

General Certificate of Secondary Education 2014

English Literature

Unit 2: The Study of Drama and Poetry

Foundation Tier

[GET23]

THURSDAY 22 MAY, AFTERNOON

MARK SCHEME

Introduction

A variety of responses is possible and expected in English Literature, but whatever the chosen question, assessment should be based on the candidates' responses to the following assessment objectives and their interpretation as set out below.

Assessment Objective 1:

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the text;
- understand and communicate explicit and implicit meanings;
- substantiate points of view by relevant reference, inference and deduction, using appropriate and effective quotation as required;
- express convincing and supported personal responses, opinions and preferences;
- provide insights into characters, relationships, attitudes and values.

Quality of written communication is also being assessed through AO1. This requires that candidates: ensure that text is legible and that spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate so that meaning is clear; select and use a form and style of writing appropriate to purpose; and organise information clearly and coherently, using appropriate vocabulary. All mark grids include a descriptor under AO1 assessing QWC through reference to the structure/organisation of responses and accuracy in expression.

Assessment Objective 2:

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes, characters and settings.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- consider and comment upon differing views and interpretations of texts;
- comment meaningfully on the texts studied, referring to the appropriateness of the form and structure adopted by the writer;
- describe and appreciate the effectiveness of general and specific uses of language and stylistic devices;
- appreciate changing atmosphere and tone and comment upon how they are achieved.

Assessment Objective 3:

Make comparisons and explain links between texts, evaluating writers' differing ways of expressing meaning and achieving effects.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- identify similarities and differences between texts;
- make and explore connections and comparisons between texts;
- select and juxtapose relevant details of theme, character and tone;
- analyse similarities and differences in the use of language, structure and form.

Assessment Objective 4:

Relate texts to their social, cultural and historical contexts; explain how texts have been influential and significant to self and other readers in different contexts and at different times.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- show an awareness of the context in which texts were written;
- take into account alternative interpretations of texts;
- give a personal response.

Every effort should be made to assess the work of the candidate positively. Examiners should annotate scripts and comment appropriately on points made and insights expressed. Annotation and the award of marks should be based on the appropriate assessment matrix.

Arriving at a Final Mark

Markers should use the general Assessment Matrix which sets out the broad criteria for the four mark bands in combination with the specific requirements set down for each question.

Section A – Drama

In this section we are assessing two assessment objectives:

AO1

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations;

and

AO2

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes, characters and settings.

Guidelines to assessing AO2 in candidates' responses to Drama (Foundation Tier)

Assessment Objective 2 requires candidates to "explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes, characters and settings."

Key terms in the question:

"In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting"

Key terms in the bullets:

The named dramatist's "use of language and dramatic techniques".

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques

When assessing candidates' responses to drama, some of the following uses of language and stylistic and dramatic devices may be noted. (This list is neither prescriptive nor exhaustive, but is intended as a helpful guide to examiners.)

- division into acts and scenes;
- stage directions;
- use of some technical terms (e.g. exposition, protagonist, hero, minor character, denouement);
- cohesive elements (e.g. repetition of words or ideas, climax, sequential ordering);
- disjunctive elements (e.g. use of 'curtain', flashback, or anticipation of events);
- asides, soliloquy, dramatic monologue, use of narrator;
- tonal features (e.g. emphasis, exclamation);
- interaction through dialogue and movement;
- use of punctuation to indicate delivery of lines (e.g. interruption, hesitation, turn-taking, listening);
- reportage;
- vocabulary choices;
- staging (set, lighting, use of properties, on-stage characters but unseen by others);
- costume and music effects.

8848.0		Matrix – Fou	Assessment Matrix – Foundation Tier Unit 2, Section A: Drama	Section A: Drama
01 F	Assessment Objective	Band 0 Mark [0]	Band 1: Very Little [1]–[10]	Band 2: Emerging [11]–[20]	Band 3: Some [21]–[30]	Band 4: Competent [31]–[40]
	AO1 Argument	Response not worthy	Some writing about text or task	Attempts to focus on question	Begins to focus on question	Some focus on question
				Simple, straightforward or limited response	Begins to develop a response	Fairly developed response
				Assertion, basic conclusion, narrative or description	Some elements of argument	Competent argument
			Very basic level of accuracy in written expression and coherence of	Fairly sound level of accuracy in written expression and coherence of response. Form mostly appropriate	Sound level of accuracy in written expression and coherence of response	Competent level of accuracy in written expression and coherence of response
5			response
	AO2 Form and	Response not worthy of credit	Simplistic remarks about content	Some awareness of content	Some relevant comments on content	Competent comments on content
			Little or no awareness of structure, form or dramatic	Some awareness of structure, form or dramatic techniques	Some relevant comments on structure, form or dramatic techniques	Competent comments on structure, form or dramatic techniques techniques	Occasional reference to the	Some understanding of	Competent understanding of the dramaust s words	ine dramalists use of language	dramanst s use or language

For use and application in Section A: Drama and Section B: Poetry

ASSESSMENT OF SPELLING, PUNCTUATION AND GRAMMAR

If the answer does not address the question, then no spelling, punctuation and grammar marks are available. If the candidate has attempted to answer the question but produced nothing of credit, spelling, punctuation and grammar marks may still be awarded.

THRESHOLD PERFORMANCE [1]

Candidates spell, punctuate and use the rules of grammar with reasonable accuracy in the context of the demands of the question. Any errors do not hinder meaning in the response. Where required, they use a limited range of specialist terms accurately.

INTERMEDIATE PERFORMANCE [2]

Candidates spell, punctuate and use the rules of grammar with considerable accuracy and general control of meaning in the context of the demands of the question. Where required, they use a good range of specialist terms with facility.

HIGH PERFORMANCE [3]

Candidates spell, punctuate and use the rules of grammar with consistent accuracy and effective control of meaning in the context of the demands of the question. Where required, they use a wide range of specialist terms adeptly and with precision.

1 Friel: Dancing at Lughnasa

(a) Show that Kate may be both disliked and admired.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- how Kate tries to control her sisters;
- Kate's relationship with Father Jack;
- and anything else you think is relevant.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

How Kate tries to control her sisters:

- she admonishes Chris for "corner-boy" language and her lack of "propriety" and orders her to remove the surplice; and she tries to influence Chris in how she raises Michael, yet she is very protective of Chris when Gerry Evans ("the bastard!") appears, and doesn't interfere when they dance together;
- she questions Rose about her boots and speaks sarcastically to her, "we're suddenly very logical, aren't we?", eventually causing Rose to lose her temper and disclose Kate's nickname at school, "The Gander!"; Kate interrogates a defiant Rose over the Danny Bradley incident, yet Rose is the one she worries about most of all: "If I died what would become of our Rosie?" (note the use of the endearment);
- she berates Maggie about smoking and singing "pagan" songs, scolding which Maggie undermines through her use of humour, yet Kate seeks comfort from Maggie when she feels vulnerable and the family is on the verge of collapse: "Maggie holds her [Kate] and rocks her";
- she has a tense relationship with Agnes, "you're not in the classroom", refusing to allow her to go to the Lughnasa festival, bickering with her over the making of the tea, mocking Agnes over the latter's suggestion that she will buy a new radio and ridiculing Agnes's and Rose's earning capacity to the point where Agnes feels taken for granted: "Who makes the tea every evening?" and "What you have here, Kate, are two unpaid servants";
- Kate is called "a damned righteous bitch" by Agnes, and eventually both Agnes and Rose run away from her control;
- she is conscious of the family's good name: "Will we ever be able to hold up our heads again?".

Kate's relationship with Father Jack:

- Kate's inability to deal with the change in Father Jack and his loss of faith: "But these aren't Christian ceremonies, Jack, are they"; Kate appears "startled-shocked-stunned" by the tales Jack tells of Ryanga;
- Kate's disapproval when she comments to Jack about young Michael: "Much as we cherish love-children here they are not exactly the norm";
- Kate strongly disapproves of Jack's story about marriage in small communes yet still treats him with love and care throughout;
- she is "inconsolable" when he dies and always tries to defend "his own distinctive spiritual search".

Additional material may include the following:

- Kate has a very loving and caring relationship with Michael and spoils him with gifts;
- Kate constantly reminds Chris of her duties as a mother to Michael, and urges her not to be so hard on him;
- Kate is described as "a very proper woman" by Michael, and her negative feelings towards the Lughnasa Festival show her strong religious convictions;
- she is the only one of the sisters with a job and provides for them all, in a matriarchal way, and tries to perform her duties "as best you can because you believe in responsibilities and obligations and good order".

Language and dramatic techniques:

• the change in Kate's character as she moves from the strident matriarchal figure at the beginning of the play to a much more vulnerable and emotional character who fails to cope with the changing nature of her relationship with her family members and with the break-down of the cohesiveness of the family unit.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, in response to the Key Term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at the extract from Act 1 beginning near the top of page 16 with Kate's words, "I met the parish priest" and ending on page 17 with Rose's words, "That's what happened. I'm telling you."

