering a warm welcome, comfortable, luxury accommodation and excellent, freshly-prepared food.

Your accommodation will have all the comforts you would expect in a five-star country house including bedrooms with en suite, TV/DVD and hospitality tray and most having panoramic sea views. In addition there are three luxury rooms: the ground-floor Coral Reef with reserved parking, private entrance, large bathroom and dressing room; the opulent Captain's Bridge and Admiral suite with stunning bedroom, luxurious bathroom and balcony terrace affording fantastic uninterrupted sea views.

The peaceful country house also features comfortable sitting rooms, a conservatory with spectacular sea views, heated outdoor pool with relaxing air jet seat in a secluded suntrap (open from May to September).

Fine dining in the Seascape Dining Room includes locally-farmed meat, fresh fruit, vegetables and locally-landed fish wherever possible.

Our country home will be your perfect base whatever you plan to do. On the Island, nothing is very far! You can leave your car in our car park and walk from the door along the coastal path or, as our gardens adjoin the National Trust Boniface Downs, you can commence a walk across the Island.

To ensure your comfort we are pleased to be totally non-smoking including external terraces and balconies, no dogs, and we do not have family rooms and therefore cannot accommodate children under the age of 16.

FIG. 7A

ISLE OF WIGHT HOTELS/GUESTHOUSES/B&B'S
BEDSPACE OCCUPANCY 2006/2007

FIG. 7B

The average bedspace occupancy across 2006/07 was 42%, which is slightly below 2005/06 but at a similar level to the previous two years, as shown below.

ISLE OF WIGHT HOTELS/GUESTHOUSES/B&B'S
BEDSPACE OCCUPANCY 2006/2007 VS PREVIOUS YEARS

FIG. 7C

Room occupancy reached 73% in September 2006 reducing to 14% in January 2007. This then climbed steadily through the year to a high of 69% in the key month of August. Room occupancy, however, had dipped in July, which is unusual; this fall coincided with particularly wet weather in early July.

ISLE OF WIGHT HOTELS/GUESTHOUSES/B&B'S
ROOM OCCUPANCY 2006/2007

The larger establishments (26+ rooms) achieved higher occupancy levels than other hotels/guest houses and B&B's in autumn, spring and the peak season but were below smaller hotels in the winter. In each season, the lowest level of room occupancy was experienced by the 4–10 room establishments. B&B's (1–3 rooms) performed well in the peak season with occupancy above guesthouses (4–10 rooms) and small hotels (11–25 rooms).

PEAK SEASON CAPACITIES

The table below shows the available capacity during the month of August when the Island is at its busiest.

This data illustrates that there is little availability in the rented self-catering sector but that there is considerable availability across the serviced sector, especially in guesthouses (4–10 rooms) and small hotels (11–25 rooms).

TOURISM IN THE ISLE OF WIGHT 2006-2007

This report provides commentary on the Isle of Wight tourist industry for the period from 3 September 2006 to 2 September 2007. When making comparisons with recent years, events which have affected tourism include the World Cup football tournament in June/July 2006; the thwarted terrorist attack on UK airports in August 2006 which halted international flights during the peak holiday season; the Asian Tsunami in December 2004; the Madrid bombs in spring 2004 and the war in Iraq.

Consumer confidence in the economy and employment fell to a low point in December 2006 but then rose steadily and from May to September 2007 remained at a similar level to the previous year. After a long period of no base rate rises, there were four interest rate rises during the year.

Domestic tourism across the UK was affected by poor weather during this period. In particular, May to July was the wettest since records began in 1766. South Yorkshire, Gloucestershire and Oxfordshire suffered the worst weather and flooding and there was disruption to road, rail and air travel across the country. In June and July overnight trips, particularly business and trips to friends/relatives, decreased in comparison to 2006; however, by August the volume of trips in 2007 (January to August) had recovered to the level seen in 2006.

On the Isle of Wight, numerous well established events, small and large, were scheduled throughout the year to attract visitors. The tourism year started with the Bestival in September, followed by Wight Air. Other main events included the Walking Festival in May, the Music Festival in June, Cowes Week in August, the Powerboat Festival in August and the Wight Air Festival which, in 2007, was moved to late August (consequently this event featured twice in this tourism year). When making comparisons with 2004/05, it is worth noting that in that summer the Island benefited from the Trafalgar 200 celebration, a significant one-off event, which was well attended and could not be replaced with another similar event.

During the tourism year of 2006/2007 it is estimated that there were just over a million holidays taken on the Isle of Wight (domestic and overseas residents, short breaks and holidays combined). These included over 690 000 short leisure breaks (1–4 nights), which is a slight increase on last year (+2%). In addition there were just under 350 000 longer holidays (lasting 5+ nights). These were down slightly on last year (–2%), although their duration increased making up for the decline in number. Together with other staying visits, the tourism revenue generated by staying trips is estimated to be just under £350 million.

Day trips increased (+2%) in comparison to last year to reach 968 000 (domestic and overseas residents combined), which contributed £34 million to the local economy and taking overall tourism revenue to £384 million.
