DYSART [smiling]: You know I was wrong. I really do think that one's better. It's got such a catchy tune. Please do that one again. 45 [Silence. The boy glares at him.] I'm going to put you in a private bedroom for a little while. There are one or two available, and they're rather more pleasant than being in a ward. Will you please come and see me tomorrow? ... [He rises.] By the way, which parent is it who won't allow you to watch 50 television? Mother or father? Or is it both? [Calling out of the door.] Nurse! [ALAN stares at him. NURSE comes in.] NURSE: Yes, Doctor? DYSART: Take Strang here to Number Three, will you? He's moving in there 55 for a while. NURSE: Very good, Doctor. DYSART [to ALAN]: You'll like that room. It's nice. [The boy sits staring at DYSART. DYSART returns the stare.] 60 NURSE: Come along, young man. This way ... I said this way, please. [Reluctantly ALAN rises and goes to NURSE, passing dangerously close to DYSART, and out through the left door. DYSART looks after him, fascinated.]

Act 1, Scene 3

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Winter's Tale

2 Either (a) Discuss the presentation and significance of Hermione in the play as a whole.

Or (b) How, and with what effect, does Shak espeare present the relationship between Leontes and Polixenes on their first appearance in the play?

Enter LEONTES, POLIXENES, HERMIONE, MAMILLIUS,

CAMILLO, and Attendants.

POLIXENES: Nine changes of the wat'ry star hath been

The shepherd's note since we have left our throne

Without a burden. Time as long again 5

Would be fill'd up, my brother, with our thanks;

And yet we should for perpetuity

Go hence in debt. And therefore, like a cipher,

Yet standing in rich place, I multiply

With one 'We thank you' many thousands moe 10

That go before it.

LEONTES: Stay your thanks a while,

And pay them when you part.

POLIXENES: Sir, that's to-morrow.

I am question'd by my fears of what may chance 15

Or breed upon our absence, that may blow No sneaping winds at home, to make us say 'This is put forth too truly'. Besides, I have stay'd

To tire your royalty.

LEONTES: We are tougher, brother, 20

Than you can put us to't.

POLIXENES: No longer stay.

LEONTES: One sev'night longer.

POLIXENES: Very sooth, to-morrow.

LEONTES: We'll part the time between's then; and in that 25

I'll no gainsaying.

POLIXENES: Press me not, beseech you, so.

There is no tongue that moves, none, none i' th' world, So soon as yours could win me. So it should now,

Were there necessity in your request, although 30

'Twere needful I denied it. My affairs

Do even drag me homeward; which to hinder Were in your love a whip to me; my stay To you a charge and trouble. To save both,

Farewell, our brother. 35

LEONTES: Tongue-tied, our Queen? Speak you.

HERMIONE: I had thought, sir, to have held my peace until

You had drawn oaths from him not to stay. You, sir,

Charge him too coldly. Tell him you are sure

All in Bohemia's well – this satisfaction 40

The by-gone day proclaim'd. Say this to him,

He's beat from his best ward.

LEONTES: Well said, Hermione.

HERMIONE: To tell he longs to see his son were strong:

But let him say so then, and let him go; 45

But let him swear so; and he shall not stay; We'll thwack him hence with distaffs.

[To POLIXENES] Yet of your royal presence I'll adventure

The borrow of a week. When at Bohemia

	You take my lord, I'll give him my commission To let him there a month behind the gest Prefix'd for's parting. – Yet, good deed, Leontes, I love thee not a jar o' th' clock behind	50
POLIXENES:	What lady she her lord. – You'll stay? No, madam.	55
HERMIONE:	Nay, but you will?
POLIXENES: HERMIONE:	I may not, verily.
	Verily!
	You put me off with limber vows; but I,
	Though you would seek t'unsphere the stars with oaths,	60
	Should yet say 'Sir, no going'. Verily,
	You shall not go; a lady's 'verily' is
	As potent as a lord's. Will you go yet? Force me to keep you as a prisoner,
	Not like a guest; so you shall pay your fees	65
	When you depart, and save your thanks. How say you?	00
	My prisoner or my guest? By your dread 'verily',
	One of them you shall be.
POLIXENES:	Your guest, then, madam:
	To be your prisoner should import offending;	70
	Which is for me less easy to commit
	Than you to punish.
HERMIONE:	Not your gaoler then,
	But your kind hostess.