Do you think the Mundy family is shocked by pagan rituals? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what the Mundy sisters say and do in the extract;
- Friel's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- the Mundy sisters' reactions to what they hear about Father Jack's life in Ryanga elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What the Mundy sisters say and do in the extract:

- except for Kate who is horrified, all of the sisters react with interest and are eager to hear or to tell that the Sweeney boy was badly burnt when his trousers went on fire at the festival in the back hills;
- Rose speaks knowledgably of the incident that has taken place: "It was last Sunday week";
- Kate reacts to this with great displeasure: "Who filled your head with such nonsense?";
- Rose is able to provide the others with the detail associated with the pagan ritual: the "bonfire" and the "dancing" around the bonfire, driving "their cattle through the flames to banish the devil out of them", the boys and girls "off their heads with drink" and the fact that "They do it every Lughnasa";
- Kate reacts angrily to this: "And they are savages!" and expresses her shock and disappointment that Rose would repeat pagan "rubbish" like this in "a Christian home, a Catholic home!"

Friel's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- the contrast amongst the sisters, between those eager to hear about the festival and Kate's distancing herself from the story;
- Kate's tone is dismissive towards Chris: "How would I know?"
- the use of Pause before Rose speaks to build tension;
- Rose speaks Quietly, resolutely on this matter which is very different from the Rose we normally see;
- the precise language and controlled manner used by Rose when sharing her story, in contrast to the increasingly agitated and angry Kate;
- Rose's defiance even in the face of Kate's disapproval;
- Rose's use of repetition: "That's what happened. I'm telling you".

The Mundy sisters' reactions to what they hear about Father Jack's life in Ryanga elsewhere in the play:

- Jack provides graphic detail about the Ryangan pagan rituals that he participated in;
- Jack is enthusiastic about the rituals, including the ritual sacrifice to Obi and the incantation-chant;
- Jack lost all sense of traditional Catholic practices and performed a hybrid Mass incorporating Catholic tradition and Ryangan pagan ritual;
- Jack has been recalled to Ireland as a result of these practices and the local priests are ashamed of his behaviour, leading to Kate losing her job in the school;
- Kate, at first, tries to encourage Jack to say Mass again, then becomes frustrated at his unwillingness to do so, and then is horrified the more she learns, "But these aren't Christian ceremonies, Jack, are they?" and is very disapproving of these practices;
- Kate is also frightened for his soul: "He's not our Jack at all, and it's what he's changed into that frightens me".
- the other sisters react with a mixture of awe and fascination to Jack's description of the pagan rituals.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

2 Miller: All My Sons

(a) Show that Ann and George Deever react in differing ways to their father's imprisonment.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- Ann's relationship with the Keller family;
- George's visit to the Keller family.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

Ann's relationship with the Keller family:

- Ann Deever has maintained contact with Chris, but she is still seen by Kate Keller as "Larry's girl";
- Ann is sentimental about her past when she first appears: "It almost seems that Mom and Pop are in there now", and "those dear dead days beyond recall";
- Ann speaks coldly about her father returning to live with her mother when he gets out of jail: "I don't care. She can take him back if she likes";
- Ann rejects Kate's assumption that she has put her life on hold;
- Ann reacts with growing ill-ease when asked by Frank about her father's parole chances;
- Ann is concerned that the neighbourhood still talk about her father and the case;
- Ann is happy that Joe and Kate seem to have put the case behind them and can laugh about it;
- Ann is surprised and mystified by Keller's seeming forgiveness of and generosity towards her father;
- Ann reveals to the Kellers that she has never written to her father in jail and feels it is "wrong to pity a man like that", and later in Act Two she admits that she has "turned my back on my own father" because she thinks he is guilty of the murder of all the pilots who died;
- Ann is surprised that the Kellers aren't "mad" with her father;
- Ann shows her determination to move on with her life by urging Chris to announce their engagement despite Kate's implicit threats and encouragement to leave;
- Ann resents the comments made by Sue Bayliss that Chris is happy to take money from the company and that all the neighbours believe that Joe is guilty;
- Ann refuses to believe George and sends him away;
- Ann refuses to leave without Chris after Keller's guilt becomes known: "I want you to set him free";
- Ann reveals to Kate that Larry wrote to her prior to his death, explaining why he was contemplating suicide;
- Ann has kept this secret from the Keller family as she didn't want to hurt them;
- Ann shows Kate the letter when Kate refuses to allow Chris and Ann to get married, in order to force Kate's hand;

• Ann shows throughout this part of the play that she is unwilling to allow her past to dominate her life.

George's visit to the Keller Family:

- George is now a qualified lawyer and has his own office;
- prior to the visit George has been to visit his father, for the first time, in jail;
- Jim Bayliss warns Ann not to allow George to come into the Keller's house, that he is here to cause trouble and has "blood in his eye";
- George is on edge when he arrives and speaks curtly to Sue Bayliss;
- George is antagonistic towards Chris, and tells Ann that she is not to marry him because Chris's father destroyed their family;
- George believes that Joe made a "patsy" of their father and allowed him to take the blame;
- George feels that he cannot forgive himself for abandoning their father when he went to jail and states that he and Ann "did a terrible thing. We can never be forgiven";
- George now believes that their father is innocent and accuses Chris of helping with the cover-up;
- George is described as having become pale and ghost-like by Kate;
- George loses the initiative to Joe, who confronts him about visiting his father in jail;
- George is persuaded by Joe that his father is untrustworthy;
- George latches onto Kate's mistake and uncovers the lie that has been told about Joe's illness during the shop incident;
- George only agrees to leave when Ann tells him to go.

Friel's use of language and dramatic techniques:

- the contrast between the two characters: Ann is at ease with Chris and Joe and vacillates between love and tension with Kate whereas George is tense with them all;
- Ann distances herself from the past, including her father and Larry, whereas George brings the past with him by wearing his father's hat;
- the language used by Ann is at first conciliatory and she is calm and logical in her arguments with the Kellers whereas George is antagonistic and volatile.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques in response to the Key Term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at the extract from Act One beginning on page 18 with the stage direction MOTHER puts her hand to her head and ending near the bottom of page 20 with the stage direction She sits on bench.

Show that Kate may be both pitied and disliked.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Kate says and does in the extract;
- Miller's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- the way Kate protects Joe elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Kate says and does in the extract:

- Kate has suffered "a terrible night";
- Kate has dreamt about Larry and sees him crashing in front of her the night his tree is blown down by the wind;
- Kate becomes angry with Joe in reference to the tree: "We rushed into it. Everybody was in such a hurry to bury him";
- Kate is feeling unwell: "Get me an aspirin, heh?";
- Kate is suspicious about Chris's motivation in inviting Ann to their house and will not countenance marriage between them;
- Kate needs to believe that Ann has been waiting faithfully for Larry's return, just as she has, "She's faithful as a rock. In my worst moments, I think of her waiting, and I know again that I'm right".

Miller's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- the fluctuations of Kate's character within the extract: she is by turns weary, lost in a dream, angry, accusing, questioning, delusional and disturbed;
- use of stage directions to indicate these changing moods: puts her hand to her head; goes aimlessly; Raising her arm over the audience; turns with a reprimanding finger; her smile vanishes; an accusing undertone; warningly;
- the emotive language she uses: she has a "terrible night"; in the dream she hears Larry cry out, "Mom, Mom!"; her anger at Joe, "Everybody was in such a hurry to bury him"; her warning to Joe, "Nobody in this house dast take her faith away"; and her threatening "I'll kill myself!";
- the tension among Kate and Joe and Chris over the reasons for Ann's visit;
- the reactions by Joe to Kate's moods, changing from logical to exasperated;
- the reactions by Chris to Kate's moods: wary, alarmed, attempting to divert her.

How Kate protects Joe elsewhere in the play:

- the mention of the jail and its associations with their past causes tension between Joe and Kate, as Kate shouts, "I didn't say you had anything to hide, I'm just telling you to stop it! Now stop it!";
- Kate warns Joe, "Be smart now, Joe" when the news of George's imminent arrival sends Joe into a panic and a furious rage;
- Kate is guilty of poor treatment of the Deever family: she is rude and confrontational with Ann and she is patronising towards George;
- Kate for a time manages to suppress George's attempt to challenge their version of the past by distracting him with kindness: "None of us changed, Georgie. We all love you";
- Kate helps Joe suppress the past by maintaining the same story about the shop incident;
- Kate needs Joe to perpetuate her belief in Larry's return ("You above all have got to believe") as the alternative is too frightening for them both to admit;
- Kate admits to Ann that she has kept Larry's room exactly as it was;
- Kate becomes more and more agitated as she refuses to acknowledge that Larry may be dead: "Because certain things have to be, and certain things can never be";
- Kate, in Act Three, packs Ann's bag and tries to force her to leave, and she is prepared to sacrifice her own son's happiness, truth and justice to ensure her husband's (and perhaps her own) continuing peace of mind.

Some candidates may argue for pity and dislike around the following general points: she is prepared to sacrifice her own health as she suffers from headaches, insomnia and paranoia; she develops an interest in astrology; she exercises control over Joe, Chris and George; and she shows complete determination to keep her family together.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques, in response to Miller's use of language and dramatic techniques, see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

3 O'Casey: Juno and the Paycock

(a) Show that Joxer Daly is not likeable.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- what Mrs Boyle says about Joxer;
- Joxer's attitude to Captain Boyle;
- and anything else you think is relevant.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Mrs Boyle says about Joxer:

- she is aware of the negative influence of Joxer on her husband: "he's wherever Joxer Daly is dhrinkin' in some snug or another." And, "There'll never be any good out o' him so long as he goes with that shoulder-shruggin' Joxer";
- she is able to see through Joxer's insincere protestations that he wants to work: "I'll take me solemn affeydavey, it's not for a job he's prayin'";
- she delights in goading Joxer about his sycophancy and sponging: "Are you sure, now, you wouldn't like an egg?" and "people is always far more comfortable here than they are in their own place";
- she does her best to keep Joxer and the Captain apart: "..I was determined to stay an' hunt that Joxer this time.";
- she acknowledges Joxer's low status, "Though I don't blame him (Bentham) for fightin' shy of people like that Joxer fella.."

