Introduction

A variety of responses is possible and expected in English Literature, but whatever the chosen question, assessment should be based on the candidates' responses to the following assessment objectives and their interpretation as set out below.

Assessment Objective 1:

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the text;
- understand and communicate explicit and implicit meanings;
- substantiate point of view by relevant reference, inference and deduction, using appropriate and effective quotation as required;
- express convincing and supported personal responses, opinions and preferences;
- provide insights into characters, relationships, attitudes and values.

Quality of written communication is also being assessed through AO1. This requires that candidates: ensure that text is legible and that spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate so that meaning is clear; select and use a form and style of writing appropriate to purpose; and organise information clearly and coherently, using appropriate vocabulary. All mark grids include a descriptor under AO1 assessing QWC through reference to the structure/organisation of responses and accuracy in expression.

Assessment Objective 2:

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes, characters and settings.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- consider and comment upon differing views and interpretations of texts;
- comment meaningfully on the texts studied, referring to the appropriateness of the form and structure adopted by the writer;
- describe and appreciate the effectiveness of general and specific uses of language and stylistic devices;
- appreciate changing atmosphere and tone and comment upon how they are achieved.

Assessment Objective 3:

Make comparisons and explain links between texts, evaluating writers' differing ways of expressing meaning and achieving effects.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- identify similarities and differences between texts;
- make and explore connections and comparisons between texts;
- select and juxtapose relevant details of theme, character, setting and tone;
- analyse similarities and differences in the use of language, structure and form.

Assessment Objective 4:

Relate texts to their social, cultural and historical contexts; explain how texts have been influential and significant to self and other readers in different contexts and at different times.

This will be conveyed by the candidate's ability to:

- show an awareness of the context in which texts were written;
- take into account alternative interpretations of texts;
- give a personal response.

Every effort should be made to assess the work of the candidate positively. Examiners should annotate scripts and comment appropriately on points made and insights expressed. Annotation and the award of marks should be based on the appropriate assessment matrix.

Arriving at a Final Mark

Markers should use the general Assessment Matrix which sets out the broad criteria for the four mark bands in combination with the specific requirements set down for each question.

For use and application in Section A: Drama and Section B: Poetry

ASSESSMENT OF SPELLING, PUNCTUATION AND GRAMMAR

If the answer does not address the question, then no spelling, punctuation and grammar marks are available. If the candidate has attempted to answer the question but produced nothing of credit, spelling, punctuation and grammar marks may still be awarded.

THRESHOLD PERFORMANCE [1]

Candidates spell, punctuate and use the rules of grammar with reasonable accuracy in the context of the demands of the question. Any errors do not hinder meaning in the response. Where required, they use a limited range of specialist terms accurately.

INTERMEDIATE PERFORMANCE [2]

Candidates spell, punctuate and use the rules of grammar with considerable accuracy and general control of meaning in the context of the demands of the question. Where required, they use a good range of specialist terms with facility.

HIGH PERFORMANCE [3]

Candidates spell, punctuate and use the rules of grammar with consistent accuracy and effective control of meaning in the context of the demands of the question. Where required, they use a wide range of specialist terms adeptly and with precision.

Section A – Drama

In this section we are assessing two assessment objectives:

AO1

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations;

and

AO2

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes, characters and settings.

Guidelines to assessing AO2 in candidates' responses to Drama (Foundation Tier)

Assessment Objective 2 requires candidates to "explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes, characters and settings."

Key terms in the question:

"In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting ..."

Key terms in the bullets:

The named dramatist's "use of language and dramatic techniques".

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Dramatic Techniques

When assessing candidates' responses to drama, some of the following uses of language and stylistic and dramatic devices may be noted. (This list is neither prescriptive nor exhaustive, but is intended as a helpful guide to examiners.)

- division into acts and scenes;
- stage directions;
- use of some technical terms (e.g. exposition, protagonist, hero, minor character, denouement);
- cohesive elements (e.g. repetition of words or ideas, climax, sequential ordering);
- disjunctive elements (e.g. curtain, exit, entrance);
- use of flashback, or of anticipation of events;
- asides, soliloquy, dramatic monologue, use of narrator or chorus;
- tonal features (e.g. emphasis, exclamation);
- interaction through dialogue and movement;
- use of punctuation to indicate delivery of lines (e.g. interruption, hesitation, turn-taking, listening);
- reportage;
- vocabulary choices;
- staging (set, lighting, use of properties, on-stage characters but unseen by others);
- costume and music effects.

Section A: Drama

1 Friel: Dancing at Lughnasa

(a) Show that Agnes is caring and loving

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- how Agnes treats Rose;
- her attitude towards Gerry;
- and anything else you think is relevant.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

How she treats Rose:

- she and Rose have a special relationship and Agnes is very patient with her, e.g. answering questions obviously answered before: "You'll enjoy that, Rosie. You loved the last picture we saw", SD patiently;
- she acts as Rose's protector, SD guarded;
- she acts to prevent Rose becoming upset by not confronting her and preventing others from doing so, e.g. intervenes between Rose and Kate when Rose is being questioned about Danny Bradley;
- becomes fearful and grief stricken when she discovers Rose has not returned from berry-picking: "Oh God! Where could she –";
- despite probability of a job for herself in the new factory she sacrifices her home comforts to go off with Rose to care for her;
- comforts Rose when the rooster is killed.

Her attitude towards Gerry:

- she appears to have romantic feelings for Gerry when Gerry is spoken of by the other sisters, e.g. "He has a Christian name";
- her sensuality during the dance with Gerry, with style and with easy elegance, Gerry singing the words directly to her face;
- she allows Gerry to kiss her;
- Agnes is seated beside Gerry in the final tableau suggesting the closeness between them;
- Agnes turns on Kate for making derogatory remarks about Gerry;
- Agnes defends Gerry and reacts, now on the point of tears she runs off suggesting strong feelings for Gerry.

Additional material may include the following:

- she has her chores and carries these out faithfully: she reminds Kate that it is Agnes (with Rose) who makes meals and washes clothes etc., to care for the other sisters – “two unpaid servants”;
- Agnes knits gloves to be sold for the family income;
- obviously cares for Michael and regrets that no older boys are about for him to play with;
- caring towards Jack: suggests he “lie down for a while”.

- (b) Look again at the extract from Act 1 beginning near the top of page 34 with Kate’s words, “We probably won’t see Mr Evans for another year” and ending on page 36 with the stage direction: Maggie holds her and rocks her.

Show that the family life of the Mundys falls apart.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Kate, Agnes and Maggie say and do in the extract;
- Friel’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- what Michael says in his monologues at the end of Act One and at the end of Act Two.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist’s methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material. The words in bold may form part of an argument.

What Kate, Agnes and Maggie say and do in the extract:

- Kate’s comments on Gerry emphasise him leaving again, breaking up part of the family unit and being unreliable;
- Kate’s worry about Chris’s emotional turmoil caused by Gerry leaving;
- Kate refers to Gerry as “that creature” provoking a backlash from Agnes displaying underlying tensions among the sisters;
- Kate initially fails to understand why Agnes makes her outburst and doesn’t realise her gaffe;
- Maggie attempts to diminish the tensions just created – at least on a temporary basis;
- Kate does accept her own shortcomings and Maggie tries to no avail to change the subject to avoid tension;
- Kate gives a pessimistic view of the family’s prospects of remaining as a unit;
- Kate worries what will happen to the family (particularly Rose) if she loses her job;
- Kate shows her extreme worry about the family break-up, asking Maggie for her assurance that God will look after them.