Act 1, Scene 2

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: Henry IV, Part 1

3 Either (a) '... I have a truant been to chivalry. ...' (Prince Hal)

How, and with what effect for the play as a whole, does Shakespeare present Hal's attitude to his role as prince and heir to Henry IV?

Or (b) What might be an audience's reaction to Falstaff's behaviour at this point in the play? You should make close reference to the passage's language and action.

FALSTAFF: [Rising up] Embowell'd! If thou embowel me to-day, I'll give you leave to powder me and eat me too to-morrow. 'Sblood, 'twas time to counterfeit, or that hot termagant Scot had paid me scot and lot too. Counterfeit? I lie, I am no counterfeit: to die is to be a counterfeit; for he is b ut the counterfeit of a man who hath not the life of a man; but to counterfeit dying, when a man thereby liveth, is to be no counterfeit, but the true and perfect image of life indeed. The better part of valour is discretion; in the which better part I have saved my life. Zounds, I am afraid of this gunpowder Percy, though he be dead; how if he should counterfeit too, and rise? By my faith, I am afraid he would prove the better counterfeit. Therefore I'll make him sure; yea, and I'll swear I kill'd him. Why may not he rise as well as I? Nothing confutes me b ut eyes, and nobody sees me. Therefore, sirrah [stabbing him], with a new wound in your thigh, come you along with me.

[He takes up HOTSPUR on his back.

Re-enter the PRINCE OF WALES and PRINCE JOHN OF

LANCASTER.

PRINCE: Come, brother John, full bravely hast thou flesh'd 20

Thy maiden sword.

PRINCE JOHN: But, soft! whom have we here?

Did you not tell me this fat man was dead?

PRINCE: I did; I saw him dead,

Breathless and bleeding on the ground. Art thou alive?

Or is it fantasy that plays upon our eyesight? I prithee speak; we will not trust our eyes

Without our ears: thou art not what thou seem'st.

FALSTAFF: No, that's certain: I am not a double man; but if I be not Jack

Falstaff, then am I a Jack. There is Percy [throwing the body down]; if your father will do me any honour, so; if not, let him kill the next Percy himself. I look to be either ear I or duke, I can assure you.

PRINCE: Why, Percy I kill'd myself, and saw thee dead.

FALSTAFF: Didst thou? Lord, Lord, how this world is given to lying! 35

I grant you I was down and out of breath, and so was he; but we rose both at an instant, and fought a long hour by Shrewsbury clock. If I may be believ'd, so; if not, let them that should reward valour bear the sin upon their own heads. I'll take it upon my death, I gave him this wound in the thigh; if the man were alive, and would deny it, zounds, I would make him eat a piece of my sword.

PRINCE JOHN: This is the strangest tale that ever I heard. PRINCE: This is the strangest fellow, brother John.

Come, bring your luggage nobly on your back. 45

For my part, if a lie may do thee grace, I'll gild it with the happiest terms I have.

[A retreat is sounded.

The trumpet sounds retreat; the day is ours. Come, brother, let us to the highest of the field, To see what friends are living, who are dead.

50

[Exeunt the PRINCE and PRINCE JOHN OF LANCASTER. FALSTAFF: I'll follow, as they say, for reward. He that rewards me, God reward him! If I do grow great, I'll grow less; for I'll purge, and leave sack, and live cleanly, as a nobleman should do.

55 [Exit.

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS: A Streetcar Named Desire

To what extent do you sympathise with this view of Blanche?

Or (b) With close reference to the passage, discuss the significance of this episode to your understanding of Blanche's character and motives.

MITCH: You want a drink?

MITCH: Just give me a slap whenever I step out of bounds.