Joxer's attitude to Captain Boyle:

- in the early stages of the play he is seen as a total sycophant and shifts opinion to suit Boyle, e.g. over Father Farrell;
- he is not likeable when he reveals his true self when the Captain disowns him;
- he mocks the Captain's sea-faring exploits, the very story he had earlier substantiated;
- he betrays the Captain: "Lookin' for work, and prayin' to God he won't get it.";
- he cross-questions the Captain about the will, already knowing the answers;
- he conspires with Nugent against Boyle;
- he asserts his superiority over Boyle: "It's very seldom he escapes me";
- he hotly debates with Boyle, "Who's a twisther?" and calls him "Jacky Boyle, Esquire, infernal rogue an' damned liar".

Additional material may include the following:

- he steals stout and lets Nugent take the blame;
- his hypocrisy in often singing about bravery: "Let me like a soldier fall..";

- his cowardice in refusing to look out the window for fear of "a bullet in the kisser";
- his instinct for self-preservation when he hides from Juno;
- his criticism of Juno: "I don't know how you stick it..";
- he is a scrounger on the lookout for a sausage, five shillings, or a drink.

Language and dramatic techniques:

- O'Casey describes Joxer in stage directions as being cunning and ingratiating;
- his ability to change his demeanour and discourse according to company;
- he adds comedy and humour to the staging, e.g. hiding, singing etc.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques, in response to key term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at the extract in Act 3 beginning on page 132 with the stage direction Mrs Boyle enters and ending at the bottom of page 136 with Mrs Boyle's words, "...– oh, is there not even a middlin' honest man left in th' world?"

Show that Mrs Boyle and Mary suffer.

In your answer you should consider:

- what the characters say and do in the extract;
- O' Casey's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- Mrs Boyle's and Mary's lives elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What the characters say and do in the extract:

- the Captain assumes the mantle of suffering;
- the Captain blames Mary herself, and her books, for her plight;
- Juno recognises that Mary will suffer;
- Juno is protective of Mary and stands up to the Captain;
- Juno dismisses the Captain's "fatherly care";
- Johhny's callous reaction to the news;
- Juno deflates Johnny's outburst;
- Juno is visibly shaken by the removal of the will as a means of escape;
- Juno laments vanished manhood, "is there not even a middlin' honest man left in th' world?";
- the family disintegrates as it turns on itself, leaving Juno and Mary to fend for themselves.

O' Casey's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- O'Casey foreshadows Juno's news with SD, The serious look on her face;
- Juno doesn't speak and there is silence;
- Juno has an earnest manner with suppressed agitation;
- even Boyle is awed by her manner,
- Boyle's selfish assumption of suffering is pointed to emphasise the real suffering of Juno;
- Boyle's violent rejection of his daughter;
- Johnny's unfeeling and selfish reaction;
- Juno's repeated disbelief at failure of the will: "I don't believe it, I don't believe it, I don't believe it!";
- her continued disbelief: "You're not serious, Jack; you're not serious!";
- Juno's quietly resigned or perhaps despairing acceptance of what has happened: "is there not even a middlin' honest man left in th' world?".

Mrs Boyle's and Mary's lives elsewhere in the play: Mrs Boyle

- is married to the Captain and that brings its own suffering poverty, lies, insecurity, disillusionment;
- is frustrated by her life;
- is world weary;
- is anxious about the plight of her son;
- is verbally abused by her son and suffers his wrath;
- is constantly humiliated by her husband, by the loss of promised wealth, by the presumed scorn of her neighbours for having a daughter pregnant and not married;
- she has a demanding son who is a cripple, and who is soon to be executed;
- her daughter is on strike, without income, and is soon to have a child out of wedlock;
- she is the only one working to keep them all;
- she has to abandon the family home.

Mary

- is born into poverty;
- is the child of a weak-willed mother and a lazy, good-for-nothing father;
- the militant trade-unionist side of her character sits uncomfortably with her doe-eyed love for Bentham and fondness for ribbons and silk stockings;
- she loses her job;
- she is abandoned by Bentham;
- she is scorned by Jerry Devine;
- she is verbally abused by her brother;
- she has to abandon the family home.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, in response to key term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

4 Priestley: An Inspector Calls

(a) Show that Mrs Birling does not care about other people.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- Mrs Birling's attitude to Eva;
- Mrs Birling's attitude to Sheila and Eric.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

Mrs Birling's attitude to Eva:

- no sympathy towards Eva calls her death an absurd business;
- is not interested in girls of "that class";
- considers the Inspector impertinent in his manner and actions in questioning her family about Eva;
- tries to put the Inspector in his place, speaking haughtily to him rather than showing any concern about Eva;
- talks about duty rather than emotions, so lacks any sympathy for Eva's plight;
- feels Eva had been impertinent "didn't like her manner";
- doesn't understand that life has changed at the end of the play so cannot comprehend Eric and Sheila's need for moral cleansing after their treatment of Eva;
- displays no love for her family (including a possible grandchild) so is incapable of compassion for someone lower-class.

Mrs Birling's attitude to Sheila:

- she shows no understanding of Sheila's distress about Eva's death "nothing but morbid curiosity: I simply don't understand your attitude";
- speaks severely to Sheila;
- accuses Sheila of being an hysterical child: "I think you ought to go to bed";
- expects Sheila to behave sensibly in these shocking circumstances;
- her behaviour towards Sheila at the engagement party shows limited affection;
- she cannot understand Sheila's need for moral cleansing at the end of the play.

Mrs Birling's attitude to Eric:

- Mrs Birling dismisses Eric: "he's only a boy";
- Mrs Birling is annoyed primarily about the timing when Eric tells her about Eva: "and this is the time you choose to tell me";
- Mrs Birling "is absolutely ashamed of him" when she finds out Eric has stolen money from the office;

- she refuses to believe that he has a drink problem;
- Eric tells her, "You don't understand. You never did. You never even tried";
- Mrs Birling displays an uncaring attitude about the death of the baby;
- she cannot understand Eric's need for moral cleansing at the end of the play.

Language and dramatic techniques:

- Mrs Birling is presented as agitated but does not break down;
- Priestley calls her a rather cold woman and e.g. she reacts unemotionally to the effect that the Inspector's questioning has had on members of her family: "we must discuss this business quietly and sensibly";
- the use of dramatic irony when Mrs Birling is delighted when she finds someone to blame: "the young man who was the father of the child";
- Mrs Birling's smiling at the end of the play, perhaps reminding the audience of her gratified concern for respectability and her total self-belief.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, in response to the Key Term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at the extract from Act Three beginning near the bottom of page 56 with the stage direction, He walks straight out, leaving them staring, subdued and wondering and ending near the top of page 58 with Sheila's words, 'The point is you don't seem to have learnt anything."

Show that Mr Birling and Mrs Birling have learnt nothing from the Inspector's visit.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Mr Birling and Mrs Birling say and do in the extract;
- Priestley's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- the selfishness and snobbery of Mr Birling and Mrs Birling earlier in the play;
- what Mr Birling and Mrs Birling say and do after Gerald's entrance in Act Three until the end of the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Mr Birling and Mrs Birling say and do in the extract: Mr Birling:

- he blames Eric for the whole business;
- he recognises his diminished chances of a knighthood;
- he realises that he and the family will be the centre of a scandal;
- he disagrees with Sheila and dismisses her views;
- he has no real sense of personal guilt.

Mrs Birling:

- speaks only to voice her disapproval of Eric picking up women in the Palace Bar;
- does not appear to worry about Eric's drinking (or thieving);
- agrees with her husband by remaining silent;
- wishes to avoid unpleasantness.

Priestley's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- Mr Birling has been affected by the Inspector's words, but in what ways is, as yet, unclear. This may, for the moment give the impression that he has learnt a lesson;
- Mr Birling's pride and confidence have been shaken, SD: his hesitation, his gloomy looks, his hasty drink;
- Mr Birling interrupts Sheila, refusing to accept they have done wrong;
- use of dashes to signal afterthoughts;
- Mr Birling's sustained anger in addressing Eric rather than accepting his own faults;
- Mrs Birling collapses in a chair;
- Mrs Birling becomes animated during the family row rather than accept her culpability.

The selfishness and snobbery of Mr Birling and Mrs Birling earlier in the play:

- Mr Birling's interest in the commercial aspect of his daughter's engagement;
- Mr Birling's attitude to his workers earlier in the play;
- Mr Birling's concern not to jeopardise his knighthood;
- Mr Birling's attempts to intimidate the Inspector;
- Mrs Birling's concern to keep up appearances in front of Gerald;
- Mrs Birling's finding the Inspector "impertinent";
- Mrs Birling's being affronted by a recipient of charity associating herself with the Birling family.

