Mark Scheme

Mark schemes are prepared by the Principal Examiner and considered, together with the relevant questions, by a panel of subject teachers. This mark scheme includes any amendments made at the standardisation meeting attended by all examiners and is the scheme which was used by them in this examination. The standardisation meeting ensures that the mark scheme covers the students' responses to questions and that every examiner understands and applies it in the same correct way. As preparation for the standardisation meeting each examiner analyses a number of students' scripts: alternative answers not already covered by the mark scheme are discussed at the meeting and legislated for. If, after this meeting, examiners encounter unusual answers which have not been discussed at the meeting they are required to refer these to the Principal Examiner.

It must be stressed that a mark scheme is a working document, in many cases further developed and expanded on the basis of students' reactions to a particular paper. Assumptions about future mark schemes on the basis of one year's document should be avoided; whilst the guiding principles of assessment remain constant, details will change, depending on the content of a particular examination paper.

Further copies of this Mark Scheme are available to download from the AQA Website: www.aqa.org.uk

INTRODUCTION

The information provided for each question is intended to be a guide to the kind of answers anticipated and is neither exhaustive nor prescriptive. All appropriate responses should be given credit.

Where Greek and Latin terms appear in the Mark Scheme, they do so generally for the sake of brevity. Knowledge of such terms, other than those given in the specification, is not required. However, when determining the level of response for a particular answer, examiners should take into account any instances where the student uses Greek or Latin terms effectively to aid the clarity and precision of the argument.

DESCRIPTIONS OF LEVELS OF RESPONSE

The following procedure must be adopted in marking by levels of response:

- read the answer as a whole
- work down through the descriptors to find the one which best fits
- where there is more than one mark available in a level, determine the mark from the mark range judging whether the answer is nearer to the level above or to the one below.

Since answers will rarely match a descriptor in all respects, examiners must allow good performance in some aspects to compensate for shortcomings in other respects. Consequently, the level is determined by the 'best fit' rather than requiring every element of the descriptor to be matched. Examiners should aim to use the full range of levels and marks, taking into account the standard that can reasonably be expected of students after one or two years of study on the GCSE course and in the time available in the examination.

Mark SchemeTopic A Herodotus, *The Persian Wars

- 1 (a) Which people had just warned Leonidas that the Persians were about to surround him?

Two from: seer (Megistias) – deserters – lookouts

AO1 (2 marks)

- (b) Why had Ephialtes told the Persians about the secret track?

In hope of reward

AO1 (1 mark)

- (c) Explain why Leonidas had come with only 300 Spartans.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	One simple, relevant reason	1 mark
Level 2	One relevant reason with development or two simple, relevant reasons	2 marks

Spartans were celebrating the Carneia festival. The Spartans wanted to encourage the Greek allies to take the field and not go over to the Persian side. Some Greeks had already deserted and they thought others might if the Spartans didn't appear at all. They had not expected the battle to take place so quickly.

AO2 (2 marks)

- (d) How did Leonidas secure the future of Sparta by staying at Thermopylae (lines 7-8)?

According to prophecy / seer, Delphi – Sparta would be overthrown unless one of her kings fell.

AO2 (2 marks)

- (e) What do you admire about Leonidas and the Greeks in the final hours of the battle?

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	Opinion supported by simple reason	1 mark
Level 2	Limited evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, but more than a simple reason is given	2 marks
Level 3	Some clear evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, with good development	3 marks

Fought knowing they would die. Spears were now broken and so killed Persians with their swords. Beat off enemy four times to recover Leonidas' body. Withdrew into pass or little hill and fought with hands and teeth. Dieneces was the bravest. But – Thebans surrendered and said they had been forced to fight.

AO3 (3 marks)

2 (a) Name the King mentioned in line 4.

Xerxes

AO1 (1 mark)

(b) The Ionians were considered to be the King's best allies. Explain how Themistocles planned to deprive the King of their support.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	Limited understanding, but something worthy of credit	1 mark
Level 2	Some clear understanding	2 marks
Level 3	Some clear understanding with good development	3 marks

He sailed along the coast and called at all the beaches where there was drinking water and so the Ionians would definitely stop there. He left messages carved on the rocks asking them to come over to the Greek side or at least fight half – heartedly. He reminded them that they were descended from the Greeks and that the Ionians had caused the war in the first place by revolting.