Friel’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- SD Agnes, Now on the point of tears ... shows underlying tensions between sisters;
- use of profanity “bitch”, “bastard” emphasising the tension existing between the sisters;
- SD Maggie sings listlessly contrasts with her earlier happier attitude when singing and dancing;
- imagery used to suggest forthcoming break-up of the family unit, e.g. “hair cracks”, “it can’t be held together”;
- the cumulative effect of Kate’s identification of difficulties facing the family: Gerry’s unreliability; scandal with Jack causing her job loss; worry about Rose – “it’s all about to collapse, Maggie”;

- use of dashes when Kate speculates, “If I died –” emphasising her worry about family break-up;
- use of questioning/pleading by Kate to Maggie;
- use of ellipsis by Maggie and Kate to emphasise their worry;
- SD Maggie holds her and rocks her displaying visible fear of family difficulties;
- the content of Maggie’s song reflects separation of Chris and Gerry;
- uncharacteristic linguistic disorganisation conveys stress suffered by Kate.

What Michael says in his monologues at the end of Act One and at the end of Act Two:

- Uncle Jack was sent home by his superiors;
- Kate loses her job;
- Agnes and Rose leave the family home and Ballybeg;
- Gerry departs to fight in the Spanish Civil War leaving Chris to grieve “as any bride”;
- Uncle Jack is dead at the end of Act Two;
- Michael, himself, eventually moves away;
- Michael says, “the heart seemed to go out of the house”.

2 Miller: All My Sons

(a) Show that Ann Deever is strong-willed.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- her relationships with the Kellers;
- her relationships with her brother and her father;

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

Her relationships with the Kellers:

- she responds politely to Kate's veiled insult about her weight, appearing unconcerned: "It comes and goes";
- she is perplexed by Kate's insistence that Larry is alive, responding with an uncomprehending smile showing that she has moved on: "That's a funny thing to say; how could I help remembering him";
- she is confident enough to invite Kate's questions about her life: "Ask me anything you like";
- she speaks frankly, in contrast to Kate's hesitant beating about the bush: "You mean am I still waiting for him?";
- she never wavers when Kate questions her about Larry and becomes defiant when Kate tries to get her to admit to waiting for Larry: "Isn't it ridiculous? You really don't imagine...";
- she isn't afraid to question Kate, unlike Chris and Keller who try to avoid the topic: "But why, Kate?";
- she is firm in her resolve to marry Chris, despite Kate's resistance;
- she has been able to come to terms with Larry's death, Chris believes she has "forgotten him";
- she has maintained contact with Chris, although she is still seen by his parents as Larry's girl;
- she rejects Kate's assumption that she has put her life on hold to wait for Larry, stating resolutely that she has not been waiting for him;
- she shows her determination to move on with her life by urging Chris to announce their engagement, despite Kate's pressure on her to leave: "We're going to tell her tonight";
- she refuses to leave without Chris after Keller's guilt is revealed, speaking forcefully: "You understand me? I'm not going out of here alone";
- she reveals that Larry wrote to her explaining why he was contemplating suicide, but has kept it secret from the family as she didn't want to hurt them even though it must be painful for her;
- she shows Kate the letter in order to force Kate's hand;
- she hints at blackmail to get what she wants: "I promise you, everything will end, and we'll go away, and that's all";

- she is confident enough to flirt light-heartedly with Keller;
- she seems willing to overlook Keller’s possible involvement in the crime.

Her relationships with her brother and her father:

- she moved away to New York and got a job;
- she faces the difficult subject of her father, despite her initial discomfort: “Haven’t they stopped talking about Dad?”;
- she holds to her principles, rejecting her father because of his purported involvement in the crime: “Father or no father, there’s only one way to look at him. He knowingly shipped out parts that would crash an airplane”;
- she stands up to George and refuses to accept his arguments for her father’s innocence.

- (b) Look again at the extract from Act Three beginning near the bottom of page 69 with Jim’s words, “Kate. (Pause.) What happened?” and ending on page 71 with Mother’s words, “This thing – this thing is not over yet.”

Show that characters’ lives are based on dishonesty.

In your answer you should consider:

- what the characters say and do in the extract;
- Miller’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- how Kate deals with Larry’s death elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist’s methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material. The words in bold may form part of an argument.

What the characters say and do in the extract:

- Jim questions Kate about Chris’s sudden disappearance;
- at first, Kate is reluctant to tell Jim the real reason why Chris has argued with Keller;
- Jim confronts Kate about the real reason why Chris and Keller have argued, admitting that he has guessed the truth about Keller: “I’ve always known”;
- Kate admits that she is shocked by Chris’s reaction to finding out the truth;
- Jim’s admission that he too is guilty of living a lie and that every man’s “private little revolutions always die”;
- Keller is immediately suspicious about why Jim has been over;
- Keller is disturbed by the fact that Jim has guessed the truth about the shop incident;
- Mother warns Keller that he will have to face up to the responsibility of what he did in the shop incident, “You can’t bull yourself through this one, Joe”.

Miller’s use of Language and Dramatic Techniques in the extract:

- the use of ellipsis and the SD slight hesitation when Kate is speaking to Jim suggest her reluctance to give too much away;
- the SD stops rocking is the only suggestion that Kate is surprised that Jim has guessed the truth;
- the acceptance and warmth of Jim’s tone when discussing Keller’s guilt: “Don’t be afraid Kate, I know”;
- the use of ellipsis suggesting Kate’s reluctance to accept that Chris has known about Keller’s guilt all this time;
- the revelatory nature of Jim’s speech on ‘honesty’;
- the increase in tension when Jim exits as Keller and Kate speak in short, sharp sentences;
- Keller appears ill-at-ease, his voice is ‘husky’ and he speaks ‘apprehensively’ suggesting his continual fear of the truth being revealed;

- the SD laughs dangerously, quietly suggests that Kate knows that it is too late to stop the truth coming out, unlike the whimsy, maternal figure of earlier.

How Kate deals with Larry's death elsewhere in the play:

- Larry's death seems to hang over Kate constantly: she was up at four in the morning watching the apple tree as it fell; she "cried hard"; she has begun to dream about Larry and walk around in the night; all things she did immediately after Larry's death;
- Keller and Chris are aware that Kate still believes that Larry will return;
- Kate will not countenance marriage between Chris and Ann;
- Kate believes that Ann has been waiting faithfully for Larry's return just as she has, "She's faithful as a rock. In my worst moments, I think of her waiting, and I know again that I'm right";
- Kate is shown to be on edge and her whole life now revolves around the hope of Larry returning, "Because if he's not coming back, then I'll kill myself!";
- Kate needs Keller to perpetuate her belief in Larry's return: "You above all have got to believe" as the alternative is too frightening for them both to admit;
- Kate is willing to alienate Chris in Act Three when she packs Ann's bag and tries to force her to leave, in her obsession with keeping Larry's memory alive;
- Kate shows recognition that she has been selfish and complicit with Keller in lying to Chris about Larry's death: "Don't dear. Don't take it on yourself. Forget now. Live";
- keeps his room unchanged, all his clothes and shoes shined;
- puts great faith in the star charts.

3 O'Casey: Juno and the Paycock

(a) Show that the attitudes of others to the Boyle family change because of the inheritance.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- Joxer;
- Mrs Madigan;
- and anything else you think is relevant.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

Joxer:

- at first he is annoyed at Boyle for discarding him when he hears about the money; he mocks him showing a scornful attitude: "Lookin' for work, an prayin' to God he won't get it";
- he quickly gets over his anger and is happy to run errands for Boyle: "I've just dhropped in with the £3:5s...";
- he is obsequious towards Boyle, feeding his ego: "How d'ye feel now, as a man o' money?";
- he changes his opinion on Father Farrell to agree with whatever Boyle says: "You're takin' me up wrong, Captain; I wouldn't let a word be said agen Father Farrell";
- he is effusive in his praise of Juno and Mary's singing and Boyle's poem: "Bravo! Bravo!";
- later he enjoys Boyle's humiliation, helping Nugent to retrieve the suit;
- he is derogatory about Boyle and Juno: "he goin' about like a matherpiece of the Free State";
- he is sly, pretending to support Boyle while trying to get him to admit that there is no money: "About you not gettin' the money, in some way or t'other?";
- he becomes angry when Boyle challenges him: "Who's a twister?";
- he is happy to take advantage of Boyle's hospitality even though he knows there is no money: "Come with you? With that sweet call me heart is stirred".