What Mr Birling and Mrs Birling say and do after Gerald's entry in Act 3:

- Mr Birling's continued concern to avoid scandal;
- his continued dwelling on the stolen money;
- his relief conveyed by stage directions: triumphantly, jovially, heartily, amused;
- Mr Birling has a celebratory drink;
- he considers the whole affair to be a joke;
- he mocks the Inspector;
- he belittles Sheila and Eric;
- he reverts to self-satisfied reminders of his knighthood;
- he wishes to re-establish the engagement;
- he stares guiltily and dumbfounded as the curtain falls;
- Mrs Birling smiles indicating pleasure that she has not had to change or learn;
- she is grateful to Gerald for his clever argument, but shows no compunction for her actions on the committee;
- she is prepared to go on just as before: "just as before: why shouldn't we";
- she fails to understand Sheila and Eric;
- she is concerned that family secrets should not be revealed SD warningly;
- she is still affronted at the Inspector's breaches of etiquette;
- she believes that a good night's sleep will solve all their problems.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

5 Russell: Blood Brothers

- (a) Show that the female characters in the play have difficulties in their lives. In your answer you should consider:
 - Mrs Johnstone's difficulties;
 - Mrs Lyons' difficulties;
 - Linda's relationship with Mickey.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

Mrs Johnstone's difficulties:

- Mrs Johnstone's inability to avoid pregnancies;
- her marital difficulties;
- her inability to control her children particularly Sammy;
- last verse of opening song sums up Mrs Johnstone's situation, "seven hungry mouths to feed";
- Milkman, Catalogue Man and 'various debt collectors' confront Mrs Johnstone;
- her children badger Mrs Johnstone for milk and food;
- Mrs Johnstone's song, 'On Easy Terms' indicates sinking into debt;
- she is bound through her religious/superstitious beliefs;
- her belief that her child would be better off with Mrs Lyons: "(He) wouldn't have to worry where his next meal was coming from";
- Mrs Johnstone's hope that the move to the country will reverse the family's fortunes.

Mrs Lyons' difficulties:

- Mrs Lyons' reasons for buying a big house "- for the children";
- Mrs Lyons' inability to have children of her own;
- she persuades and even threatens Mrs Johnstone to get her agreement;
- she sings and reveals her dreams of an idyllic life with her son and shares the dream with Mrs Johnstone;
- her jealousy of Mrs Johnstone increases and she sacks Mrs Johnstone to stop her having contact with the baby;
- she plays on Mrs Johnstone's superstitions to enforce separation of the twins, showing her insecurity;
- she becomes paranoid about the need to maintain separation, moving to the country and telling Mickey about Edward and Linda.

Linda's relationship with Mickey:

- she defends Mickey from Sammy and the teacher and helps him (e.g. incident with the conductor);
- she proclaims her love for Mickey, committing herself to a life of poverty;
- her love for Mickey despite his refusal to express emotions to her;
- she becomes pregnant, resulting in a hurried marriage;
- Mickey goes to jail, leaving her as a single parent;
- her dealing with Mickey's addiction: "I get depressed but I don't take those";
- she seeks love from Edward;
- she loses both Mickey and Edward.

Language and dramatic techniques:

- SD describing appearance of Mrs Johnstone She is aged thirty but looks more like fifty;
- SD indicating Mrs Lyons' excitement at getting one of the twins, containing her excitement;
- Narrator's song, "There's gypsies in the wood" accentuates Mrs Lyons' increased paranoia about her difficulty in retaining Edward's love;
- the speed of the action increases the sense of drama: His mother is frantically trying to catch him etc.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, in response to the Key Term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at the extract from Act 2 beginning on page 81 with Mrs Johnstone's words, "Y' gonna be late Mick" and ending on page 84 with the stage direction Mickey is left alone, sitting dejected.

(For those using the red-backed edition, the extract begins on page 87 and ends near the bottom of page 90.)

Show how Mickey's life goes wrong.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Mickey, Mrs Johnstone and Mr Lyons say and do in the extract;
- Russell's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- Mickey's confrontation with Edward in Act 2 when Edward returns at Christmas from university;
- Mickey's confrontation with Edward in Act 2 in the Town Hall at the end of the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Mickey, Mrs Johnstone and Mr Lyons say and do in the extract:

- Mrs Johnstone scolds Mickey, urging him to go to work;
- Mrs Johnstone has to encourage Mickey to speak out;
- Mickey tells Mrs Johnstone that Linda is pregnant;
- Mrs Johnstone's acceptance of situation: "When's the wedding?"
- Mrs Johnstone's concern: "you've not had much of a life with me, have you?";
- Mickey is concerned how Mrs Johnstone feels: "Are you mad?";
- Mickey admits he's in love, nervously asks for his mother's help and gratefully accepts it;
- Mr Lyons lists reasons for redundancies, an event which Mickey had been apprehensively awaiting.

Russell's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- Mickey's hesitation SD, stands looking at her;
- SD: A moment, indicating pause and further hesitation;
- limited (practically monosyllabic) conversations showing his failure to articulate;
- unspoken communication SD: looks at him and nods;
- Mickey foreshadows more things going wrong: "They've started laying people off...."
- Mickey remains in his working clothes for the wedding, limiting the celebration;
- split staging with 'low key' wedding celebrations set against "Miss Jones" song of failing to remain employed;
- the guests at the wedding transform into the unemployed looking for work, and then into the dole line;

- Mickey crosses stage leaving wedding happiness to go to work, to be given his cards, moving from success in love to failure in employment;
- Mr Lyons' tone of insincerity throughout song;
- repetition of "Take a letter" indicating the escalation of things going wrong for Mickey;
- SD: Mickey 'stands apart' indicating isolation;
- SD: Mickey is left alone, sitting dejected indicating his depth of despair.

Mickey's confrontation with Edward in Act 2 when Edward returns at Christmas from university:

- Mickey is unemployed and in despair and reacts badly to Edward's joviality and love of university life full of parties etc;
- Edward shows complete misunderstanding of Mickey's feelings about being unemployed;
- Edward is insensitive in throwing his money about and insisting on celebrating but Mickey throws the money back at Edward, indicating the widening gulf between the friends as things continue to go wrong;
- Edward can't understand Mickey's rejection;
- Mickey tells Edward how his situation is totally different and tells Edward to go to friends in his own class with the same advantages;
- Mickey threatens to hit Edward.

Mickey's confrontation with Edward in Act 2 in the Town Hall at the end of the play:

- his sense of failure to keep Linda drives him to seek revenge;
- his realisation of the failure of his own life when told Edward is his twin;
- he fails to handle the gun correctly;
- he fails in trying to avoid the actual shooting.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

6 Shakespeare: Macbeth

(a) Show that ambition causes problems for Macbeth and Lady Macbeth.

In your answer you should consider the use of language and dramatic techniques in presenting:

- their plans;
- their actions;
- the consequences of their actions;

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

The plans and actions of Macbeth and the consequences of these actions:

- the practicalities of the plan are suggested to an impressed Macbeth by his wife;
- Macbeth's thoughts on his "vaulting ambition";
- Macbeth hallucinates and sees a "floating dagger" in front of him;
- the dagger is covered with blood and this makes Macbeth uneasy about the crime he is about to commit – merely thinking about a sin has its consequences;
- in Act III, Macbeth has been suffering with horrible thoughts and guilt ever since the assassination of Duncan;
- Macbeth reveals to his wife that his mind is "full of scorpions";
- Macbeth "sees" Banquo's ghost and his mind is disturbed;
- when Macduff learns that Macbeth has killed his wife and children he vows to kill Macbeth and succeeds.

The plans and actions of Lady Macbeth and the consequences of these actions:

- Lady Macbeth persuades a reluctant Macbeth to murder saintly Duncan her plan emerges fully formed in all its practicalities;
- she plays a full part in the murder by returning the daggers to the chamber;
- Lady Macbeth suffers severe mental problems when she begins to despair in Act III;
- in Act V, she is unable to get rest because of her conscience becomes insane and delusional;
- in Act V, Lady Macbeth's mental problems increase as she is suffering from terrible dreams, e.g. imagines a drop of blood on her hand that she is unable to wash off;
- takes her own life to escape her despair.

Language and dramatic techniques:

- Macbeth foreshadows his own destiny by muttering, "Blood will have blood" ;
- Lady Macbeth's fate is prefigured when she ironically mentions to Macbeth, early in the play that "A little water washes us of this deed";

- Lady Macbeth's language persuading Macbeth to carry through Duncan's murder is belittling and insulting in order to fulfil her ambition;
- use of soliloquy to express the state of mind of each character.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, in response to the Key Term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at the extract from Act 1 Scene vii beginning about line 29 with the stage direction, Enter Lady Macbeth and ending at the end of the scene.

Show that Macbeth becomes evil.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Macbeth and Lady Macbeth say in the extract;
- Shakespeare's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- Macbeth's dealings with the witches elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Macbeth and Lady Macbeth say in the extract:

- Macbeth changes his mind about murdering Duncan, indicating some uncertainty at this point;
- "We will proceed no further in this business", he says;
- Lady Macbeth urges him not to throw away all the glory he has so recently gained;
- Lady Macbeth accuses him of cowardice;
- Macbeth is affected by the criticism and protests his valour;
- Macbeth openly admires Lady Macbeth's determination and bows to her will in carrying out an evil act.

