Malcolm Davis lives in a small village in the South of England. Twenty years ago he set up a haulage business when he bought a lorry. At the start he operated his business as a sole trader. Malcolm used the lorry to transport goods around the South of England. Businesses would pay him to come to their premises, load up with stocks of raw materials or finished goods and transport these to their customers.

Malcolm's business was very successful and expanded over the years. He is now Managing Director of MD Transport Ltd. The business currently owns 60 lorries and transports goods throughout the United Kingdom. MD Transport Ltd employs 80 lorry drivers. Its head office is based in the village where Malcolm still lives. The head office has employees working in all the main functional areas. There is also a workshop/maintenance depot on this site.

MD Transport Ltd operates in an enterprising way.

- It has bought more lorries which are different sizes, so that if a customer only wants a small load delivering, money and resources will not be wasted. A big lorry would use more fuel than a small lorry.
- MD Transport Ltd has also bought refrigerated lorries so that it can attract new customers who want to transport frozen or cold food.
- Customers can now make bookings over the Internet.

Buying extra lorries has meant that the depot in Malcolm’s village has become a lot busier with more lorries moving around.