AO2 (3 marks)

(c) The King now invited the Persian troops to look around the battlefield of Thermopylae. What preparations did he make for their visit?

Buried vast number (19,000) of Persians – and only left a few (1,000) on show.

AO1 (2 marks)

(d) Give one reason why Herodotus was so interested in the part played by Queen Artemisia.

They were both from Halicarnassus / it was unusual to find a woman on the battlefield / she was the only female captain, commander.

AO2 (1 mark)

(e) Do you admire Queen Artemisia? Give reasons for your answer.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	Opinion supported by simple reason	1 mark
Level 2	Limited evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, but more than a simple reason is given	2 marks
Level 3	Some clear evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, with good development	3 marks

Allow reasonable judgement. Students may mention:
Prepared to speak out against Xerxes' plans. Gave very shrewd advice about attacking Peloponnese. Realised he would lose a naval battle. Prepared to fight. Ramm'd friendly ship. A woman fighting in a sea battle.

AO3 (3 marks)

3 (a)(i) What preparations did Xerxes make for a successful journey into Greece with his army?

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	A basic answer. Something relevant and worthy of credit. Spelling, punctuation, and grammar may obscure meaning.	1-2 marks
Level 2	A sound answer. Some clear, relevant knowledge. Some classical terms used where appropriate. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are sufficiently accurate not to obscure meaning.	3-4 marks
Level 3	A good answer. Clear, relevant knowledge with some development. Classical terms generally used where appropriate. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are generally accurate and meaning is generally clear.	5-6 marks
Level 4	An excellent, well-organised answer. Clear, relevant knowledge with good development. Classical terms used consistently. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate and meaning is clear.	7-8 marks

First coded Egyptian uprising and then raised a huge army over 4 years. Dug a canal through Mount Athos. Built a bridge across the River Strymon. Supplies were stockpiled along army's route. Stores were shipped from all over Asia. Demanded earth and water from Greeks with exception of Athens and Sparta. Built two bridges across the Hellespont.

AO1 (8 marks)

(a)(ii) Explain why Artabanus and Mardonius had different opinions about the wisdom of this invasion.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	A basic answer. Limited understanding, but something worthy of credit. Spelling, punctuation, and grammar may obscure meaning.	1-2 marks
Level 2	A sound answer. Some clear understanding. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are sufficiently accurate not to obscure meaning.	3-4 marks

Level 4	An excellent answer. Clear understanding with good development. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate and meaning is clear.	7-8 marks

Mardonius was possibly scared of Xerxes and told him what he wanted to hear. He believed that the Persians would be successful as they had conquered other nations and had a much bigger army. He felt he knew the Greeks as he had led a force into Macedonia and he wasn't impressed by the way they fought each other.

Artabanus was Xerxes' uncle and so prepared to contradict him. He reminded Xerxes that they had lost at Marathon and Greeks had great reputation as fighters. He was worried that Xerxes might be stranded if the bridges across the Hellespont were cut down. He worried that 'God strikes down the mighty'.

Also considered logistics of finding suitable harbours and food for such a large army.

AO2 (8 marks)

(a)(iii) What impression of Xerxes' personality have you gained from reading Herodotus? Explain your answer.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks

Level 4	A good answer addressing most aspects of the question. Some clear evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, with some development. Form and style of writing are generally appropriate to answer question.	7-8 marks
Level 5	An excellent answer addressing all aspects of the question. Clear evaluation and personal response, as required by the question. Form and style of writing are appropriate to answer question.	9-10 marks

Allow any reasonable interpretation of:

