TT05 Marketing in Travel and Tourism

Mark Scheme 2006 examination – June series

Mark schemes are prepared by the Principal Examiner and considered, together with the relevant questions, by a panel of subject teachers. This mark scheme includes any amendments made at the standardisation meeting attended by all examiners and is the scheme which was used by them in this examination. The standardisation meeting ensures that the mark scheme covers the candidates' responses to questions and that every examiner understands and applies it in the same correct way. As preparation for the standardisation meeting each examiner analyses a number of candidates' scripts: alternative answers not already covered by the mark scheme are discussed at the meeting and legislated for. If, after this meeting, examiners encounter unusual answers which have not been discussed at the meeting they are required to refer these to the Principal Examiner.

It must be stressed that a mark scheme is a working document, in many cases further developed and expanded on the basis of candidates' reactions to a particular paper. Assumptions about future mark schemes on the basis of one year's document should be avoided; whilst the guiding principles of assessment remain constant, details will change, depending on the content of a particular examination paper.

Question	Expected answer	Mark allocation	Assessment evidence criteria
2(a)	 Possible answers include: Visitors discouraged by lack of good accommodation. Attractions of four-star hotel (eg gym, beauty salon, golf course) absent. If not staying in the area, visitors will not spend in other local attractions or restaurants. Servicing a big hotel would also create more jobs in the area. Tour operators' difficulty in finding accommodation for groups. Point mark 1 mark for simple points, or plus 1 if well-developed. 	4	AO1 AO2
2(b)(i) (ii)	"the proximity of Scotland and Donegal as complementary destinations" "strong private sector interest in providing tourism infrastructure and services"	1	AO1
2(c)	 Possible answers include: Distribution of wealth Disposable income Inflation Interest rates Exchange rates Grants Private/public sector investment Sponsorship Taxes Level of Unemployment. Point Mark 1 mark for simple points, or plus 1 if well-developed.	4	AO1

Question	Expected answer	Mark allocation	Assessment evidence criteria
2(d)	 Possible answers include: Websites allow customers to get information, buy and give feedback. Reservation is computerised and organisations make on-line sales. Build databases which remember customers' details and preferences. Can market to individual consumers directly. Market research – collect and analyse market intelligence quickly and use in marketing campaign management. Consumers' choices and opinions can be analysed easily. All departments – sales, delivery, help-desk, after-sales support, accounts – in an organisation have access to customer information and customer has access to them. New forms of advertising e.g. displays using technological methods. "Customers can look up information about a flight on its website at any time from anywhere in the world, and make a reservation on-line. A discounted price is given for on-line booking. There are no tickets. The website is always up-to-date. The computer remembers customers' contact information and their preferences. The airline runs an occasional e-mail marketing campaign, customers can be called on birthdays and anniversaries. The database of customer details built up can be analysed for market research". Level 1 Candidate describes one or two ways, weakly linked to marketing. Level 2 Candidate describes a range of ways (e.g. 3) and gives some detail. Explains link to marketing clearly. 	1 - 3 4 - 6	AO2 AO3 AO4

Question	Expected answer	Mark allocation	Assessment evidence criteria
2(e)	 Candidates should compare their key market segments with these types: The GC mainly attracts adults, touring in cars or in coach parties. They like to see unspoilt scenery ('the natural resource underpins visitor interest') and historic or heritage attractions (Castle and Distillery). They enjoy folklore, guided tours, interpretation and short walks. International cruise passengers join these coach tours. The GCVC provides for 5 foreign languages. The GC attracts some better off visitors who have higher spend and some school groups, but would like to attract more. 		AO1 AO2 AO3 AO4
	Covering one organisation only will restrict to level 1. Level 1 Simple identification of customer types May state key target markets of both organisations. More knowledge of segments (eg ABCDE/ life cycle) at top of level Little attention to the comparative task. Level 2 Strong knowledge of market segment types Good explanation of which markets are key (GC includes NT members, groups, coach and cruise companies) Comparative points bring out important differences/similarities	1 - 4 5 - 8