Mrs Madigan:

- she is happy to pawn goods to lend money to Boyle for her own ends;
- she joins in enthusiastically at the party, comically praising Mary to Bentham: "you're goin' to get as nice a bit o' skirt in Mary, there, as ever you seen in your puff";
- she asks after Johnny, appearing concerned: "Oh poor darlin";
- she is happy to enjoy the Boyles' hospitality, accepting "a ball o' malt" rather than tea or stout;
- she compliments Boyle on his poem;

- she rushes to Juno's defence against Needle Nugent's complaints: "We don't want you, Mr Nugent, to teach us what we learned at our mother's knee";
- later she speaks ominously when she comes for repayment of the loan;
- she angrily demands her money from Boyle, calling him names and physically attacking him: rushing over and shaking him;
- she takes the gramophone, knowing that she will not get any money, and mocks Boyle's pretensions: "You're not goin' to be swankin' it like a paycock with Maisie Madigan's money".

Additional material may include the following:

- Needle Nugent is critical of the Boyles at the party, yet is happy to give credit and make Boyle clothes on the strength of the inheritance;
- later Needle Nugent derides Boyle for owing him money: "he's not goin' to throw his weight about in the suit I made for him";
- Needle Nugent is determined to retrieve the suit, going into Boyle's room and taking it;
- Needle Nugent shows no interest in Boyle's anger: "What do I care what you dhress yourself in";
- Bentham tries to impress the family with his education and views on religion;
- Bentham manipulates the Boyles, complimenting Mary and behaving courteously towards Mrs Boyle: "Please don't put yourself to any trouble";
- Bentham appears happy to marry into the Boyle family while it appears there is money but disappears as soon as the news of the inheritance breaks, even though Mary is pregnant.

- (b) Look again at the extract in Act 3 beginning near the top of page 142 with the stage direction, The two men re-enter and ending at the top of page 144 with the stage direction They drag out Johnny Boyle, and the curtain falls.

Show that Johnny is pitiable.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Johnny says and does in the extract;
- O’Casey’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- Johnny elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist’s methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material. The words in bold may form part of the argument.

What Johnny says and does in the extract:

- he is clearly upset, exclaiming “isn’t this terrible!”;
- he is troubled by the removal of the furniture and laments Jerry’s departure as he could have “stopped th’ takin’ of the things”, showing Johnny to be weak and reliant on others;
- he is jumpy and terrified when the votive light goes out;
- he is physically stressed: “I’m afther feelin’ a pain in me breast”;
- he claims to be sick and refuses to go with the Irregulars: “I’m sick, I can’t”;
- he pleads with them, reminding them that he is “an oul’ comrade”;
- he starts to pray in anguish: “Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on me!”

O’Casey’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- use of punctuation to show his distress: “isn’t this terrible!...I suppose you told him everything...”;
- use of broken syntax showing his confusion and upset: “I’m sick, I can’t –“;
- stage directions showing his dread: in a cry of fear, with an agonizing cry;
- the removal men’s reactions to Johnny’s behaviour show that he is clearly distressed: “He’s goin’ mad”;
- use of repetition to show his anxiety: “Why do you ass me that, why do you ass me that?”;
- staging and use of props to create a sense of threat: they carry revolvers, and of abandonment: the votive light goes out;
- use of threatening language to increase tension: “Get to the other side of the room an’ turn your faces to the wall – quick!”;
- contrast between the Irregulars’ decisive behaviour and Johnny’s uncertainty;
- use of imperatives to add tension: “Come on”, “march!”;
- use of prayer to show Johnny’s desperation: “have mercy on me!”;

- stage direction to show how roughly he is treated: They drag Johnny Boyle out;
- dramatic effect of the stage direction the curtain falls to add tension.

Johnny elsewhere in the play:

- he is first seen crouched by the fire, depicting him as a pitiable character;
- he is distressed at hearing the details of Tancred's murder and leaves the room;
- he has been maimed and invalided for some time: "he wore out the Health Insurance long ago";
- he is described as a thin, delicate fellow...he has evidently gone through a rough time, depicting him as pitiable;
- he struggles to sleep and dislikes being left alone: "I won't stop here by meself";
- he is easily upset, jumping at a knock at the door and reacting with fear when Bentham talks of spirits: "What sort o' talk is this to be goin' on with?";
- he turns to his faith in desperation and demands that the votive lights are always lit: "Is the light lightin' before the picture o' the Virgin?";
- he is shot and killed: a "poor dead son...poor dead brother...riddled with bullets".

4 Priestley: An Inspector Calls

(a) Show that there is no real love in the relationships in the play.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- the engagement of Sheila and Gerald;
- Mr and Mrs Birling's marriage;
- Eric's relationship with Eva/Daisy.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

The engagement of Sheila and Gerald:

- in the engagement scene all seems well and they appear to be in love as they are seen celebrating together;
- Sheila teases Gerald about his seeming lack of attention to her the previous summer suggesting there is some unease in the relationship;
- their relationship begins to flounder when Sheila feels that Gerald judges her over her role in the death of Eva/Daisy;
- their relationship is thrown into crisis when Gerald confesses to his affair with Daisy Renton and Sheila questions Gerald's love for Daisy and for herself;
- Sheila returns the engagement ring to Gerald even though she is impressed by his honesty;
- Sheila feels that they do not really know each other very well and at the end of the play she states that she needs more time to decide whether she will marry Gerald or not.

Mr and Mrs Birling's marriage:

- in his speech about the engagement, Mr Birling seems more concerned about the Birling and Croft businesses working together than he does about whether Gerald Croft loves his daughter;
- some may argue that Birling's own marriage was used to enable him to climb the social ladder, as his wife is his social superior;
- some may argue that Mrs Birling shows no love or understanding towards anyone in the play and particularly not to her own children;
- some may argue that Mrs Birling's lack of love towards others is because she is in fact in a loveless marriage herself.

Eric's relationship with Eva/Daisy:

- Eric met the girl in the Palace theatre bar, bought the girl drinks and they both got drunk;
- Eric thought she was different from the other girls, just as Gerald had done;
- Eric insisted on going home with her and forced his way in and had sex with her;

- Eric met her again a fortnight later; his relationship with her is a physical one;
- Eric liked her, a 'good sport', but wasn't in 'love' with her;
- Eric confesses that the girl became pregnant, but did not want to marry him as she knew he didn't love her;
- Eric feels that the girl treated him 'as if I were a kid';
- Eric gives her money to look after herself but she later refused this when she discovered it was stolen.

- (b) Look again at the extract from Act Three beginning near the bottom of page 54 with the Inspector’s words, “Just one last question, that’s all” and ending on page 56 with the stage direction He walks straight out, leaving them staring, subdued and wondering.

Show that the Inspector wants to make the Birling family take responsibility for their actions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what the Inspector says and does in the extract;
- Friel’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- how the Inspector conducts his investigation of the Birling family elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist’s methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material. The words in bold may form part of an argument.

What the Inspector says and does in the extract:

- he reminds them of the part they played in Eva/Daisy’s suicide;
- he stresses that they are all partly responsible for Eva’s death;
- he reminds them that there are “ millions” of people just like Eva Smith and preaches a strong message of collective responsibility: “We are members of one body”;
- he leaves them to contemplate their own personal responsibility to others.

Priestley’s use of Language and Dramatic Techniques in the extract:

- he takes charge masterfully;
- he looks at them all carefully;
- he speaks to them savagely;
- the stresses and dissensions among family members rise to a climax as they are confronted with their responsibilities;
- their distress is reflected in the SDs conveying their reactions;
- sudden silence as he quells their clamour;
- Inspector’s role as ‘inspector’ is emphasised in Priestley’s stage directions – direct eye contact, use of notebook;
- he becomes Priestley’s moral spokesman and his final speech may be seen as a sermon on responsibility;
- his tone becomes prophetic as he foretells what will happen with the onset of World War One;
- some candidates may discuss the use of dramatic irony in relation to the point above.

