

Modified Enlarged 24pt
OXFORD CAMBRIDGE AND RSA EXAMINATIONS

Thursday 26 May 2022 – Morning

A Level History A

Y308/01 The Catholic Reformation
1492–1610

Time allowed: 2 hours 30 minutes
plus your additional time allowance

YOU MUST HAVE:
the OCR 12-page Answer Booklet

READ INSTRUCTIONS OVERLEAF

INSTRUCTIONS

Use black ink.

Write your answer to each question in the Answer Booklet. The question numbers must be clearly shown.

Fill in the boxes on the front of the Answer Booklet.

Answer the question in Section A and ANY TWO questions in Section B.

INFORMATION

The total mark for this paper is 80.

The marks for each question are shown in brackets [ ].

Quality of extended response will be assessed in questions marked with an asterisk (*).

ADVICE

Read each question carefully before you start your answer.

SECTION A

Read the two passages and then answer Question 1.

- 1 Evaluate the interpretations in BOTH of the two passages and explain which you think is more convincing as an explanation of the effect of the St Bartholomew's Day Massacre. [30]

PASSAGE A

For the Protestants, the massacres proved to be catastrophic. The victims of the massacres, however, formed only the tip of the iceberg of Huguenot casualties. The real impact of the St Bartholomew's massacres was felt less in the actual killings than in the defections that took place over the next few months. The massacres not only put a permanent end to the growth of the reformed faith in France, they brought about an immediate and catastrophic decline in the numbers, strength, and zeal of the Protestant movement.

The intellectual and psychological impact of the massacres on the Huguenots was just as great, however. The optimism of the 1560s, when growth and expansion of the reformed movement was at its height, paled significantly in the wake of St Bartholomew's night. Not only had the king turned against the Huguenots, but to many it seemed as if God had abandoned them as well. When the Calvinist minister Hugues Sureau renounced Protestantism after the massacres, he made it clear that he considered the massacres to be a sign of God's displeasure with the Protestant movement. Despair and impotence were the principal feelings of many Huguenots, who must have realised how powerless they were to defend themselves against the overwhelming majority of Catholics in the kingdom.

Adapted from: M. P. Holt, The French Wars of Religion, 1562–1629, published in 2005.

PASSAGE B

French Protestantism was decapitated. Of the principal leaders, only Henry of Navarre had been spared – and he thought it prudent to renounce his faith. Many humbler Huguenots followed suit, fearing for themselves and their families, seeking Catholic baptism.

It is clear, however, that there was a significant change in French Protestantism as a political and military force as a result of the massacre. In the first three civil wars, in all the confusion of motives and varying interests of family and locality, there can be seen a residual loyalty to the crown: it was surely not the crown, as an institution, that was amiss, but its policies. The enemy was the House of Guise and its associates, seen as aliens, indifferent to the traditions of France. But now the crown was the enemy. Future wars would be fought first against the authority of the king who had sanctioned the massacre, then against his successor. Henry III would be suspect or damned in Huguenot eyes by his association with the theology and the religious and foreign policies of the House of Guise. Resistance acquired a sterner tone, a more radical mindset. The more the crown pressed, the more determined would be the response.

Adapted from: G. Treasure, The Huguenots, published in 2013.

SECTION B

Answer TWO of the following three questions.

2* ‘Monarchs were unsympathetic to the Catholic Reformation in the period from 1492 to 1610.’ How far do you agree? [25]

3* ‘The Papacy made a greater contribution to the Catholic Reformation than the new religious orders during the years from 1492 to 1610.’ How far do you agree? [25]

4* ‘The Catholic Reformation had little impact, except in Italy, in the period from 1492 to 1610.’ How far do you agree? [25]

END OF QUESTION PAPER

Copyright Information

OCR is committed to seeking permission to reproduce all third-party content that it uses in its assessment materials. OCR has attempted to identify and contact all copyright holders whose work is used in this paper. To avoid the issue of disclosure of answer-related information to candidates, all copyright acknowledgements are reproduced in the OCR Copyright Acknowledgements Booklet. This is produced for each series of examinations and is freely available to download from our public website (www.ocr.org.uk) after the live examination series.

If OCR has unwittingly failed to correctly acknowledge or clear any third-party content in this assessment material, OCR will be happy to correct its mistake at the earliest possible opportunity.

For queries or further information please contact The OCR Copyright Team, The Triangle Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8EA.

OCR is part of Cambridge University Press & Assessment, which is itself a department of the University of Cambridge.