Scene 6

OSCAR WILDE: An Ideal Husband

5 Either (a) '... public and private life are different things. They have different laws, and move on different lines.' (Sir Robert Chiltern) How, and with what effects, does Wilde dramatise the tension between public and private life in An Ideal Husband? Or (b) With close reference to detail, discuss Wilde's presentation of the relationship between Mrs Cheveley and Lady Chiltern at this point in the play. LADY CHILTERN [Makes no answer, but remains standing. There is a pause. Then the eves of the two women meet. LADY CHILTERN looks stern and pale. MRS CHEVELEY seems rather amused]: Mrs Cheveley. I think it is right to tell you guite frankly that, had I known who you really were, I should not have invited you to 5 my house last night. MRS CHEVELEY [With an impertinent smile]: Really? I could not have done so. LADY CHILTERN: MRS CHEVELEY: I see that after all these years you have not changed a bit, 10 Gertrude. LADY CHILTERN: I never change. MRS CHEVELEY [Elevating her eyebrows]: Then life has taught you nothing? It has taught me that a person who has once been guilty of LADY CHILTERN: a dishonest and dishonourable action may be guilty of it a 15 second time, and should be shunned. MRS CHEVELEY: Would you apply that rule to everyone? Yes, to everyone, without exception. LADY CHILTERN: MRS CHEVELEY: Then I am sorry for you, Gertrude, very sorry for you. You see now, I am sure, that for many reasons any further LADY CHILTERN: acquaintance between us during your stay in London is quite 20 impossible? MRS CHEVELEY [Leaning back in her chair]: Do you know, Gertrude, I don't mind your talking morality a bit. Morality is simply the attitude we adopt towards people whom we personally dislike. You dislike me. 25 I am quite a ware of that. And I have always detested you. And yet I have come here to do you a service. LADY CHILTERN [Contemptuously]: Like the service you wished to render my husband last night, I suppose. Thank heaven, I saved him from that. MRS CHEVELEY [Starting to her feet]: It was you who made him write that insolent letter to me? It was you who made him break his promise? 30 LADY CHILTERN: Yes. MRS CHEVELEY: Then you must make him keep it. I give you till tomorrow morning – no more. If by that time your husband does not solemnly bind himself to help me in this great scheme in which I am interested -35 LADY CHILTERN: This fraudulent speculation – MRS CHEVELEY: Call it what you choose. I hold your husband in the hollow of my hand, and if you are wise you will make him do what I tell him. LADY CHILTERN [Rising and going to wards her]: You are impertinent. What has my 40 husband to do with you? With a woman like you? MRS CHEVELEY [With a bitter laugh]: In this world like meets with like. It is because your husband is himself fraudulent and dishonest that we pair so well together. Between you and him there are chasms. He and I are closer than friends. We are enemies 45 linked together. The same sin binds us.

LADY CHILTERN: How dare you class my husband with yourself? How dare you threaten him or me? Leave my house. You are unfit to enter it.

SIR ROBERT CHILTERN enters from behind. He hears his 50 wife's last words, and sees to whom they are addressed.

He grows deadly pale.

MRS CHEVELEY: Your house! A house bought with the price of dishonour.

A house, everything in which has been paid for by fraud. [Turns round and sees SIR ROBERT CHILTERN] Ask him 55 what the origin of his fortune is! Get him to tell you how he sold to a stockbroker a Cabinet secret. Learn from him to what you owe your position.

LADY CHILTERN: It is not true! Robert! It is not true!

MRS CHEVELEY [Pointing at him with outstretched finger]: Look at him! Can he deny 60 it? Does he dare to?

SIR ROBERT CHILTERN: Go! Go at once. You have done your worst now.

MRS CHEVELEY: My worst? I have not yet finished with you, with either of you.

I give you both till tomorrow at noon. If by then you don't do what I bid you to do, the whole world shall know the origin of 65

Robert Chiltern.

SIR ROBERT CHILTERN strikes the bell. Enter MASON

SIR ROBERT CHILTERN: Show Mrs Cheveley out.