How the Inspector conducts his investigation elsewhere in the play:

- he appears to be all-knowing about Eva Smith, providing a detailed background on her work for the Birlings and her sacking from their factory and from Milwards;
- he makes the Birlings consider their social responsibility and the part they played in the sacking and eventual death of Eva Smith;
- he universalises Eva Smith's plight, suggesting that she exemplifies the problems facing many young women trying to earn a living, implying that these young women are seen as "cheap labour" by factory owners such as Birling, and as targets for sexual predators;
- he is used as a chorus figure to update the audience and the other characters on Eva Smith;
- he controls the events of the play and is used by Priestley to keep the responsibility theme central to the action;
- his language and approach are calm, assured and determined as he draws each character in turn into Eva/Daisy's story, creating sympathy for her, before he reveals the part they played in Eva/Daisy's downfall;
- he is not daunted or deflected from his course of action by the Birlings'/Crofts' social status or superiority;
- he appears to be more interested in right and wrong than actually bringing anyone to justice.

5 Russell: Blood Brothers

(a) Is Edward someone to be admired? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- Edward's relationship with Mickey;
- Edward's relationship with Linda;
- and anything else you think is relevant.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist's methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

Edward's relationship with Mickey:

Edward can be admired because:

- he instantly befriends Mickey and he enjoys spending time with him despite Mickey teasing him;
- he shares his sweets with him;
- he is loyal to him when they get in trouble with the policeman;
- he offers to buy cigarettes for him when they meet and he offers to buy his ticket into the cinema;
- he doesn't declare his true feelings for Linda because he is worried about upsetting Mickey;
- he doesn't want to tell him he's going to university;
- he encourages him to ask Linda out and gives him advice on how to do it;
- he doesn't take advantage of Mickey's dithering over Linda;
- he offers to take both him and Linda out at Christmas;
- he organises a house and a job for him when he comes out of jail.

Reward candidates who are aware of the juxtaposing of Mickey's struggles in life with Edward's carefree approach to life on his return from university.

However, candidates may wish to argue that Edward is disloyal to Mickey in pursuing Linda, knowing Mickey's difficulties.

Edward's relationship with Linda:

Edward can be admired because:

- he initially has a crush on Linda but doesn't act on it;
- he hesitates to declare his feelings for her in case it breaks up his friendship with Mickey;
- his intentions are honourable at this point;
- he is poetic in his wooing, (song 'If I was the guy') vowing to treat her considerately, bringing her flowers; this is in stark contrast to Mickey's approach to courtship;
- he doesn't want to tell her he's going to university;

- in the song he hesitates to declare his feelings for her, repeatedly apologising to her, acknowledging her liaison with Mickey;
- he maintains his distance until Linda initiates the affair.

Additional material may include the following:

- he doesn't want to move away from his friends, arguing with his parents;
- he is concerned for his mother, "Are you feeling better now, Mummy?";
- he looks after the locket Mrs Johnstone gave him;
- he is generally polite in his dealings with Mrs Johnstone and others and this is in contrast to Mickey's language in the company of others;
- he tries to help Mickey and Linda ("a job and a house"), but by now his motives may be suspect.

Reward candidates who are aware of the different language used to describe the twins early in the play: Edward bright and forthcoming; Mickey bored and petulant.

Who do you think is most to blame for the deaths of the twins? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what is said and done in the extract;
- Russell’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- what Mrs Johnstone and Mrs Lyons say and do elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material. The words in bold may form part of an argument.

What is said and done in the extract:

Mickey:

- lack of self-esteem and lack of control, blaming Edward and Linda;
- demands return of tablets to escape reality;
- resents the fact that Edward got him a job, caustically saying, “Councillor Eddie Lyons”;
- takes the tablets from Linda’s bag in desperation and exits (presumably to take the tablets);
- sees Edward and Linda together and reacts impetuously;
- hammers on door calling for Linda as he did as a child indicating further loss of control and mental instability;
- takes gun with the possible intention to do harm.

Linda:

- she pressurises Mickey by demanding that he recognise her needs;
- she gives in to Mickey about the tablets so could be argued as culpable in his disintegration;
- she seeks comfort with Edward, betraying Mickey;
- her relationship with Edward pushes Mickey into greater mental instability and it could be argued that she is to blame for Mickey’s disintegration and his urge to seek revenge on Edward.

Edward:

- flirts with Linda and then kisses her, betraying his friend Mickey, who he knows has difficulties;

Mrs Lyons:

- she makes Mickey aware of Linda and Edward’s affair;

Mrs Johnstone:

- she seems tolerant of the affair.

Russell's use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- SD grabs the tablets indicating Mickey's desperation;
- SD Linda hesitates showing awareness of the consequences of her actions;
- use of Mrs Johnstone's song concerning a "light romance" to contrast the frantic actions of Mickey and Mrs Johnstone's unwillingness or inability to intervene;
- the Narrator's repeated lines show Linda on a knife-edge;
- SD He mimes firing a gun (Edward) foreshadows the shooting at the end of the play;
- SD showing Mickey's efforts not to take the tablets whilst Linda succumbs to the lure of the affair;
- SD showing Mrs Lyons' stirring trouble when she points out Linda and Edward;
- SD of Mickey hammering and calling out as he once did for his mother shows his increased mental instability;
- SD disappears with the gun which seems to place the focus of blame on Mickey.

What Mrs Johnstone and Mrs Lyons say and do elsewhere in the play:

- the mothers conspire to separate the twins which leads to the disadvantages faced by Mickey;
- Mrs Johnstone is unable to provide the means for Mickey to succeed in life;
- Mrs Lyons continuously seeks to break the friendship of the twins;
- class difference between Mrs Johnstone and Mrs Lyons leads to breakdown of friendship between the twins and creates animosity;
- Mrs Johnstone is ineffectual in preventing misfortune for Mickey;
- Mrs Lyons becomes mentally unhinged about losing Edward's love, leading up to deliberately making Mickey aware of Edward and Linda's indiscretion.

6 Shakespeare: Macbeth

(a) Show that there are differing reactions to the prophecies of the witches.

In your answer you should consider the language and dramatic techniques used in presenting:

- the reactions of Macbeth and Lady Macbeth to the prophecies in Act 1;
- Macbeth's reactions to the prophecies in the Cauldron Scene (Act IV scene i);
- Banquo's reactions to the prophecies on the heath and later in the play.

Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

The reactions of Macbeth and Lady Macbeth to the prophecies in Act 1;

- Macbeth is stunned into silence;
- he is fixated by the witches prophecies;
- he is disturbed by them;
- he is amazed when the prophecy that he will become Thane of Cawdor is fulfilled;
- he is keen to hear more: "Would they had stayed!";
- Macbeth's ambition is revealed through asides;
- Lady Macbeth immediately decides that Macbeth must act upon the witches' prophecies;
- her ambition grows;
- she harnesses all her womanly powers to ensure he does his worst;
- she calls on evil spirits to give her strength.

Macbeth's reactions to the prophecies in the Cauldron Scene (Act IV scene i):

- he initially believes that he, and not they, can control his destiny;
- he attempts to command them to bring forth the apparitions but they set the limits, "I conjure you..." , " He will not be commanded";
- he is prepared to risk all;
- he becomes more bloodthirsty and orders the slaying of Macduff's family;
- he is convinced of his own invincibility, "none of woman born"; Birnam Wood; and becomes confident;
- he curses the witches in despair.

Banquo's reactions to the prophecies:

- he is almost amused by the witches but thinks of them as evil: "Can the devil speak true?";
- he is wary of them, declaring they "look not like the inhabitants of the earth" and that they are "wild in their attire";
- he questions them calmly;
- he is disturbed by them, calling for a sword as he crosses the courtyard of his friend Macbeth's castle;

- he is suspicious of Macbeth because of them;
- he is hopeful because of what the witches have prophesied for his children.

Reward candidates who note the contrasts in Shakespeare’s presentation:

- Banquo’s initial disgust, “that look not like th’inhabitants o’ th’earth” and Macbeth’s curiosity and insistence that they speak;
- Banquo’s observation of Macbeth’s amazement;
- the use of riddles, causing incomprehension in Macbeth: “Thou shalt get kings, though thou be none”;
- Lady Macbeth’s immediate resolve to put the prophecies into effect.