Willingness to listen to advisers including the Greek Damaratus
 Damaratus is considered a friend and guest
 Xerxes' confidence in victory
 Does not punish those who give him advice he does not follow, e.g. Damaratus and Artemisia
 3 Greek spies spared
 Made careful preparations, e.g. Athos canal
 Sensitivity – weeping for his men at Abydos
 Communicates well with his commanders at Abydos; respects the Greeks but will defeat them for the glory of Persia
 Lashes / brands Hellepont; executes builders of 1st bridge
 The treatment of Pythius' eldest son
 Men often move under the lash – cross Hellepont, fight at Thermopylae
 Brands Thebans after Thermopylae
 Leonidas' head placed on a spike
 Xerxes tries to cover the bodies of Persian dead after Thermopylae
 Everyone in the Persian fleet did their best at Salamis because they felt that Xerxes was watching him alone
 Beheads Phoenicians at Salamis, but
 Records names of captains who do well at Salamis
 Cautious: quick retreat after Salamis to protect Hellepont bridges
 Artemisia's speech and actions delight Xerxes

Various sacrifices, including ordering sacrifices on Athens' captured Acropolis
Ambition / greed: desire to expand into Europe

AO3 (10 marks)

(b)(i) What methods does Herodotus use to make his narrative entertaining?

One of Xerxes' motives was to punish the Athenians for Marathon and burning of Sardis so Herodotus acknowledges their successes.

Prepared to ignore expert interpretation of Salamis prophecy and fight at sea. He actually says they saved Greece.

Allowed Eurybiades to command at Artemisium to preserve unity.

People competed to capture an Athenian ship as that was main topic of conversation in Persian camp.
Says they were the best fighters at Artemisium. Lists the number of ships they contributed and lost.
Defence of Acropolis.
Role of Themistocles in lead up to Salamis.
According to one version of events the Athenians started the battle of Salamis.
Aristides captured Psyttalea and killed all Persians there.

Terrible.

When preparations go wrong bridge engineers were executed.
Pythius terrified for sons and Xerxes had eldest one executed.
Thermopylae – ferocity of fighting. Treatment of Leonidas' corpse.
Capture of Acropolis.
Grief when news of defeat reached Persia.
Loss of life in battles.

Glorious.

Magnificence of Persian troops and equipment.
Greeks decided to put aside internal disputes and fight together.
Thermopylae.
Defence of Acropolis.
Artemisium and Salamis.

Topic B Virgil, Aeneid

4 (a)(i) Name Pyrrhus' father.

Achilles

AO1 (1 mark)

(a)(ii) Where was his father?

Underworld / land of dead (but not he is dead).

AO1 (1 mark)

(b)(i) Who is the old man (line 3)?

Priam / King of Troy

AO1 (1 mark)

(b)(ii) What terrible thing had the old man just seen?

Killing / murder of his son (Polites)
Not allowed: 'death' of son

AO1 (1 mark)

(c) How does Virgil make the reader feel sorry for the old man in this passage?

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	Limited understanding, but something worthy of credit	1 mark

Insist on AO2. Must not simply restate what Virgil says.

Describes him as quavering (possibly because is old, angry, upset). Is slipping in his own son's blood. Is killed at the altar which his wife had hoped would protect them. Pyrrhus holds his hair so that he can't move and escape and gives Pyrrhus greater purchase. Ferocity of his death with the sword plunged so far into his body. Flashing blade suggests speed of blow.

AO2 (3 marks)

(d) What other horrors of war do you think Virgil shows in the Aeneid Book 2?

Levels of Response

Underhand nature of warfare e.g. Sinon and Wooden Horse, Coroebus' plan to disguise in Greek army. Aeneas and Trojans attacked by own side. All kinds of people die e.g. priests. Fate of families e.g. Hecuba and the princesses, loss of Creusa. Fate of women e.g. Cassandra and women taken as slaves. Buildings set alight. Defenders of palace give up and commit suicide. Aeneas wanted to kill Helen even though she was an unarmed woman.

Not allowed: death of Laocoon

AO3 (3 marks)

5 (a) Who is the Sibyl talking to in this passage?

Charon / Ferryman

AO1 (1 mark)

(b) What does she show him?

Golden bough

AO1 (1 mark)

(c) The Sibyl claims Aeneas was famed for devotion to duty (line1). Give one example of where he shows his devotion to duty and explain your choice.

Allow any reasonable example of pietas provided good reason offered. Most likely are:

concern for men when land in Africa; sends for Iulus to attend banquet; tells Dido story of Troy; fights for Troy; rescues family; won't touch statues with blood-stained hands; returns to look for Creusa; leaves Dido; respect for Venus (numerous examples); visits Anchises in Underworld.

