You must give only a reason and not add other argument elements.

- 10 Write a reasoned case coming to a judgement as to whether replacing air-freighted food with allotment grown food is likely to be a practical way of reducing the UK's carbon footprint.

You should assess:

- the relative credibility of both sides giving their views in Document 1 about air-freighted food and greater use of allotments to reduce the UK's carbon footprint;
 - the relative plausibility (likelihood) that reducing food wastage will have a more immediate impact than more use of allotments.

Your answer should include sustained comparisons within each of these tasks and must refer to the material within the documents.