Candidates should also be aware of the stage directions surrounding the appearances of the witches – the heath; thunder; drum within; vanish; an isolated place; a cauldron; music; an armed Head; a bloody Child; a Child crowned; Cauldron descends; Hautboys; a show of eight kings; Banquo’s ghost; dance and vanish – which must be seen as contributory factors to any reactions.

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

What is said in the extract:

- Macduff does not shy from hearing potentially bad news;
- he blames himself for the deaths of his wife and children;
- the sympathy engendered in the disbelieving, questioning repetition, “Did you say all? O hell-kite! All?”
- the humanity of his reaction to the news of his family’s killing: “But I must feel it as a man”;
- his attempt at self-control when he hears of the news of the deaths of his loved ones;
- his agreeing to “Dispute it like a man”;
- his idealism is brave;
- he resolves to support Malcolm and kill Macbeth;
- he despairs at what is in store for Scotland;
- he believes that the “powers above” will support their actions.

Shakespeare’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract:

- contrast reaction of Macduff to his wife’s death to that of Macbeth later to Lady Macbeth’s death;
- the apparently cold, brief words Macduff uses in reaction to the news emphasises his restrained shock;
- the distress of unconnected exclamations: “He has no children. All my pretty ones?”;
- the scene is placed between two of the most dramatic and action filled scenes in the play and draws attention to Macduff in a harrowing situation;
- there is anticipation of what is to come when Macduff confronts Macbeth;
- it is poetic justice that he should be the one to kill Macbeth.

What Macduff says and does elsewhere in the play:

- he is loyal to Duncan and is upset by his death
- he ensures Lady Macbeth is looked after, “Look to the lady”;
- he refuses to attend Macbeth’s coronation;

- he voices the first suspicion of Macbeth;
- he refuses to attend the banquet;
- Macduff is despondent at what has happened to his beloved Scotland;
- he defends himself: “I am not treacherous”;
- Macduff is inconsolable and his grief is genuine and not merely political;
- his wholehearted declaration of Malcolm as King of Scotland.

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

His attempts to make Romeo happy:

- Mercutio, true to the origin of his name (mercurial) is gregarious and full of enthusiasm about the Capulet party. He tries to lighten the mood after Romeo declares his unhappiness: “Nay gentle Romeo, we must have you dance”;
- he is persistent in trying cheer up Romeo: “You are a lover, borrow Cupid’s wings, and soar with them above a common bound”;
- he suggests that Romeo is being too self-indulgent as he tries to laugh Romeo out of his sadness with his eloquence and bawdy jokes: “Prick love for pricking, and you beat love down”;
- he challenges Romeo’s opinion on love – he mocks his love for Rosaline: “Romeo! Humours! Madman! Passion! Lover!”;
- he dismisses Romeo’s worries about dreams as nothing but “idle fantasies” and tries to distract him with the Queen Mab speech;
- with the Queen Mab speech he challenges Romeo’s misgivings and persists in delivering his message when Romeo suggests, “Thou talk’st of nothing”;
- his wit is infectious and Romeo joins in his banter in Act 2;
- he talks a lot: “A gentleman, Nurse, that loves to hear himself talk and will speak more in a minute that he will stand to in a month”;
- he is a foil to Romeo – when Romeo is melancholic and despondent, Mercutio is effervescent and energetic. Mercutio’s cynicism contrasts with Romeo’s idealism;
- he uses crude humour: “Without his roe, like a dried herring...”
- he values his friendship with Romeo and wants Romeo to be happy: “Why, is not this better now than groaning for love?”;
- he provides comic relief as he directs his sexual teasing to the Nurse: “A bawd, a bawd, a bawd! So ho!”

The fight with Tybalt:

- he mocks Tybalt’s hauteur and preoccupation with fashion: “Ah, the immortal ‘passado’, the ‘punto reverso’, the ‘hay!’”;
- he defends Romeo’s honour: “...Your worship in that sense may call him man”;

- he demonstrates loyalty and courage as he  fights  Tybalt in place of Romeo: “O calm, dishonourable, vile submission!”;
- he is  brave  to death and  dismisses  his injury as a “scratch”;
- his  loyalty  is appreciated by Romeo who is left distraught and feeling guilty by his death: “My very friend, hath got this mortal hurt/In my behalf”.

Shakespeare’s use of language and dramatic techniques:

- Mercutio is important as a  foil  to Romeo, he always  appears with  Romeo or  looking for him  and he is Romeo’s  confidant  about Rosaline;
- he is  the master of eloquence  in his Queen Mab speech;
- in Act III scene i Shakespeare presents his speeches in  prose  to reinforce his agitation: “I will not budge for no man’s pleasure”;
- he makes a  final poignant pun  as he faces death: “Ask for me tomorrow and you will find me a grave man”;
- his  death shocks  and saddens the audience marking a  turning point  in the ensuing tragedy.

Some candidates may suggest that he pays the ultimate price of  loyalty  by  sacrificing  his own life to save his friend Romeo.

Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

In the extract:

Capulet:

- Capulet spirals into a towering rage with Juliet’s refusal to marry Paris;
- he sees Juliet as being unworthy and ungrateful and is astonished that she would refuse to conform with his plans for her: “Unworthy as she is, that we have wrought/So worthy a gentleman to be her bride?”;
- he gives Juliet an ultimatum and threatens to drag her to the church to marry Paris: “Or I will drag thee on a hurdle thither”;
- he makes harsh and violent exclamations against Juliet: “Hang thee, young baggage, disobedient wretch!” - he is so exasperated that he invokes corporal punishment, “My fingers itch”;
- he treats Juliet like a possession: “And you be mine, I’ll give you to my friend”;
- he threatens to disown Juliet: “And you be not, hang, beg, starve, die in the streets”;
- his anger shows his lack of control over his emotions; he is bitterly disappointed by Juliet’s disobedience as he had made the plans for her marriage to Paris in good faith.

Lady Capulet:

- she is cold and matter of fact as she tells her husband that Juliet refuses to marry Paris: “I would the fool were married to her grave!”;
- she is unsympathetic and shows little maternal instinct to protect or support Juliet;
- she is impatient and ignores Juliet’s pleas for help: “Do as thou wilt, for I have done with thee”.

Juliet:

- she makes things difficult as she deceives her parents by not confiding in them about her relationship with Romeo; but she has little choice because of the feud;
- she makes things difficult as she does not behave as a dutiful daughter when she disobeys her father by refusing to marry Paris;

- she is verbally abused by her father even though she begs him to listen to her wishes;
- she turns to her mother for help, asking her to at least delay the marriage: “O sweet my mother, cast me not away!”;
- she is abandoned by her mother who shows little emotion.

Shakespeare’s use of Language and Dramatic Techniques in the extract:

- Capulet is in control of most of the dialogue;
- the abusive language Capulet uses to chastise Juliet: “You tallow-face!” The break in iambic pentameter illustrates his growing rage;
- the dramatic irony in Lady Capulet’s statement: “I would the fool were married to her grave”;
- the tension between Juliet and her parents as Capulet lambasts her with a barrage of insults: “Hang thee, young baggage, disobedient wretch!”;
- Capulet’s shock at Juliet’s disobedience is evident in his repeated questioning: “Doth she not give us thanks?”;
- there is a sense of foreboding in Juliet’s final words to her mother: “Or if you do not, make the bridal bed/In that dim monument where Tybalt lies”.