AO2 (3 marks)

(d)(i) What did his father want to show Aeneas while he was in the Underworld?

His descendants / future Romans / parade of heroes

AO1 (1 mark)

(d)(ii) Suggest one reason why he did this.

Accept any reasonable suggestion.

To inspire him / to keep him going / to link the epic to Rome / to praise the Romans / Augustus

He admits that is Greek. He had come to the War as a squire to Palamedes and had earned the enmity of Ulysses by swearing to avenge his death. He had thus been chosen as a human sacrifice to allow the Greeks to return home but had escaped. He said the Horse was an offering to Athena to atone for the Greeks' touching her statue with blood stained hands. It had been made so big to prevent the Trojans taking it into the city as then they would conquer Greece.

When he heard about the affair from Rumour he had complained to his father Jupiter who then sent Mercury to tell Aeneas to leave. Iarbas had given Dido the land on which to build Carthage after she had tricked him with the bull's hide and offered to marry her. She had turned him down because of her vow to Sychaeus and he had accepted this. Now she is having an affair with man who has just been shipwrecked and Iarbas feels cheated and humiliated. He also considered Aeneas to be rather effeminate and less of man than himself. He is the son of Jupiter Ammon and should not be insulted.

AO2 (8 marks)

(a)(iii) 'The male gods cause less trouble than the female goddesses.' To what extent do you agree with this statement? Refer to any of the books of the Aeneid you have read.

Levels of Response

Level 5	An excellent answer addressing all aspects of the question. Clear evaluation and personal response, as required by the question. Form and style of writing are appropriate to answer question.	9-10 marks

Allow any reasonable points. Students may refer to:

Jupiter reassures Venus. He makes sure Dido welcomes the Trojans but later orders Aeneas to leave. He sends the omen to persuade Anchises to leave Troy and the shooting star to show the way out. Reassures Venus.

Neptune saves Aeneas in the storm but only because he is protecting his own power and territory.

Mercury shouts at Aeneas and tells him to leave Carthage.

Cupid thinks the plan to make Dido fall in love is funny. Gleeful as he puts his trick into action.

Venus reassures Aeneas in Book 4 and protects him with the mist. But she causes heartache for him and Dido by making Dido fall in love with him. Goes along with Juno's plan in Book 4. She saves him and his family in Troy and stops him killing Helen. She asks Jupiter to make sure Aeneas receives his destined future. In disguise of huntress.

Juno bribes Aeolus and causes the storm. She helps with the destruction of Troy. She plans the cave scene. She sends Iris to release Dido's soul.

Athena helped Greeks build the Wooden Horse and sent snakes to kill Laocoon.

Also allow reference to Rumour.

A03 (10 marks)

(b)(i) Why did Dido leave Tyre and how did she set about building her new city?

Dido's brother murdered her husband to get his hands on Sychaeus' wealth. Sychaeus' ghost told Dido to leave with the money and go far away from her brother.

When she arrived in Carthage, the local king Iarbas said she could have as much land as she could surround with a bull's hide and she cut it into very long strips. She gave laws to her people and assigned the various building jobs fairly or shared them out by lot. She had people on the coast to safeguard the new city.

She became infatuated with Aeneas and let the building work on the city stop even though they were surrounded by hostile tribes and Pygmalion might attack. Her affair with Aeneas annoyed Iarbas and he might attack and she lost her people's respect. She committed suicide and left them leaderless and cursed them with the Punic Wars which would end with the destruction of Carthage.

Allow any reasonable judgement. Students may refer to:
His initial speech of thanks and the generous (although ill-omened) gifts.
His willingness to tell the story of the fall of Troy.
He slept with her knowing he had to go to Italy and let her believe they were married.
Behaviour in underworld.
He let her find out from Rumour that he was preparing to leave.
His somewhat cold speech to her.
He refused to do as Anna asked and stay a little longer.
He left in the middle of the night.
But he was doing his duty and obeying the gods and they and Fate guided some of his actions.
The Gods took matters out of Aeneas' hands.

7 (a) State two purposes for the grooves shown in the picture.

Starting blocks for athletes' toes / grip for feet – finishing line

AO1 (2 marks)

(b)(i) How long was the running track in the stadium at Olympia?