Shakespeare's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- use of rhetorical questions by Lady Macbeth to alter Macbeth's thoughts resisting evil;
- dramatic timing with Lady Macbeth's entrance just as Macbeth is recoiling from committing such an evil act;
- Lady Macbeth's tone of contempt towards her husband when he resists evil;
- Lady Macbeth speaks to her husband in a reversal of gender roles and attacks his manhood;
- Lady Macbeth's horrific imagery used for shock effect;
- Lady Macbeth's determination (and violence) makes Macbeth change his mind and commit himself to evil;
- Macbeth's language becomes forceful at end of scene, as he takes control, having accepted his role in the forthcoming evil deed;
- at the end they leave together, united.

Macbeth's dealings with the witches elsewhere in the play:

- Macbeth consorts with the witches, who embody evil, but he is still free to resist them;
- their information tempts Macbeth their message is very compelling and attractive: "would they had stayed";
- before he arrives with them (Act IV), they know "something wicked this way comes".

- they provide information but do not directly invite Macbeth to commit crimes;
- they provide information about the future which destabilises the present by tempting Macbeth;
- Macbeth comes to depend on their information;
- the witches are portrayed as "hags" to emphasise evil;
- the witches only plant suggestions it is Macbeth who carries out the evil;
- his second encounter with the witches is of his own volition: he now depends on their information;
- he is drawn to commit increasingly horrific deeds.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

7 Shakespeare: Romeo and Juliet

(a) Show that Romeo and Juliet are victims of fate.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- what the Chorus says in the Prologue to Act I;
- Romeo's relationship with Juliet;
- and anything else you think is relevant.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What the Chorus says in the Prologue to Act I:

- the Chorus sets the scene, foreshadowing events in the play;
- the Chorus suggests that fate will play a major part in events, describing Romeo and Juliet as "star-cross'd lovers";
- the Chorus claims that Romeo and Juliet's love is "death-mark'd", indicating that fate will not allow them to have a happy relationship and their love is destined to lead to their deaths;
- the Chorus suggests that Romeo and Juliet were destined for tragedy from birth: "From forth the fatal loins of these two foes".

Romeo's relationship with Juliet:

- even before meeting Juliet, Romeo senses something amiss and suggests the stars hold some secret: "my mind misgives/Some consequence yet hanging in the stars";
- when he leaves her in the morning, Juliet fears the next time she sees him he will be dead, foreshadowing their next meeting: "Methinks I see thee, now thou art below, as one dead in the bottom of a tomb";
- when Romeo is banished, Juliet blames fortune: "O fortune, fortune! All men call thee fickle...";
- he rails against fate when Balthasar tells him of Juliet's death Balthasar: "her immortal part with angels lives..." Romeo: "I defy you, stars";
- believing that fate has tried to keep them apart, he tries to defy fate by committing suicide to be with Juliet, thus fulfilling the words of the Prologue.

Additional material may include:

- after killing Tybalt, Romeo blames fate, declaring that he is "fortune's fool";
- Friar Laurence blames fortune for preventing Romeo from receiving his letter: "Unhappy fortune!";
- Friar Laurence refuses to take the blame for events himself, claiming a higher power ruined their plans: "A greater power than we can contradict hath thwarted our intents".

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques, in response to the Key Term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at the extract from Act III scene iii beginning about line 135 with Friar Laurence's words, "What, rouse thee, man! Thy Juliet is alive" and ending at the end of the scene.

Show that Friar Laurence acts both wisely and unwisely.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Friar Laurence says in the extract;
- Shakespeare's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- Friar Laurence's actions after Romeo's departure to Mantua until the end of the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Friar Laurence says in the extract:

- he scolds Romeo for acting like a misbehaving, sullen girl and whining about his bad luck;
- he explains how Romeo has much to be thankful for;
- he warns Romeo that people who act like Romeo die miserably;
- he sets out a plan for Romeo to reside in Mantua until news of the marriage can be spread;
- he believes that the public news of the marriage will help to make peace with the families;
- he believes that his plan will mean that Romeo will be welcomed back "with twenty hundred thousand times more joy";
- he hopes the Prince will change his mind after things have calmed down;
- he sends Romeo to Juliet for the night but warns him to be out of the city before morning;
- his plan is accepted.

Shakespeare's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- Friar Laurence takes control and commands Romeo: "What, rouse thee, man!";
- Friar Laurence lists the outline of his plan;
- Friar Laurence orders Romeo to go and see Juliet, "Go get thee to thy love", "hence and comfort her" to begin his plan of action;
- Nurse speaks to congratulate and praise Friar Laurence as wise.

Friar Laurence's actions after Romeo's departure to Mantua until the end of the play:

- he formulates a plan to help Juliet: "......give consent./To marry Paris";
- he gives Juliet a vial with a potion to take and make her "appear like death";
- he gives Juliet renewed hope;
- he will send a letter to Romeo telling him the details of the plan;
- he is worried and concerned that the letter has not reached Romeo: "unhappy fortune";
- he feels fear, and is afraid that something bad might have happened: "fear comes upon me"; "O much I fear some ill might have happened";

- he is shocked when he finds both Paris and Romeo dead;
- he panics, and makes a cowardly retreat from the vault;
- he is found trembling, sighing and weeping;
- he throws himself at the mercy of the Prince: "And here I stand..... myself condemned and myself excus'd"; and confesses everything;
- the Friar is the catalyst who brings about the deaths of Romeo and Juliet.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

8 Shakespeare: The Merchant of Venice

(a) Do you think that Antonio deserves sympathy? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- Antonio's friendship with Bassanio;
- Antonio's dealings with Shylock.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with informed understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

Antonio's friendship with Bassanio:

- Antonio demonstrates a keen and helpful interest in Bassanio's affairs and has gained his young friend's affection and gratitude: "To you, Antonio/ I owe the most, in money and in love";
- Antonio's offer of help is unconditional some may say rash;
- Bassanio's self-recrimination when the bond falls due casts a sympathetic light on Antonio: "I have engaged myself to a dear friend,/ Engag'd my friend to his mere enemy/ To feed my means";
- Bassanio's encomium on his friend, and Antonio's pathetic letter after the casket scene may be reasons for sympathy;
- Antonio's stoical facing of death in the trial, and the value he places on friendship;
- when it became known he had caused division between Bassanio and Portia, he pledges his "soul" to her that Bassanio "Will never more break faith advisedly".

Antonio's dealings with Shylock:

- Antonio's unregretted violent intolerance towards Shylock in the past has drawn the Jew's implacable hatred;
- Antonio has undercut Shylock's usury business, lending money gratis, presumably to the deserving;
- Antonio is no match for Shylock's cunning and deception in the bargain scene. His naivety may draw sympathy or impatience;
- he refuses to be civil to Shylock, even when trying to negotiate a loan from him: "The devil can quote Scripture for his purpose";
- the barbaric terms of the bond suggested by Shylock, but accepted by Antonio;
- Shylock's murderous vindictiveness towards Antonio (III.ii);
- Antonio's unavailing appeal to Shylock outside the jail, his loss of hope and self-esteem and his subsequent passivity at the beginning of the court proceedings: "I am a tainted wether of the flock...".

Shakespeare's use of language and dramatic techniques:

- the contrasting trajectories of fortune of Antonio and Shylock;
- the locations in which Antonio is seen chart his fall and rise the Rialto, the jail, the courtroom, Belmont;
- the ebb and flow of the court scene, particularly the gruesome details of how the penalty is to be exacted, may cause sympathy;
- language and imagery used to describe Antonio by Bassanio, his other friends, Shylock and himself.

Better answers may balance sympathy for Antonio's predicament with criticism of his bigotry and/or lack of sagacity. The variation in his behaviour from violent bigotry to despairing defeatism provides ample scope for comment.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques, in response to the Key Term "presenting", see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

(b) Look again at Act III scene ii, from about line 73 to about line 129. (The extract begins with Bassanio's words, "So may the outward shows..." and ends with Bassanio's words, "...so far this shadow/ Doth limp behind the substance".)

Show that Portia's suitors in the casket game get what they deserve.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Bassanio and Portia say in the extract;
- Shakespeare's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- Morocco's choice of casket;
- Arragon's choice of casket.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting evidence.

The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Bassanio and Portia say in the extract:

- Bassanio is cautiously aware that appearances may be deceptive;
- he draws examples from law, religion, soldiers' reputation for valour, and beauty and cosmetics to remind himself that this is so;
- he rejects "gaudy gold" and "pale and common silver" and chooses the "plainness" of the lead casket;
- Portia's access of happiness reveals her capacity for love and shows her to be a prize well worth the winning;
- Bassanio's outburst on seeing the portrait shows his admiration of what he has won and his ability to appreciate it;
- he returns to his thoughts of what appears to be and what really is in grateful and modest recognition of his good fortune.

Shakespeare's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- Bassanio's thoughtful, serious tone as he considers his options;
- Portia's attentive silence;
- use of aside to reveal her state of mind;
- Bassanio's tone changes to one of wonder;
- argument gives way to exclamations and rhetorical questions: "Move these eyes?".