3(a)	 Possible answers include: Pattern from January to December, seasonal/shoulder/peak. Change from 2003 to 2004: an increase of 40 per cent. In one day 18 coaches arrived, multiple trips. Between 11 and 49 passengers. Pattern of coaches versus other modes. Point mark 1 mark for simple points, or plus 1 if well-developed.	4	AO1 AO2
3(b)	 Credit four points such as: Nationality Age Type of holiday Place of residence Previous / next stops Duration of tour Source of information about GC Purchases made today. Credit one further mark for each answer that explains why e.g. "If the GCVC knew where the customer had heard about it, they would know where to advertise in the future". Do not credit information taken from Tables 7-8. 	4 × 2 = 8	AO2 AO3

3(c)	2 marks for each method1 mark for name of appropriate method or basic description.	1 -2
	2 marks for an outline of a suitable method.
	Possible methods include:
	 Questionnaire/survey Observation Customer comment cards Purchase records 		AO1
	Consumer panel/focus group, etcInterview		AO3 AO4
	Other approaches to answering the question might be adopted. 3 marks for evaluating the merits of each method, such as:
	Expense; time taken to gather information; up-to-date; reliable; meets a specific information need; confidential; uses few human resources, etc.	1 - 3
	"They could observe by recording customers' behaviour and reactions on video or CCTV as they arrive on the coach. This method allows you to see what customers wish to do – whether they go straight to the Stones, or shop or have refreshments and how long they take to do all these things".	5 × 2 = 10

Question	Expected answer	Mark allocation	Assessment evidence criteria
4(a)	 Possible comparison of content - Information centre (IC) leaflet describes the story that can be heard on the show; Distillery (D) also describes the drink fully. IC says little about the Causeway – D describes the drink fully. IC has much detail about the pricing policy – D only says there is an admission charge. Both have advance booking. Contact IC by phone and email: D gives website. IC gives no information on opening times or dates or location – but D is detailed on all these, including a map. IC shows it is accessible to foreign visitors. D mentions shop and restaurant. Both use images – IC on myth; D on heritage. IC style is eye-catching and lively, emphasises excitement; D is more formal and serious, emphasising craft and quality. The AIDA Technique would be helpful to analyse the adverts' effectiveness. Level 1 Deals with design or content or both. States which is more effective with simple justifications Level 2 Good feel for the style of the leaflets and the image being conveyed. Analyses what makes the leaflets effective, giving reasons.	1 - 3 4 - 6	AO2 AO4

4(b)	Possible answers includ
	Coach operators' exhibition	Allows face to face discussion to explain and go into detail. Direct response from coach company. Create awareness of new developments
	• Advertising in coach trade publications	Impact of good print quality and full colour. Long lifespan – can be kept and re-read. Target the specific group markets through nature of article/advert.
	• Familiarisation trips for the press, travel trade and tour operators	Enjoyable. Puts buyers in good mood. Use luxury coach, gourmet food, drink, host, good hospitality, etc. will all help. Full impact of seeing the stones.		AO2 AO4

Question	Expected answer	Mark allocation	Assessment evidence criteria
4(c)	Possible answers for a named organisation (GC is permitted) may include: Customers expect organisations to have websites. Website shows the organisation in a good light on-line. Design, links and fitness for purpose will make it effective. Customers have access anytime, from anywhere. Communicates up-to-date information to customers. Consumers can also receive information about complimentary offers and ancillary products e.g. as pop-ups. Customers can research their own information, self-package. Ability to book on-line securely and with a discounted price. On-line communities provide a forum for customers, so organisation gets feedback from customers. Hits received via search engines can be increased. Value.		AO3 AO4
	Level 1 Describes importance of website's greater reach to customers and as an information source. Mentions wider scope (for joint-marketing, booking online, feedback).	1 - 4
	Level 2 Better description of the importance for marketing as above Explains and evaluates advantages. Top of level: Draws conclusions on the importance of website and will take into account the organisation's objectives.	5 - 8