600 Olympic or Herakles' feet / 1 stade / 192.28m / about 200m

AO1 (1 mark)

(b)(ii) Explain why the track was this length.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	One simple, relevant reason	1 mark
Level 2	One relevant reason with development or two simple, relevant reasons	2 marks

Herakles fixed the distance of the original stade race by measuring out 600 of his feet. Alternatively it was the distance he could run before taking a breath / on one breath.

AO2 (2 marks)

(c) Explain how the track at Olympia was different from a modern outdoor running track.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	One simple, relevant reason	1 mark
Level 2	One relevant reason with development or two simple, relevant reasons	2 marks

Ancient: levelled clay surface with a light cover of sand. Straight track with posts to turn around in multi-lap races. No marked lanes although starting 'gates' were set up

Modern: All-weather synthetic surface. Oval track. Lanes marked out. 400 metres / twice the distance of ancient track

Students may express a personal view about:
 the banks around the track on which ordinary spectators sat;
 there being no seats provided for ordinary spectators;
 the track bulging in the centre by 3m to afford spectators an uninterrupted view of the races;
 the stadium tunnel offering a dramatic entrance;
 judges watching from the exedra while the priestess of Demeter Chamyne had a seat and altar on the opposite bank.

They provided the priestesses of Athena who set up the loom for weaving the peplos; the Arrêphoroi (4 aristocratic girls chosen to serve the goddess); and the Ergastinai who wove the peplos.

Since the peplos was the most important element of the Panathenaic procession, women had a central role to play. These women also took part in the procession itself. Other women also processed, carrying gifts for Athena and representing their sex in Athenian society.

AO2 (3 marks)

- (d) State the piece of evidence from the Acropolis in Athens that depicts the Great Panathenaic procession and the name of the building which it decorated.

The (Parthenon) frieze - Parthenon

AO1 (2 marks)

- (e) Would you have liked to have been a man taking part in the Great Panathenaic procession? Give reasons for your answer.

Levels of Response

Level 2	Limited evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, but more than a simple reason is given	2 marks
Level 3	Some clear evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, with good development	3 marks

Students may express a range of personal views about the following:

Men leading the sacrificial animals

Wealthy metics in purple cloaks, carrying cakes and honeycombs

Bearers of holy water

Musicians playing flutes and lyres

Those who accompanied the ship-cart

Old men carrying olive branches

Charioteers alongside their chariots

Infantry and cavalrymen

Victors in the games

Ordinary Athenian citizens organised by their demes.

However women have significant roles as priestesses, Arrephoroi and Ergastinai

- 9 (a)(i) What did athletes do to prepare themselves to compete in the ancient Olympic Games?

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	A basic answer. Something relevant and worthy of credit. Spelling, punctuation, and grammar may obscure meaning.	1-2 marks
Level 2	A sound answer. Some clear, relevant knowledge. Some classical terms used where appropriate. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are sufficiently accurate not to obscure meaning.	3-4 marks
Level 3	A good answer. Clear, relevant knowledge with some development. Classical terms generally used where appropriate. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are generally accurate and meaning is generally clear.	5-6 marks
Level 4	An excellent, well-organised answer. Clear, relevant knowledge with good development. Classical terms used consistently. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate and meaning is clear.	7-8 marks

Students may mention:

Intensive training for 10 months prior to the Games.

The last month had to be spent at Elis under the supervision of the Hellanodikai.

Participation in heats.

Standard diets were followed: fruit, cheese, vegetables, fish and bread; meat for combat athletes to build muscles.

Massage important to loosen body.

Applying olive oil to the skin may have helped reduce the danger of sunburn.

Athletes would employ personal trainers or be accompanied by fathers or brothers.

However, many would be professional athletes moving from one competition to another (the Pankratiast Theagenes of Thasos won 1,400 crowns at various Greek festivals).

They may worship Zeus Apomyios (Averter of flies) to ward off flies and mosquitoes common at Olympia.

AO1 (8 marks)

(a)(ii) Explain how the Palaistra and Gymnasium at Olympia were well designed to meet the needs of the athletes.