Morocco's choice of casket:

- Morocco is boastful about the quality of his love, and about his military prowess;
- he speaks of himself rather than of Portia
- he assumes that blind chance, not deserving, will determine success or failure;
- he repeats the words "fortune", "chance";

- he surveys the caskets and judges by appearances and popular opinion, but still with the proud assumption that he deserves success: "I do in birth deserve her";
- his pride and superficiality gain him a bleak future.

Arragon's choice of casket:

- Portia characterizes Arragon as a "deliberate fool" prosing and tedious; the flaws of Arragon and Morocco are carefully distinguished by Shakespeare;
- he too believes in his own exclusivity, despising the "fool multitude";
- his cleverness extends as far as to be suspicious of appearance, but no further;
- his vanity and inflated sense of his own merit: "I will assume desert";
- his assumption is rewarded appropriately: "the portrait of a blinking idiot".

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques elsewhere in the play, see Guidelines at the start of Section A.

Section B: Poetry

In this section we are assessing four assessment objectives:

AO1

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations;

AO2

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes and settings;

AO3

Make comparisons and explain links between texts, evaluating writers' differing ways of expressing meaning and achieving effects;

AO4

Relate texts to their social, cultural and historical contexts; explain how texts have been influential and significant to self and other readers in different contexts and at different times.

Guidelines to Assessing AO2 in Candidates' Response to Poetry (Foundation Tier)

Assessment Objective 2 requires candidates to "explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes and settings".

This will be effected through:

Key term in the question (Foundation Tier):

"Compare and contrast what the speakers . . ."

And:

Key Terms in the bullets (Foundation Tier):

"how each poet uses language to . . ."

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques

When assessing candidates' responses to poetry, some of the following uses of language and stylistic devices may be noted. (This list is neither prescriptive nor exhaustive, but is intended as a helpful guide to examiners.)

- versification and structure (use of some terms, e.g. quatrain, couplet, octave, metre, iambic rhythm);
- specific forms (e.g. ode, sonnet, monologue, lyric);
- similes and metaphors;
- imagery and use of the senses (especially visual imagery and auditory imagery);
- alliteration and other "sound" features (e.g. assonance, consonance, repetition, rhyme and rhythm);
- vocabulary choices;
- repetition of words or ideas;
- use of punctuation;
- visual impact of the poem on the page.

Assessment Objective	Band 0 Mark [0]	Band 1: Very Little [1]–[10]	Band 2: Emerging [11]–[20]	Band 3: Some [21]–[30]	Band 4: Competent [31]–[40]
AO1 Argument	Response not worthy of credit	Some writing about text or task	Attempts to focus on question	Begins to focus on question	Some focus on question
			Simple, straightforward or limited response	Begins to develop a response	Fairly developed response
			Assertion, basic conclusion, narrative or description, quotation and/or paraphrase	Some elements of argument	Competent argument
			-	Sound level of accuracy	Competent level of
		Very basic level of accuracy in written expression and	Fairly sound level of accuracy in written expression and coherence	in written expression and coherence of response	accuracy in written expression and coherence of response.	of response. Form mostly appropriate		coherence of response
AO2 Form and Lanquage	Response not worthy of credit	Simplistic remarks about content	Some awareness of content	Some relevant comments on content	Competent comments on content
		Little or no awareness of structure, form or poetic techniques	Some awareness of structure, form or poetic techniques	Some explanation of structure, form or poetic techniques	Competent comments on structure, form or poetic techniques
			Occasional reference to poet's words	Some understanding of the poet's use of language	Competent understanding of the poet's use of language
AO3 Comparison and Contrast	Response not worthy of credit	Poems considered in isolation	Simplistic connections made between poems	Obvious comparisons and contrasts between poems	Competent comparisons and contrasts between poems
AO4 Awareness of Context	Response not worthy of credit	No contextual material	Contextual material is present but not incorporated in argument	Some attempt to incorporate contextual material in argument	Competent attempt to incorporate contextual material in argument

Assessment Matrix – Foundation Tier Unit 2, Section B: Poetry

9 Anthology One: Themes – Love and Death

(a) Look again at A Poison Tree by William Blake (List A) and at Those Winter Sundays by Robert Hayden (List B), which both deal with the theme of hidden feelings.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about hidden feelings.

Which poem do you prefer? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What each poem is about:

A Poison Tree:

The poet believes that if an unhealthy feeling is not expressed, it becomes worse, and considers the nature and the consequences of concealed anger as it develops and festers. The speaker describes with a hint of subtle pleasure how he has tended and cultivated his 'wrath', speaking of it as if it were a plant rather than an intense emotion. At the climax of the poem the speaker reveals his own excitement at luring his foe into blameworthiness, but it is really a telling indictment of himself.

Those Winter Sundays:

The poem reflects on the memories of an unhappy childhood. The speaker realises in adult life what he couldn't or didn't appreciate when he was a child. In the poem it is clear that there is distance between the father and son and little communication. But it is discovered at the end of the poem that love was actually present.

Candidates' response to use of language:

A Poison Tree:

- sixteen-line poem with a very simple structure: four quatrains of rhyming couplets;
- use of and to link each stanza which hurries the pace;
- language of nurture shows the speaker's apparent pleasure in hiding his anger and letting it grow: "I water'd it with fears...I sunned it with smiles";
- use of symbolism the apple could refer to the Garden of Eden, temptation and punishment;

- unusual punctuation demonstrating eccentricity on the part of the poet;
- metaphor of the tree;
- the final stanza demonstrates how unhealthy it is to bottle up emotions, allowing them to fester, and leading to severe consequences;
- told like a fable with pictorial setting and simple vocabulary.

Those Winter Sundays:

- vivid descriptions of cold and discomfort using harsh consonants: "blueback cold/then with cracked hands that ached";
- elongated last line slows the reader down, makes the reader pause to reflect;
- natural rhythms of speech, enjambment throughout the poem;
- use of questions and repetition at the end shows the speaker's angst and regrets;
- the metaphor of 'love's austere and lonely offices' referring to the father's sense of duty or obligation towards the speaker;
- use of alliteration: "banked fires blazed" to emphasise the small action which is the core of his memory;
- straightforward, everyday language to describe the everyday event and his father's hardworking character: "father got up early/and put his clothes on", "him/who had driven out the cold and polished my good shoes";
- told realistically, with clear detail.

Similarities and differences in the poets' attitudes and the candidates' personal preference:

- Both poems reflect on unexpressed emotions: A Poison Tree describes the effects of letting anger fester rather than letting it out, while Those Winter Sundays focuses on the speaker's realisation of the love his father had for him but which was unexpressed.
- The speaker in Those Winter Sundays expresses regret for his indifference towards his father and lack of appreciation of what he did for him in the final stanza, while Blake in A Poison Tree warns against the dangerous effects of his suppressed anger.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

- Blake believed in expressing emotions rather than allowing them to fester and develop into unhealthy hatred. His advice appears to be to 'let it out'. His approach to repression anticipates popular twentieth century views.
- Robert E. Hayden was brought up in a slum area of Detroit by foster parents, in a household which was often violent and unhappy. Yet this poem deals with the speaker's lack of understanding of what was done for him as a child.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

(b) Look again at Bredon Hill by A.E. Housman which deals with the theme of death, and at one poem from List B which also deals with the theme of death. Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about death.

Which poem do you find more interesting? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

Selection of a second poem:

This question is about what each speaker tells us about death, how the poets convey this and the candidate's personal response. Ensure that the self-selected poem is appropriate for discussion with the named poem.

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What the named poem is about:

Bredon Hill:

The poem is a ballad, spoken by a young man addressing the church bells, which are personified as a summons to worship, a prelude to the joy of marriage, and, sadly, the end of life and love. The opening of the poem suggests a love affair, but the bell continues to ring, and the girl eventually goes to the church in a coffin. In the last two lines of the poem the speaker addresses the bells directly, acknowledging that their call to the grave applied not just to his lover, but also to himself.

Candidates' response to use of language:

- regular rhythm and rhyme with the final line of each stanza creating a short echo effect;
- suggestion of seasonal transitions: the 'larks' change to 'snows';
- personification of the bells: they speak a message to the people; the young couple ignore the bells as they spend time together, hinting at the possibility of punishment for turning away from religious life;
- variation of the significance of the bells, what they symbolise, and how the speaker reacts to them;
- use of dialogue;
- command and answer structure;
- ambiguous nature of the ending: does the speaker regret turning away from the Church or is he overcome with grief?

Similarities and differences in the poets' attitudes and the candidates' personal preference:

Reward clear connections made between the attitudes to death described by Housman and attitudes to death shown in the self-chosen poem. Reward also comparisons and contrasts made between the poems as regards poetic technique and relevant contextual material. Reward a clearly argued preference.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

Candidates may show awareness of some of the following:

- Housman's poem comes from the collection 'A Shropshire Lad' which later became very popular with soldiers in the First World War as they faced leaving loved ones behind and death in battle. The poems in the collection were noted for their pessimism and preoccupation with death
- the parish church as a traditional centre of communal life in England.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

10 Anthology Two: Themes – Nature and War

(a) Look again at An Irish Airman Foresees His Death by WB Yeats (List C) and at The Castle by Edwin Muir (List D), which both deal with the theme of attitudes to war.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about attitudes to war.