Juliet’s relationships with her parents elsewhere in the play:

- she has a good relationship with her parents in Act 1. Her father is loving and wishes to give Juliet time to make her own choice in matrimony: “Let two more summers wither in their pride/ere we may think her ripe to be a bride”;
- her mother is emotionally distant – the Nurse shows her much more affection: “Go, girl, seek happy nights to happy days”;
- she is deeply cared for by her father - he sees the match with Paris as him fulfilling his paternal duty and as an attempt to cheer her up from what he misunderstands to be her mourning for Tybalt: “Well, well, thou has a careful father, child,/One who, to put thee from thy heaviness,/Hath sorted out a sudden day of joy”;
- with her love for Romeo comes a newfound independence of mind resulting in conflict and a more difficult relationship with her parents;
- when Juliet begs forgiveness and pretends that she will go ahead with the marriage to Paris her parents have a change of heart: “...My heart is wondrous light,/Since this same wayward girl is so reclaimed”;
- her mother and father are distraught when they think Juliet is dead: “O me, O me, my child, my only life!” They are horrified by her actual death at the end of the play.

- Antonio agrees to enter into a bond with Shylock, despite the fact that he is “breaking with custom”, for Bassanio’s sake;
- he wagers on the successful return of his ships (“I do expect return/ Of thrice three times the value of this bond”), despite the many variables which could affect his fortunes at sea;
- he accepts the conditions of the bond, in spite of Shylock reminding him of his mistreatment of him and in spite of the fact that he compares Shylock to “The devil”;
- he gambles on Bassanio repaying his debt in friendship and that he will continue to be the friend Antonio believes him to be;
- Bassanio allows Antonio to enter into a bond with an enemy for his sake, despite his misgivings about Shylock’s intentions: “You shall not seal to such a bond/For me”.

The casket game:

- Portia chooses to respect her father’s wishes about the casket game, despite the risk it could lead her to be married to someone she does not even like;
- Bassanio takes a risk by participating in the casket game, in that he could lose her hand entirely: “...for, in choosing wrong, I lose your company”;
- Bassanio risks choosing the wrong casket by choosing the least attractive one: “Thy plainness moves me more than eloquence”;
- Bassanio takes the risk of a celibate and unhappy future;
- Bassanio marries Portia after winning her hand in the game, gambling on their compatibility and happiness;
- Portia takes a risk on Bassanio’s affections and compatibility with her, despite the fact that she does not know him very well.

Additional material may include the following:

- Bassanio gambles on Portia's affection for him, believing it must match his affection for her: "Sometimes from her eyes/ I did receive fair speechless messages";
- Portia accepts that her new husband must leave her to go to his friend's aid in Venice, gambling that their affection will continue to grow in his absence;
- Portia decides to act on her husband's behalf, without his knowledge, risking his disapproval of this deceit;
- she entrusts control of her household to Lorenzo and Jessica in her absence;
- Portia gambles on her ability to play the part of a learned gentleman in a convincing way in a Court of Law;
- she risks Antonio's life by relying on Shylock's fear of the consequence of exacting the penalty;
- she gambles on her new husband's loyalty to her by requesting that Bassanio give her the ring she made him promise to keep safe;
- Bassanio risks losing his wife's trust by giving her ring to the lawyer's clerk (Nerissa), in order to repay the debt he owes for Antonio's life.

Use the Assessment Matrix.

- (b) Look again at the extract from Act IV scene i which begins about line 35 and ends about line 103. (The extract begins with Shylock’s words, “I have possessed your Grace...” and ends with Shylock’s words, “...answer; shall I have it?”)

Show that Shylock is motivated by his desire for revenge.

In your answer you should consider:

- what Shylock says and does in the extract;
- Shakespeare’s use of language and dramatic techniques in the extract;
- what Shylock says and does elsewhere in the play.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the dramatist’s methods and intentions (AO2).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.
The words in bold may form part of an argument.

In the extract:

- he is accused by the Duke of carrying out his “malice....To the last hour of act...”;
- he rejects any requests for mercy made by the Duke: “I have sworn/ To have the due and forfeit of my bond”;
- he admits that although the retrieval of a pound of flesh instead of the amount of money involved may seem strange, it is his “humour” and as a condition of the bond, must be granted to him by the law;
- he argues that if he is denied the conditions of his bond, then the democratic laws of the city will be called into disrepute: “...fie upon your law”;
- he admits his main reason for exacting the forfeiture of the bond is the “lodg’d hate and a certain loathing” he has for Antonio;
- he tells Bassanio that he does not desire to “please” anyone with his request and that he does not care how he is perceived, he cares only about getting revenge on Antonio;
- he argues that being allowed to exact the forfeiture of the bond is a form of “Justice”.

Shakespeare’s use of language and dramatic techniques:

- Shylock’s lines dominate this extract, he speaks passionately in response to the Duke’s comments about his lack of mercy;
- Shylock compares Antonio to a “rat”, which, if it troubled his house, he would be allowed to have “ban’d”;
- he uses repetition to emphasise the whims of men (“Why he...”), arguing that he should not have to account for his reasons for claiming the forfeiture;
- Shakespeare uses patterning to convey Shylock’s direct opposition to Bassanio, Antonio’s supporter: Bassanio: “Do all men kill the things they do not love?”, Shylock: “Hates any man the thing he would/not kill?”
- Shylock is described as being implacable by Antonio, who understands that Shylock will not be swayed from his resolve for revenge: “You may as well do anything most hard/ As seek to soften..../His Jewish heart”.

Elsewhere in the play:

- he immediately reveals his desire for revenge against Antonio in an Aside to the audience, calling him a “fawning publican” when Bassanio comes to arrange the bond;
- he speaks of the “ancient grudge” he bears Antonio because of his mistreatment of Shylock because of his religion: “...he rails,/Even there where merchants most do congregate”;
- he explains that forgiving Antonio would be disloyal to his “tribe”;
- he tells Antonio that he has only spoken words of “worship” of the merchant, despite the audience learning of his hatred of him;
- he reminds Antonio of the slurs Antonio has spoken against him: “You call me misbeliever, cut-throat dog”;
- he enters into the bond, despite the “shames” Antonio has “stain’d” him with;
- he attaches an unreasonable forfeiture if the conditions of the bond are not met, calling for “an equal pound” of Antonio’s flesh, “to be cut off and taken/ In what part of [Antonio’s] body pleases [him]”;
- he tells Jessica, he goes in “hate” to eat with the “prodigal Christian” Antonio;
- he tells Salerio and Solanio that “smug” Antonio must “...look to his bond”, repeating this phrase more than once;
- he tells Salerio that exacting the forfeiture of the bond will only serve to “feed [his] revenge”;
- his desire for revenge is clearly shown when he describes the mistreatment he has received from Antonio due to his religion: “He hath...laugh’d at my losses, mock’d at my gains, scorned my nation”;
- he compares Jews and Christians, arguing that they are alike in all the fundamental things in life, including the desire for revenge against those who have wronged them: “If we are like you in the rest, we will resemble you in that...”;
- he delights in Antonio’s misfortunes at sea: “I thank God, I thank God. Is it true, is it true?”;
- he tells his co-religionist Tubal that he plans to “plague” and “torture” Antonio, who has now found himself at Shylock’s mercy due to circumstance;
- he moves to make the law uphold his bond, repeating the phrase “I will have my bond”.
- he rejects any requests for mercy made by the lawyer’s clerk (Portia), despite the persuasive nature of her arguments;
- he plans to take his pound of flesh until the very end, showing no desire to relent;
- he praises the lawyer’s clerk (Portia), when it appears he will be allowed his pound of flesh: “Most rightful judge”.

Section B: Poetry

In this section we are assessing four assessment objectives:

AO1

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations;

AO2

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, characters, themes and settings;

AO3

Make comparisons and explain links between texts, evaluating writers' differing ways of expressing meaning and achieving effects;

AO4

Relate texts to their social, cultural and historical contexts; explain how texts have been influential and significant to self and other readers in different contexts and at different times.

Guidelines to Assessing AO2 in Candidates' Response to Poetry (Foundation Tier)

Assessment Objective 2 requires candidates to "explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, characters, themes and settings".

This will be effected through:

Key term in the question (Foundation Tier):

"Compare and contrast what the speakers . . ."

And:

Key Terms in the bullets (Foundation Tier):

"how each poet uses language to . . ."