Level 4	An excellent answer. Clear understanding with good development. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate and meaning is clear.	7-8 marks

Students may mention:

Palaistra: courtyard suitable for training in combat sports and jumping;

colonnade on all sides provided shade;

oiling and powdering rooms important for these athletes;

clay floors in most areas replicated stadium;

simple bathing arrangements provided for use after training to supplement other baths at Olympia;

rooms provide training facilities in bad weather with benches all round;

long room in southern colonnade ideal for jumping;

one room may have housed a punchbag.

Gymnasium: long building surrounding open space for runners and throwers; eastern colonnade housed a double running track exactly the same length as the stadium;

sills are here at each end to match the stadium;

surface of beaten earth also matched the stadium

Pausanias mentions living quarters for athletes on the western side (washed away by the Kladeos).

AO2 (8 marks)

(a)(iii) Do you think that all athletes had a fair chance of winning their events at the ancient Olympic Games? Explain your answer.

Levels of Response

Level 5	An excellent answer addressing all aspects of the question. Clear evaluation and personal response, as required by the question. Form and style of writing are appropriate to answer question.	9-10 marks

Students may mention some of the following:

Heats and the supervision of the Hellanodikai in the month before the Games ensured that only the fittest could compete.

No weight categories in combat sports.

No protective equipment or facilities used by athletes.

Some practices in combat sports seem to have been frowned upon but were not considered cheating: e.g. Sostratos of Sikyon, known as "Mr Finger-Tips"

All the running races were held on the afternoon of day 3 (apart from race in armour) so it would be difficult to win more than one due to tiredness and different skills required.

Compact programme might prevent some from entering more than one event.

Contests held in one session so no advantage to be gained by having extra rest compared with your competitors.

3 official discuses were kept at Olympia in Treasury of the Sikyonians.

Official shields for hoplitodromos kept in Temple of Zeus.

Equestrian events required huge sums of money, and the richest might enter several horses / teams in a single race.

Harsh penalties were inflicted on cheats.

Hellanodikai renowned for their fairness.

Students may mention:

Only VIPs would stay at Leonidaion.

Most would pitch tents or build huts on nearby land: little shelter from weather.

The Rivers Alpheios and Kladeos and wells would provide water for washing and drinking.

The Olympic Games were held in the heat of late summer.

Eleans worshipped Zeus Apomyios (Averter of Flies) so flies and mosquitoes must have been a nuisance or health risk.

It was very crowded.

Conditions were hard: a slave was threatened with a visit to Olympia as punishment.

Presumably traders set up stalls to sell food etc..

Students may refer to:

Games had formed an important part of Greek mythology and epic poetry so participation indicated that you were Greek.

Most important of the four 'Sacred Games' known as the Periodos.

Held in honour of the king of the gods.

Greeks from beyond the mainland valued the trip to Olympia as a statement of being Greek: only Greeks could compete.

Competing successfully was a way of establishing a colony's reputation: many great victors came from these colonies.

Cities also displayed their successes at Olympia for all the visitors to see: trophies on the stadium's embankment were succeeded by treasuries, Philippeion, etc.

The games were also an opportunity for ambassadors to meet.

Students may express a range of views on the following programme:

Day 1: Morning: procession to, and oaths in Bouleuterion; contests for heralds and trumpeters; boys' running, wrestling and boxing; prayers, sacrifices and consultation of oracles

Afternoon: speeches by philosophers; recitals by poets and historians; tours of Altis

Day 2: Morning: procession to Hippodrome; chariot and horse races

Afternoon: pentathlon

Evening: Pelops' funeral rites; parade of victors; communal singing of victory hymns; feasting

Day 3: Morning: procession around Altis; sacrifice of 100 oxen to Zeus

Afternoon: foot-races

Evening: public banquet at Prytaneion

Day 4: Morning: wrestling

Afternoon: boxing and pankration; race in armour

Day 5: all day: procession of victors to Temple of Zeus; crowning of victors; phyllobolia; feasting

Accept mixed responses, but do not allow a "mix and match" of events from different days. No need to identify the day by number as long as events are correct.

Topic D Pompeii and Herculaneum

- 10 (a) *Identify the two features labelled A and B that tell us that this building was a bakery.

