General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the first candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the last.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- There is no ceiling on achievement. All marks on the mark scheme should be used appropriately.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification may be limited.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, the team leader must be consulted.
- Crossed out work should be marked UNLESS the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

Question	Content and communication (AO2)
9	The candidate should have referred to the following bullet points: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Which aspects of the job of a sports model are of interest and why.• To what extent the job of a sports model has negative sides.• Which characteristics could be of use to a model.• Whether models earn too much. Indicative content Sport modelling is not all about physical appearances. Mention could be made of extra income, travel and experience, thus raising self-confidence. It is an opportunity to showcase non-physical qualities for keen sportsmen and women. There could still be the negative side that appearance is prized over positive characteristics. The role will doubtless have more interested parties than contracts available, so there will be frequent disappointments and set-backs. Being a sports model could take time away from the sport itself and could end up compromising training schedules. The emphasis of this bullet point can shift to modelling in general rather than sports models, but not necessarily so. Perseverance, resilience and determination might be mentioned, but any characteristics if justified, could be acceptable. Confidence, self-publicity or more negative traits could equally be mentioned. Any view if supported is acceptable. Some may feel that the work is very demanding, niche, skilled and insecure, so high salaries are infrequent but justifiable. Others may feel that modelling is excessively remunerated, when more caring or arguably worthy professions, for example, receive comparatively little emolument.