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques

When assessing candidates' responses to poetry, some of the following uses of language and stylistic devices may be noted. (This list is neither prescriptive nor exhaustive, but is intended as a helpful guide to examiners.)

- versification and structure (use of some terms, e.g. quatrain, couplet, octave, metre, iambic rhythm);
- specific forms (e.g. ode, sonnet, monologue, lyric);
- similes and metaphors;
- imagery and use of the senses (especially visual imagery and auditory imagery);
- alliteration and other "sound" features (e.g. assonance, consonance, repetition, rhyme and rhythm);
- vocabulary choices;
- repetition of words or ideas;
- use of punctuation;
- visual impact of the poem on the page.

Guidelines to Assessing AO3 in Candidates' Reponse to Poetry

Assessment Objective 3 requires candidates to "make comparisons and explain links between texts, evaluating writers' differing ways of expressing meaning..."

Key Term in the question (Foundation Tier):

“Compare and contrast...”

“more moving”; “prefer” etc.

When assessing candidates’ responses to poetry, reward candidates who give a roughly equal representation to the two poems. Lack of balance in a response must be noted and reflected in the final mark. Where the candidate is asked to select a second poem, it is important that the poem is relevant to the key terms of the question. If a candidate makes an inappropriate choice of poem, this also must be noted and reflected in the final mark.

Reward comparisons which are relevant to the key terms of the question and which are presented in an effectively pointed way.

Candidates who offer no comparison or contrast should not be awarded marks above Band 2.

Guidelines for Assessing AO4 in Candidates’ Response to Poetry

Assessment Objective 4 requires candidates “to relate texts to their social, cultural and historical contexts and explain how texts have been influential and significant for self and other readers in different contexts and at different times.”

Key Terms in the question

“relevant contextual material...”

When assessing candidates’ response to poetry, reward candidates who provide contextual material which is relevant to the key terms of the question.

Candidates who offer no contextual material should not be awarded marks above Band 3.

9 Anthology One: Themes – Love and Death

- (a) Look again at The Five Students by Thomas Hardy (List A) and at Richard Cory by E. A. Robinson (List B), which both deal with the theme of death.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about death.

Which poem do you prefer? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What each poem is about:

The Five Students:

- a group of 5 students are walking in a rural setting;
- one student dies at the end of each stanza;
- the surviving student, the speaker, reflects upon the others.

Richard Cory:

- the speaker describes an admired fellow-townsmen;
- his appearance, demeanour, wealth;
- contrasts Richard Cory's good fortune with the abject lives of the speaker and the other townfolk;
- recounts briefly and without comment his suicide.

Candidates' response to use of language:

The Five Students:

- a first person reflection;
- universality of "students" rather than individual names; pared-down identifying details;
- unusual syntax, typical of Hardy, an attempt to avoid a facile fluency;
- repetition of pattern of varying line structures;
- an eloquent style endowed with heavy images: "the flag-rope gibbers hoarse";
- personification of the sun as it grows "passionate-eyed";
- alluring sibilance of "Shadowless swoons";
- seasonal changes reflective of transient nature of human life;
- use of alternate rhyme and rhyming couplet consistent throughout;
- use of pause;

- the tone is elegiac;
- finality of “elsewhere” and “anon”.

Richard Cory:

- 4 quatrains – alternate rhyme;
- use of contrast, e.g. Richard Cory’s life and that of the townsfolk;
- use of simple connective “and” as details of Richard Cory accumulate;
- impressionistic description: he “glittered as he walked”;
- unexpectedness of the violent ending enhanced by use of word “calm”;
- use of nineteenth-century diction to build up impression of Richard Cory as a gentleman.

Similarities and differences in the poets’ attitudes and the candidates’ personal preference:

- Hardy reflects on the transient nature of human life while Robinson deals with the suddenness of an unexpected death;
- Hardy reflects on the deaths and the change brought about by these deaths while Robinson shocks the reader with Richard Cory who is envied by others for his lifestyle but takes his own life;
- Richard Cory is an impressionistic anecdote while The Five Students conveys inevitability through accretion (or rather subtraction) and thematic imagery.

Candidates’ awareness of contexts:

The Five Students:

- biographical links: mistakes Hardy made in his life;
- biographical links: four students die without realising their hopes;
- the common literary tradition of associating stages of life with the seasons of the year;
- the context of the familiar (English) landscape.

Richard Cory:

- the cult of the gentleman;
- ideas about the outsider;
- the American small-town setting;
- context in Robinson’s poetry: Tilbury Town as the setting for several poems about individual lives.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet’s use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

Use the Assessment Matrix.

- (b) Look again at Love Song: I and Thou by Alan Dugan (List B) which deals with the theme of love, and at one poem from List A which also deals with the theme of love.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about love.

Which poem do you find more interesting? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

Selection of a second poem:

This question is about what each speaker tells us about love, how the poets convey this and the candidate's personal response. Ensure that the self-selected poem is appropriate for discussion with the named poem.

What the named poem is about:

Love Song: I and Thou:

On the surface, this appears to be a poem about a man building a house and all the trials that accompany such an undertaking. The speaker is also using the building of this shambolic, disastrously built house to show how much it is like his life. The speaker is very unhappy with the way his life has turned out.

Although he is describing the severe imperfections of a house, he is figuratively referring to the mistakes and works of his life. The speaker does not like anything about himself because there is not a single unblemished, perfect quality or product of his past. Everything has been a disaster. He comprehends that there is not a single act that he could be proud of or that he can recall with complete confidence as a moment of success.

The speaker believes that love is about relieving some of the anger and chaos and, thus, finally finds that a wife may be the only good thing in his life.

Candidates' response to use of language:

- not a stereotypical love poem;
- concise and brusque language, including jargon – close to everyday speech;
- although the speaker is describing the severe imperfections of a house he is figuratively referring to the mistakes and works of his life;
- use of enjambment may suggest the chaos in the building of the house and the chaos in the speaker's life;
- 'the joints are shaky by nature' emphasises the speaker's unsteady and insecure life;

- the words 'by nature' briefly imply that he thinks he had no control or ability to stabilize his life and thus free himself from blame;
- use of simile, 'like maggots,' gives a sense that the speaker is disgusted with himself;
- use of profanity to express anger;
- use of humour, e.g. "I danced with a purple thumb;
- use of personal pronoun, 'I planned it, I sawed it, I nailed it, and I will live in it until it kills me,' suggests the speaker accepts that he put together the misshapen life he knows;
- the last lines are the only lines that relate to the title and are directly addressed to "You" his "help, his love, his wife;
- irony that the speaker needs a wife to help 'crucify' himself, but of course the phrase "nail the right" does have a happier colloquial meaning as well.

Similarities and differences in the poets' attitudes and the candidates' personal preference:

Reward clear connections made between the attitudes to love described by Dugan and attitudes to love shown in the self-chosen poem. Reward also comparisons and contrasts made between the poem as regards poetic technique and relevant contextual material. Reward a clearly argued preference.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

Candidates may show awareness of some of the following:

- Dugan's subject matter often referred to the commonplace and he was noted for his intelligent, unsentimental treatment of life's mundane nature;
- Dugan's examination of daily life in his poetry led him to feelings of alienation, defeat and despair;
- Dugan was lauded for his ability to see poetry in the more mundane aspects of life;
- Dugan held various jobs in advertising, publishing, and as a medical-supply model maker.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

10 Anthology Two: Themes – Nature and War

- (a) Look again at The Field of Waterloo by Thomas Hardy (List C) and at In Westminster Abbey by John Betjeman (List D), which both deal with war.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about war.

Which poem do you prefer? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What each poem is about:

The Field of Waterloo

The poem is an excerpt from a long dramatic poem and describes the battlefield of Waterloo from the perspective of the natural world. Hardy comments on the violence of battle through his description of its impact on the animals and plants in the battlefield. Hardy shows that they are innocent victims of the battle, and may also represent the terrible effects of battle on the soldiers fighting for their country.