A: oven
B: mill / flour mill / grain grinder / millstones

AO1 (2 marks)

- (b) *Explain how grain was turned into flour in a bakery in Pompeii.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	One simple, relevant reason	1 mark
Level 2	One relevant reason with development or two simple, relevant reasons	2 marks

Grain was poured into the conical space above the turning millstone. A wooden frame secured to the top stone allowed it to be turned by donkeys or slaves. The two rough lava stones turned over one another and ground the grain into flour. Flour was collected in the trough at the base of the fixed lower stone.

AO2 (2 marks)

- (c) *State one piece of evidence that tells us what Pompeian loaves of bread looked like.

Loaves survive / Wall painting showing a baker distributing loaves.

'Ovens' consisted of open fires (at waist height). Food could be boiled in pots raised above the flames / on tripods or grilled on a gridiron. A range of metal and earthenware pots and pans was used on or above the fire. Metal ladles and strainers have been found.

Allow mixed personal responses to appropriate material that might include: Bars, inns and bakeries located throughout Pompeii for convenient daily shopping. However the Via dell'Abbondanza has a high concentration of businesses. Bars and inns are also concentrated around baths. Forum provides a centre for buying food in Macellum, including fresh fish, grain market and stalls in the open space. Centre of garum industry. Weights and measures table for checking produce and aediles' office for making complaints. A good selection of produce could be expected from a port city with fertile pasture and agriculture around it (e.g. wall painting of Vesuvius, mosaics from the House of the Faun and Caecilius' business records)

AO3 (3 marks)

- 11 (a) Name the archaeologist who was the first to produce casts of the bodies.

Fiorelli

AO1 (1 mark)

- (b)(i) State two other items that were cast in the same way as the bodies.

Two from:
Animals (e.g. dog).
Doors / shutters.
Furniture
Plant roots.

AO1 (2 marks)

- (b)(ii) Explain why it is possible to make casts of these items.

Levels of Response

0	Nothing worthy of credit	0 marks
Level 1	One simple, relevant reason	1 mark
Level 2	One relevant reason with development or two simple, relevant reasons	2 marks

Volcanic ash surrounds the item creating a mould.
The organic material decays leaving a void.
Plaster or resin can be poured into the void creating a cast.

AO2 (2 marks)

(c)(i) Where in Caecilius' house were his business records found?

In a strong box / chest / upstairs / upper storey / 1st floor

AO1 (1 mark)

(c)(ii) How did Caecilius' business records survive the eruption of Mount Vesuvius?

Strong box was sturdy enough to protect the contents (154 wax tablets) from the force and heat of the eruption.

AO2 (1 mark)

(d) As an archaeologist, would you prefer to excavate the site of Pompeii or Herculaneum? Give reasons for your answer.

Levels of Response

Level 2	Limited evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, but more than a simple reason is given	2 marks
Level 3	Some clear evaluation or personal response, as required by the question, with good development	3 marks

Allow mixed personal responses to appropriate material that might include:

Pompeii:

Easier to dig out ash.
Possible to produce casts from cavities.
Larger, more famous site.
Wider range of building types.

Herculaneum:

Harder to dig through solidified deposits that better preserve organic artifacts.
Upper floors better preserved.
Generally more violent deaths of inhabitants on beach and in boat sheds.
Casting unnecessary or not possible.
Pumping out water necessary in some of site.
More of site remains to be excavated at Herculaneum.
Has modern town above.

Give credit to students who recognise that both sites offer less opportunity to reveal extraordinary new finds than in the past, and that conservation is a priority along with smaller scale research projects.

Level 4	An excellent, well-organised answer. Clear, relevant knowledge with good development. Classical terms used consistently. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate and meaning is clear.	7-8 marks

Students may mention:

Gladiatorial equipment (helmets, leg and shoulder protection) indicates types of gladiators who fought in the arena.

Graffiti around Pompeii and wall paintings on tombs depict different types of gladiator in combat.

Gladiator barracks.

Graffiti advertise composition of shows (including numbers of pairs of gladiators and an animal hunt) and the results.

19th century drawings of fresco around arena wall showing beast hunt and gladiatorial combat.

Trumpets and graffiti of trumpeters indicate their use at shows.