Which poem do you prefer? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What each poem is about:

An Irish Airman Foresees His Death:

The poem expresses the thoughts of an airman, in which he rejects the traditional reasons for volunteering for battle and explains that his desire to escape and experience the freedom of flying is the overwhelming factor behind his choice. The poem emphasizes balance: he does not fight for political or moral motives, but for personal ones. His past life seems a waste, his future life seems that it will be a waste, and his death will balance his life.

The Castle:

The poem is an account of the defence of a castle where the enemy seems to pose no threat. However, the defenders of the castle become complacent and the castle is lost. The final verse reflects on why this happened. The poem is an allegory, a story of complacency defeated by greed or of treachery, the ever-present enemy within.

Candidates' response to use of language:

An Irish Airman Foresees His Death:

- sixteen-line poem with a very simple structure: lines metered in iambic tetrameter, and four grouped "quatrains" of alternating rhymes;
- the poem appears uses a listing technique where the speaker records every factor which might influence his decision to go to battle;
- the language in the poem reflects the idea of balance which is key to flying: "this life, this death";
- repetition of line patterns;

- mystical imagery of why the airman has chosen to fly: "A lonely impulse of delight";
- tone of indifference, indicating a lack of interest in the war itself;
- alliteration of "country is Kiltartan Cross" emphasises a certain pride in his place of birth;
- tone of acceptance at the end of the poem when the speaker equates life and death.

The Castle:

- regular rhyme and rhythm enhance the storytelling quality of the poem;
- language is vivid and plain, showing complacent attitudes of the defenders in the first three stanzas;
- tone in the first three stanzas is self-congratulatory, while the last three stanzas have a tone of regret and shame;
- repetition in the first half emphasises the gloating attitude of the speaker;
- rhetorical question used to introduce change of tone;
- use of alliteration to show the turning point in the poem and emphasise how easily the castle was taken;
- rhetorical question in the final stanza emphasises the speaker's confusion at being betrayed;
- urgency of feelings of shame and desire for self-exculpation conveyed by change in narrative from plural "we" to singular "I".

Similarities and differences in the poets' attitudes and the candidates' personal preference:

- the speaker in An Irish Airman demonstrates indifference to war, showing little passion for battle, while the speaker in The Castle shows first complacency then shame at being betrayed and defeated;
- both poems consider war from a personal point of view, describing the thoughts and feelings of individuated speakers;
- neither poem adopts a heroic stance.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

- Yeats's poem was written in memory of Robert Gregory, son of Yeats's friend Lady Gregory, who was killed in action in 1918. The poem says very little about the war itself, which might reflect the complex feelings of some Irishmen towards the conflict in which they had enlisted to fight. Yeats himself had no military experience;
- The Castle can be understood in several ways, for example as an allegory of the power of greed or of the weakness seated in the very heart of power; or politically, as an account of the self-interest which weakened the attempts of the European democracies to resist Fascism in the 1930s.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

(b) Look again at Auguries of Innocence by William Blake (List C) which deals with the theme of man's attitude to nature, and at one poem from List D which also deals with the theme of man's attitude to of nature.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about man's attitude to nature.

Which poem do you find more interesting? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

Selection of a second poem:

This question is about what each speaker tells us about man's attitude to nature, how the poets convey this, and the candidate's personal response. Ensure that the self-selected poem is appropriate for discussion with the named poem.

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What the named poem is about:

Auguries of Innocence:

In this poem, Blake expresses the belief that great truths are to be found in small things. This extract focuses on Blake's hatred of injustice and cruelty. The poem contains a series of paradoxes that speak of innocence juxtaposed with evil and cruel mistreatment.

Candidates' response to use of language:

- use of paradox in the first four lines establishes Blake's message that the universal is contained within tiny details;
- use of imagery throughout the extract with animals described to illustrate man's cruelty and mistreatment of the natural world and the dire consequences of such abuse;
- main body of the extract written in rhyming couplets, each of which contains a quasi-proverbial saying;
- use of reversal to show how, when natural behaviour is allowed, humanity will benefit: "Every Wolf's & Lion's howl/Raises from Hell a Human Soul";
- argument by repetition and accumulation of examples;
- use of capitalisation to place humanity and the natural world on the same level;
- use of symbolism: for example 'The Lamb' is a figure of innocence and symbolic of Christ;
- judgemental and righteous tone;
- the last two lines suggest that mistreatment of nature will be punished at the Last Judgement.

Similarities and differences in the poets' attitudes and the candidates' personal preference:

Reward clear connections made between the anger at mistreatment of nature described by Blake and the attitude towards nature shown in the self-chosen poem. Reward also comparisons and contrasts made between the poems as regards poetic technique and relevant contextual material. Reward a clearly argued preference.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

Candidates may show awareness of some of the following:

 Blake was writing at a time when the attitude to nature was public and brutal – hare hunting, cockfighting and horses misused on the road are all mentioned. Blake's hatred of such mistreatment is clear and shown in his description of the severe consequences of cruelty. As a Romantic poet, Blake was sensitive to the relationship between man and nature. And as a painter/illustrator he thought in pictorial ways.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

11 Anthology Three: Heaney and Hardy

Answer either (a) or (b)

(a) Look again at Thatcher by Seamus Heaney (List E), and at The Old Workman by Thomas Hardy (List F) which both deal with the theme of traditional work.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about traditional work.

Which poem do you find more interesting? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1) backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

What each poem is about:

Thatcher:

- a description of a local workman;
- his manner, equipment, and work-materials;
- praise for the skill of the workman;
- the survival of a traditional craft.

The Old Workman:

An old stone-mason explains to a questioner why he has aged prematurely.

Candidates' response to use of language:

Thatcher:

- loosely decasyllabic lines, with irregular rhythm and hinted rhyme;
- the thatcher is in demand, conveyed by "bespoke for weeks";
- slow to start, his preparations are unhurried, and materials are tested before use;
- he is methodical and well-prepared: "laid out well-honed blades";
- there are ideas of him slowly mastering the material "handful by handful". The image of the "staple" shows him getting it under control;
- heraldic term "couchant" may suggest the strangeness of the man and his work;
- verbs "shaved..flushed...stitched" convey meticulousness;
- honeycomb image suggests intricacy of what he constructs;
- his audience, hitherto invisible, appear only as admiring gapers in final line "they" anonymous in the face of his skill;
- the transmuting Midas image concludes this poem of praise.

The Old Workman:

- poem in dialogue form, question and answer the mason's apologia for his life;
- rhymed quatrains, conversational rhythms;
- use of technical terms: "quoin", "ashlar", "freestone";
- word "mansion" suggests social gulf between workman and his employers;
- permanence of his work;
- his sudden injury conveyed onomatopoeically: "crack";
- echoed by his dialect description of himself as "crookt"; separation of workman and employer, poor and rich, is conveyed in several ways;
- his satisfaction that he has benefited his employers conveyed in dialect phrase "right and tight";
- he has the workman's satisfaction that his work will outlast him.

Similarities and differences in the poet's attitudes and the candidate's personal response:

- the thatcher described from outside whereas the mason speaks for himself;
- Heaney accepts strangeness and skill whereas Hardy emphasises endurance;
- although methodical, there is a touch of the magical to the thatcher. We appreciate the mason's humanity and kindness, rather than his skill.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

Candidates may show awareness of some of the following:

- traditional crafts in Ulster;
- Heaney's childhood in Co. Derry;
- Hardy's father was a stone-mason;
- ideas of the skilled craftsman and pride in one's work;
- the reference to the mason's "life's ache" evokes a world where an injured workman received no incapacity benefits, but worked on.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

(b) Look again at Blackberry-Picking by Seamus Heaney (List E) which deals with the theme of disappointment, and at one poem from List F which also deals with the theme of disappointment.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about disappointment.

Which poem do you find more interesting? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1) backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

Selection of a second poem:

This question is about what each speaker tells us about disappointment, how the poets convey this, and the candidate's personal response. Ensure that the self-selected poem is appropriate for discussion with the named poem.

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What the named poem is about:

Blackberry-Picking:

- the speaker provides a vivid description of picking blackberries as a child;
- in the first half of the poem the speaker describes in detail the process of picking blackberries;
- in the second half of the poem the speaker discusses the failed attempts made to preserve the blackberries;
- blackberry picking is used as a metaphor to explore hope and disappointment and how things never live up to expectations.

Candidates' response to use of language:

Blackberry-Picking:

- the title itself suggests the summer ritual of fruit picking and the pleasure involved in this;
- in the first part of the poem the speaker presents the tasting of the blackberries as a sensual pleasure, e.g. "flesh was sweet", "summer's blood" and "lust";
- this is enhanced through an evocative use of colour adjectives, e.g. "glossy purple clot" and helps to generate the speaker's sense of excitement;
- the speaker makes the experience more intimate and personal by changing the pronoun from "you" to "us";

- the speaker's enthusiasm is expressed through the naming of the various receptacles used to collect the blackberries and the detailing of the journey undertaken;
- the speaker suggests that this picking has become savage or violent as the children's palms are described as "sticky as Bluebeard's", the infamous nobleman known for killing his wives;
- there is a tonal shift in the second part of the poem as the euphoria of the first part gives way to disappointment;
- the sensuous language changes to darker, more foreboding language: "A rat-grey fungus, glutting on our cache";
- the speaker presents the frustrated view of the child: "I always felt like crying. It wasn't fair" together with the more detached adult view in the last line: "each year I hoped they'd keep, knew they would not";
- Heaney uses half-rhyming iambic pentameter couplets throughout, apart from two occasions when full rhymes are used to define and connect the initial experience of the ripened blackberries with the spoiling of the berries in the cans.

