Answer questions from either Option 1 or Option 2.

Option 1: The Greeks defend themselves, 499–479 BC

SECTION A

Answer all the questions in this section.

- 1 Briefly outline two reasons why Darius sent expeditions against Greece. [5]
- 2 Read Passage 1A from Herodotus, and answer the questions which follow.

Passage 1A

Mardonius said this because he was eager for change and wanted himself to be in control of Greece. As time went by he worked on Xerxes and persuaded him so that he did what he wanted. There were other things as well which helped persuade Xerxes. From the Aleuadai (who were the leading family in Thessaly) messengers arrived, showing great enthusiasm, who invited the King into Greece. As well as this, those members of the family of Peisistratus who had come to Susa used the same arguments as the Aleuadai and in addition offered still more; they brought with them an Athenian man called Onomacritus, a soothsayer and the arranger of the oracles of Mousaios.

Herodotus, The Histories 7.6

- (a) What does Passage 1A tell us about what persuaded Xerxes to invade Greece? [4]
- (b) Using details from Passage 1A, explain why the Aleuadai and the members of the family of Peisistratus wanted Xerxes to invade Greece. [4]
- (c) Using details from Passage 1A, explain how accurate you think Herodotus' account of these events is. [5]

Option 1: The Greeks defend themselves, 499–479 BC

- 3 Read Passage 1B from Herodotus, and answer the questions which follow.

Passage 1B

When Demaratus heard this, he spoke as follows: "King, since you tell me to be completely truthful and say nothing which can be shown to be a lie later by you, in Greece poverty has always been our companion, but courage we have gained for ourselves, achieved through wisdom and strong law; through her courage, Greece has kept away poverty and despotism. I praise all the Greeks who live in the Dorian lands, but I am going to speak not about all of them but about the Spartans only: firstly it is impossible for them to accept terms from you if it means slavery for Greece, and, secondly, they will oppose you even if all the other Greeks surrender. As for the number of men, do not consider whether they have sufficient forces to do this; for if one thousand men happen to be drawn up for battle, they will fight you, and this is true whether there are more than this or fewer."

Herodotus, The Histories 7.102

- (a) In what ways does Passage 1B help us to understand why some Greeks resisted the Persian invasion?

You must use and evaluate details from Passage 1B.

[14]

- (b) In your opinion, how far does Herodotus help us to understand why the Greeks were able to defeat the Persians in 480/79 BC?

You must use and evaluate details from both Passage 1B and other passages of Herodotus which you have studied.

[18]

Option 1: The Greeks defend themselves, 499–479 BC

SECTION B

Answer either Question 4 or Question 5.

Marks are awarded for the quality of written communication in your answer.

- 4 ‘Without Miltiades, Athens would have been doomed in 490 BC.’ Using Herodotus’ account, explain to what extent you agree with this view of Miltiades’ role at Marathon.

In your answer you should:

- give a brief account of events before, during and after the battle of Marathon;
- explain how important you think Miltiades’ role was for Athens;
- show knowledge of relevant sections of Herodotus;
- consider how reliable you think Herodotus is.

Option 2: Alexander the Great, 356–323 BC

Do not answer questions from this option if you have already answered Option 1.

SECTION A

Answer all the questions in this section.

- 6 Briefly outline two reasons for Alexander's expedition against Persia in 334 BC. [5]
- 7 Read Passage 2A from Diodorus Siculus, and answer the questions which follow.

Passage 2A

Pausanias applied this saying to his personal anger, and, allowing no postponement of his plan because of his sense of being wronged, put his plan into action during this festival in the following manner. He positioned horses by the gates to the city and went to the entrance of the theatre with a Celtic dagger hidden from view. When Philip told those friends who were accompanying him to go into the theatre before he did, the bodyguards kept their distance, then Pausanias, seeing that the king was alone, ran up to him and striking him straight through the ribs left him dead on the ground; then he sprinted for the gates and the horses he had readied for flight. At once some of the bodyguards rushed to the body of the king, while the others poured out in pursuit of the killer: in this group were Leonnatus and Perdiccas and Attalus.

Diodorus Siculus, Library of History 16.94

- (a) Describe briefly Pausanias' actions in Passage 2A. [4]
- (b) Explain what Passage 2A tells us about the relationship between Philip and his men. [4]
- (c) Using details from Passage 2A, explain how accurate you think Diodorus Siculus' account of these events is. [5]

Option 2: Alexander the Great, 356–323 BC

- 8 Read Passage 2B from Plutarch, and answer the questions which follow.

Passage 2B

He leapt up and shouted out in Macedonian, calling for his armour bearers (this was a sign of great tumult) . . . When Cleitus would not give up the quarrel, his friends with difficulty thrust him out of the hall. Cleitus tried to enter again through a different door, declaiming very contemptuously and boldly this line of Euripides from his play Andromache: “Alas, how badly things are controlled in Greece!” Then Alexander, taking a spear from one of his guards, came face-to-face with Cleitus as he drew back the curtain in front of the door, and ran him through. He fell with a groan and a bellow, and at once Alexander’s anger vanished. When he returned to his senses and seeing his friends standing around him speechless, he dragged the spear out of the dead body and tried to impale himself in the neck, but was prevented by his bodyguards, who restrained him and carried him by force into his bedroom.

Plutarch, Life of Alexander 51

- (a) In what ways does Passage 2B help us to understand Alexander’s behaviour towards those who opposed him?

You must use and evaluate details from Passage 2B.

[14]

- (b) How typical of Alexander’s behaviour is the description in Passage 2B?

You must use and evaluate details from both Passage 2B and other ancient sources which you have studied.

[18]

Option 2: Alexander the Great, 356–323 BC*SECTION B

Answer either Question 9 or Question 10.

Marks are awarded for the quality of written communication in your answer.

- 9 ‘Alexander’s successes depended entirely on his Macedonian army.’ Using Arrian and Plutarch, explain how far you agree with this view.

In your answer you should:

- give a brief account of the contribution of the Macedonian army to Alexander’s successes;
- explain how important other factors were to his successes;
- show knowledge of relevant sections of Arrian and Plutarch;
- consider how reliable you think Arrian and Plutarch are.

[30]

 Spelling, punctuation and grammar

[6]

- 10 How far do the ancient sources help us to understand Alexander’s attitude towards deification?

In your answer you should:

- give an account of Alexander’s actions relating to deification;
- explain what these actions tell us about his attitude to deification;
- show knowledge of relevant sections of Arrian and Plutarch;
- consider how accurate you think Arrian and Plutarch are.