Tacitus refers to riot involving rival supporters of different gladiators.

Level 4	An excellent answer. Clear understanding with good development. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate and meaning is clear.	7-8 marks

Students may mention:

Banked seats in semi-circle to give uninterrupted view.

Awning could be provided over Large Theatre (stone rings for the masts can still be seen).

Small Theatre / Odeon was roofed (clear from square ground plan and inscription recording builders).

Wider steps at front for important people to sit on their own chairs.

Platforms above parodoi or similar purpose.

Flights of steps divide the seating areas for ease of access.

AO2 (8 marks)

(a)(iii) Apart from going to the theatre and amphitheatre, would you have enjoyed spending your leisure time in Pompeii? Give reasons for your answer and refer to the archaeological evidence.

Allow mixed personal responses to appropriate material that might include:

Using public and/or private baths.

Exercising in the Large Palaestra, with its swimming pool.

Bars and taverns.

Shopping in the forum or Via dell'Abbondanza.

Enjoying the fine architecture and decoration of the forum district, and sea views from around the Marine Gate.

Watching trials in the basilica.

Spending time in the garden or reading in the tablinum.

Visiting relatives' tombs.

Visiting a temple.

Dining at home.

Allow reference to tranquility of suburban villas.

Insist on points being backed up by archaeological evidence.

AO3 (10 marks)

(b)(i) How were the walls and floors of houses in Pompeii and Herculaneum decorated? Give examples from the houses that you have studied.

Levels of Response

Level 4	An excellent, well-organised answer. Clear, relevant knowledge with good development. Classical terms used consistently. Spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate and meaning is clear.	7-8 marks

Students may mention:

Walls:

Fresco; 4 styles:

Style 1: imitates slabs of coloured marble

Style 2: views through windows and doors and other architectural details create depth and illusion of space

Style 3: black and red panels dominate; architectural detail is slender and frame pictures

Style 4: The columns of third style become more elaborate architectural details with depth returning. Pictures may reduce in size.

Pictures may show scenes from mythology, real life, the natural world, entertainment, playful characters or references to the realities of life etc.

Mosaics used sparingly (House of Neptune and Amphitrite, Herculaneum, and various fountains in Pompeian gardens)

Floors:

Mosaics of varying complexity: plain monochrome or geometric patterns; colourful mosaics with tiny tesserae (especially in House of the Faun); stone tiles in random or geometric patterns, coloured or plain. Floors covered by furniture would be plain and use larger, cheaper tesserae.

Max Level 3 if only one element is discussed.

AO1 (8 marks)

(b)(ii) How does the archaeological evidence show how houses were lit and decorated with ornaments in Pompeii and Herculaneum?

Students may mention:

Bronze and terracotta oil lamps / lamp stands survived in both towns.

Sunlight via compluvium.

Decorative metal objects survived eruption intact (e.g. Faun, Caecilius' bust)

Statues, basins and decorative furniture in stone are found in atria (e.g. House of the Wooden Partition) and gardens (e.g. House of the Vettii) and are depicted in paintings.

Carbonised doors, screens and beds from Herculaneum.

Fragile glass has sometimes survived, it is also depicted in wall paintings.

Decorative baskets are also represented in wall paintings.

Items carved from bone/ivory survive intact (e.g. Lakshmi statuette).

AO2 (8 marks)

Allow mixed personal responses to appropriate material that might include:

Pompeii:

Larger city with more facilities:

Amphitheatre and two theatres (but amphitheatre briefly closed after riot in AD59).

Larger more impressive forum.

Prosperous port with lively trade made clear by numbers of businesses.

Houses were being redeveloped and redecorated.

Central Baths being developed in AD79.

Large houses could be built in some parts of the city.

Some houses display great wealth of the owners: possible to mix with these people.

Greater variety of temples to worship at.

However Pompeii was still recovering from the effects of the earthquake in AD62.

Tacitus says that the amphitheatre would be closed for 10 years after the riot.

Herculaneum:

Seafront villas

Numerous facilities (2 sets of public baths in the small excavated area).

Quieter more residential site.

Opportunity for freedmen to become Augustales.

Access to beach and sea. Boat sheds available.

Better drains than Pompeii.