Similarities and differences in the poets' attitudes and the candidates' personal response:

Reward clear connections made between the disappointment described by Heaney and the disappointment shown in the self-chosen poem. Reward also comparisons and contrasts made between the poems as regards poetic technique and relevant contextual material. Reward a clearly argued preference.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

- Heaney is drawing on childhood experiences from growing up in rural Ireland;
- children's activities which follow the seasonal rounding of the year conkers, turnip lanterns, building snowmen.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

Section C: Unseen Poem

In this section we are assessing two assessment objectives:

AO1

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations;

AO2

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes and settings.

Guidelines to Assessing AO2 in Candidates' Response to Poetry (Foundation Tier)

Assessment Objective 2 requires candidates to "explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes and settings."

Key term in the question (Foundation Tier):

"how the poet uses language . . ."

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques

When assessing candidates' responses to poetry, some of the following uses of language and stylistic devices may be noted. (This list is neither prescriptive nor exhaustive, but is intended as a helpful guide to examiners.)

- versification and structure (use of some terms, e.g. quatrain, couplet, octave, metre, iambic rhythm);
- specific forms (e.g. ode, sonnet, monologue, lyric);
- similes and metaphors;
- imagery and use of the senses (especially visual imagery and auditory imagery);
- alliteration and other "sound" features (e.g. assonance, consonance, repetition, rhyme and rhythm);
- vocabulary choices;
- repetition of words or ideas;
- use of punctuation;
- visual impact of the poem on the page.

AssessmentBand 0Band 1: Very littleBand 2: EmergingBand 3: SomeObjectivesMark (0)(1)-5-5-5-[5]AC1Response not worthy ofSome writing about textAttempt to focus onBegins to focus onArgumentcreditor taskMark (0)Some writing about textAttempt to focus onArgumentcreditResponse not worthy ofSome writing about textAttempt to focus onBegins to focus onArgumentcreditSome writing about textAttempt to focus onResponseResponseArgumentArgumentaceuracySome elements ofaceuracyArgumentAsertion, pasicSome elements ofaceuracyArgumentaceuracy in writtenacouracy in writtenacouracyArgumentaceuracy in writtenacouracy in writtenacouracy in writtenArgumentaceuracy in writtenacouracy in written	č 8848	ssessment N	Assessment Matrix: Foundation Tier Unit 2, Section C: Unsee	it 2, Section C: Unseen Poetry	∋try
A01 Response not worthy of acedit Some writing about text or task Attempt to focus on question Begins to focus on question Argument cedit or task Attempt to focus on our task Begins to develop a limited response Pargument Argument Begins to develop a limited response Begins to develop a limited response Pargument Assertion, basic Some elements of conclusion, narrative or and/or paraphrase Some elements of conclusion, narrative or and/or paraphrase Pargument Assertion, basic Assertion, basic conclusion, narrative or and/or paraphrase Some elements of conclusion, and conclusion, narrative or and/or paraphrase AD2 Response not worthy of colinence of response. Sound level of contence of response. Sound level of contence of response. AD2 Response not worthy of cedit Simplistic remarks about Some avareness of content Some relevant comments argument Form and credit content Content Some relevant comments argument Form and credit content An content AP2 Response not worthy of structure, form or poetic Some relevant comments argument Form and credit Content An content Form and credit Content Some relevant comments argument AP3 Some relevant comments Con		\ssessment)bjective	Band 0 Mark [0]	Band 1: Very little [1]–[5]	Band 2: Emerging [6]–[10]	Band 3: Some [11]–[15]	Band 4: Competent [16]–[20]
AO2 Simple, straightforward or limited response Begins to develop a limited response Assertion, basic Some elements of conclusion, narrative or description, quotation Some elements of argument Very basic level of and/or paraphrase Assertion, basic Some elements of argument Accuracy in written expression and ocherence of response Some elements of conclusion, narrative or description, quotation AO2 Response not worthy of colific cemarks about Some avareness of contente of response AO2 Response not worthy of content Some avareness of contente Intel or no awareness of content Some avareness of content Some relevant comments content Intel or no awareness of content Some avareness of content Some relevant comments content Reponse not worthy of bechniques Coccasional reference to content Some relevant comments content	۹ ۹	v01 vrgument	Response not worthy of credit	Some writing about text or task	Attempt to focus on question	Begins to focus on question	Some focus on question
Action Assertion, basic conclusion, narrative or and/or paraphrase Some elements of argument AD2 Response not worthy of redit Very basic level of accuracy in written expression and expression and coherence of response. Some elements of argument AO2 Response not worthy of redit Simplistic remarks about content Some alements of argument AO2 Response not worthy of redit Simplistic remarks about content Some alements of argument AO2 Response not worthy of redit Simplistic remarks about content Some avarences of some relevant comments Integuage Little or no awareness of structure, form or poetic techniques Some understanding of the poet's use of anguage					Simple, straightforward or limited response	Begins to develop a response	Fairly developed response
Very basic level of accuracy in written expression and expression and expression and expression and expression and coherence of response.Sound level of accuracy in written expression and expression and coherence of response.AO2Response not worthy of content creditSimplistic remarks about contentForm mostly appropriate content contentSome relevant comments on contentAO2Response not worthy of creditSimplistic remarks about contentSome awareness of contentSome relevant comments on contentAO2Response not worthy of creditSimplistic remarks about contentSome awareness of contentSome relevant comments on contentAO2Response not worthy of creditSimplistic remarks about contentSome awareness of contentSome relevant comments on contentAO2Response not worthy of techniquesSome awareness of contentSome relevant comments on contentAO3Response not worthy					Assertion, basic conclusion, narrative or description, quotation and/or paraphrase	Some elements of argument	Competent argument
Response not worthy of content Simplistic remarks about Some awareness of content Some relevant comments Jage Little or no awareness of structure, form or poetic Some relevant comments on content Lage Little or no awareness of structure, form or poetic Some relevant comments on content And Credit Content Content on content And Credit Content on content And Content Content on content Content Content Content on content And Content Content Content And Cocasional reference to Some understanding And Poet's words of the poet's use of fanguage				suc	Fairly sound level of accuracy in written expression and coherence of response. Form mostly appropriate	Sound level of accuracy in written expression and coherence of response	Competent level of accuracy in written expression and coherence of response
Little or no awareness of Some awareness of Some relevant comments structure, form or poetic techniques techniques techniques of the poetic techniques poetic words fianguage	 	orm and	Response not worthy of credit	Simplistic remarks about content	Some awareness of content	Some relevant comments on content	Competent comments on content
eference to Some understanding of the poet's use of language	2			Little or no awareness of structure, form or poetic techniques	Some awareness of structure, form or poetic techniques	Some relevant comments on structure, form or poetic techniques	Competent comments on structure, form or poetic techniques
_					Occasional reference to poet's words	Some understanding of the poet's use of language	Competent understanding of the poet's use of language

12 Section C: Unseen Poetry

Write about the poem If We Must Die.

In your answer you should consider:

- what the poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of the speaker;
- how the poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the poet's methods and intentions (AO2).

What the poet has written about:

The speaker describes the violence his people suffer and how they are outnumbered and likely to face death at the hands of their enemies. The speaker expresses his hatred for their enemies and the desperate situation in which his people find themselves. He exhorts his people to stand up and fight back, even though the odds are against them, in order that they can die with honour.

The speaker's thoughts and feelings about his enemies:

- he regards them as barely human: "the monsters we defy";
- he expects not just violence at their hands but mockery too, a refinement of cruelty: "making their mock at our accursed lot";
- the language used shows his hatred and contempt: "murderous, cowardly pack", "mad and hungry dogs";
- there is however some acknowledgement of their humanity: they are capable of the concept of honour: "shall be constrained to honor us".

The speaker's thoughts and feelings about his own people:

- he wishes them to rise to a great occasion: "We must meet the common foe;/Though far outnumbered, let us show us brave";
- history or fate has piled misfortune on them: "If we must die, let it not be like hogs";
- they are capable, nevertheless, of great and noble actions: "let us nobly die", "though far outnumbered, let us show us brave";
- they are capable of defying death itself: "dying, but fighting back";
- they are capable of uniting: "we must meet the common foe!"

The language, imagery and structure of the poem:

- use of animal imagery to describe the enemies: "mad and hungry dogs", "murderous cowardly pack";
- use of simile and alliteration to describe the vulnerability of his people: "not like hogs hunted and penned";
- use of repetition of "If we must die" makes the poem sound like a speech, calling on his people to stand up for themselves;
- use of exclamation to call on his people: "Oh, kinsmen!";
- includes himself in the poem: "we", "our";
- tone of anger and desire for revenge;
- use of contrast in the descriptions of the enemies ("monsters") and his people ("precious", "nobly");
- emotive language to create sympathy in the reader;
- sonnet;
- volta in line 9 as the speaker directly calls on his people to stand up for themselves;
- rhyme scheme reflects the change from describing what is happening to appealing to his people;
- use of enjambment to break up rhythm and make the poem sound more like a speech;
- rhetorical elements.

Be receptive to other suggestions which are text-based.

Use of language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section C.

Use the Assessment Matrix.

8848.01F