In Westminster Abbey:

The poem is a satirical prayer to the “gracious Lord” from a society lady. Betjeman reveals the selfishness, hypocrisy, and class and racial attitudes of a well-bred London lady who is ignorant of the terrible impact of war and is only interested in how it might affect her life.

Candidates' response to use of language:

The Field of Waterloo:

- use of descriptions of what happens to these innocent and lowly creatures to depict the horrific impact of war: “beaten about by the heel and toe”;
- use of fragile creatures to emphasise the horrific impact of war and perhaps to represent the youth and innocence of many of the young men fighting in the battle;
- use of violent verbs which are effective in showing the carnage and horrors of war: “crushed”, “beaten”, “bruised”;
- simple style is moving in its description of the destruction of the countryside and its natural inhabitants;

- description of animals which are not normally considered when the impact of war is described makes the effects on their lives seem more moving;
- use of onomatopoeia to create sounds of the battlefield: “the thud of hoofs”;
- use of disturbing imagery to show the horrific impact of war: “What a foul red flood will be soaking him”;
- use of alliteration and consonance to emphasise the impact of war: “the hedgehog’s household the sapper unseals”;
- use of natural imagery in the final stanza seems to reflect how the plants will never reach their full potential like the young men fighting who will die in battle, emphasising the horrific impact of war: “Trodden and bruised to a miry tomb/Are ears that have greened but will never be gold,/And flowers in the bud that will never bloom”.

In Westminster Abbey:

- direct address to God: “Gracious Lord”;
- tone is complacent and condescending: “We will pardon Thy Mistake”;
- at times the language of prayer is used: “Protect them Lord”;
- the content is shocking in places, under a veil of politeness, e.g. bombing of women, the speaker’s racism;
- the details are used to show how the speaker feels war might have an impact on her own life right down to the use of the postal address: “put beneath Thy special care/One-eighty-nine Cadogan Square”;
- references to war-time England hinting at war on the home front: “Eternal Safety Zone”;
- use of language of war to remind the audience of the wider impact of the war: “bomb the Germans”, “Guide our Forces”;
- contrast between the actual fighting and the war-time life of the speaker: “in all their fights”, “I have a luncheon date”;
- dramatic monologue used to characterise the speaker;
- form and rhyme scheme suggest a hymn;
- pervasive irony achieved through separation of the attitudes of speaker and poet.

Similarities and differences in the poets’ attitudes and the candidates’ personal preference:

- both poems express an unusual perspective on war;
- both poems emphasise the horrific impact of war;
- Betjeman creates a comic speaker to emphasise the impact of war while Hardy’s description of insignificant creatures highlights the gruesome effects of war.

Candidates’ awareness of contexts:

- Hardy was interested in the Napoleonic Wars and had visited the field where the battle of Waterloo had taken place. This poem derives from a play that Hardy had written about the Napoleonic wars. The battle of Waterloo marked the final defeat of the French emperor Napoleon and was a particularly violent battle which resulted in many deaths;
- Hardy’s sympathy for humble and unobtrusive creatures is to be seen in many of his works;
- Betjeman set his poem in wartime London and targeted the behaviour of some upper-class people at that time, highlighting their selfishness and hypocrisy;
- Betjeman frequently engaged in usually gentle satire of the English upper classes. This poem is perhaps not so gentle.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet’s use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

Use the Assessment Matrix.

- (b) Look again at Death of a Naturalist by Seamus Heaney (List D) which deals with the theme of reactions to nature, and at one poem from List C which also deals with the theme of reactions to nature.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about reactions to nature.

Which poem do you find more interesting? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

Selection of a second poem:

This question is about what each speaker tells us about a reaction or reactions to nature, how the poets convey this, and the candidate's personal response. Ensure that the self-selected poem is appropriate for discussion with the named poem.

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What the named poem is about:

Death of a Naturalist:

- a memory of childhood;
- the speaker shows how his feelings were affected by a particular visit to the flax-dam: pleasurable interest became fear and disgust, and the significance of the title becomes clear.

Candidates' response to use of language:

- localising touches in use of language: "the flax-dam.. in the heart of the townland" where the speaker, a child, collects frogspawn;
- heavy odour of decay conveyed by carefully selected verbs: "festered", "rotted";
- aural imagery of bubbles and bluebottles reinforced by the repeated use of onomatopoeia and alliteration: "gargles", "gauze of sound";
- the speaker's pleasure is evident in his 'discovery': "but best of all...";
- suspenseful wait for the frogspawn to hatch conveyed in the sequence of actions: "collect...range...watch and wait...burst";
- use of assonance in description of the process from immobility to movement: "fattening dots...nimble/swimming tadpoles";
- anecdotal account of Miss Walls' lesson using childish language;

- humorous touches in naïve belief in weather prophecy;
- ominous language to describe the frogs: “angry”, “invaded”, “coarse”; showing his disgusted reaction;
- imagery of weaponry to show the speaker’s fearful reaction: “cocked on sods”, “mud grenades”;
- tonal shift to disgust and fear;
- final reflection suggests new attitude in speaker: “I knew/That if I dipped my hand the spawn would clutch it”.

Similarities and differences in the poets’ attitudes and the candidates’ personal preference:

Reward clear connections made between the reactions to nature described by Heaney and those shown in the self-chosen poem. Reward also comparisons and contrasts made between the poems as regards poetic technique and relevant contextual material. Reward a clearly argued preference.

Candidates’ awareness of contexts:

Candidates may show awareness of some of the following:

- Heaney often wrote about his childhood experiences on a farm and the activities that made up an Ulster childhood;
- rural life in the immediate post-war years;
- children’s seasonal activities.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet’s use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

11 Anthology Three: Heaney and Hardy

- (a) Look again at Trout by Seamus Heaney (List E) and at Overlooking the River Stour by Thomas Hardy (List F), which both deal with nature.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about nature.

Which poem do you prefer? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

The following textual details may be used as supporting material.

What each poem is about:

Trout

A descriptive poem, but with persistent weapon imagery, perhaps suggested by the trout's shape, colour and movement.

Overlooking the River Stour

Detailed description of bird and plant life. The ending of the poem suggests that the attention paid to nature by the speaker derives from (perhaps deliberate) ignoring of what was taking place behind him.

Candidates' response to use of language:

Trout

- title slips smoothly into first line;
- gun and weapon imagery runs from first line to last;
- smoothness is mentioned twice;
- onomatopoeic representation of fish falling back into water: "reporting/ flat";
- power suggested in final "ramrodding" image;
- repetition of sounds: "unravels/over gravel-beds";
- possible suggestion of "plumb" in "smooth-skinned as plums".

Overlooking the River Stour

- in this poem there is a distinct speaker, involved in the situation and revealed in the final stanza;
- carefully rhymed stanzas. Care also taken to vary line length and with repetition of sounds and lines. Intricacy may suggest full attention by observer;
- suggestive simile and metaphor for swallows, “like little crossbows animate” and moor-hens “planing up shavings of crystal spray”;
- plant life in third stanza. Observer notices change in colours. Use of “monotonous” strikes a jarring note, possibly hinted at earlier;
- speaker emerges and is individuated. The scene separated from him by a pane of glass. Our expectations confounded: the vivid realities he has described are merely “less things”. The important events were happening behind his back;
- possible ironic significance of title – what was being “overlooked”?

Similarities and differences in the poet’s attitudes and the candidates’ personal preference:

- “invisible” speaker v participating speaker;
- undercurrent of violence in imagery and diction of both poems;
- river setting in both poems;
- nature used as a distraction in Hardy, as an object of observation for Heaney.

Candidates’ awareness of contexts:

Candidates may show awareness of some of the following:

- vogue for poems of animal description in 1960s and 1970s;
- specific setting of Hardy poem – “the Hardy country” – Wessex;
- inattention, especially in emotional matters, a recurring theme in Hardy.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet’s use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Uses of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques: see Guidelines at the start of Section B.

Use the Assessment Matrix.

- (b) Look again at At Castle Boterel by Thomas Hardy which deals with the theme of memory, and at one poem from List E which also deals with the theme of memory.

Compare and contrast what the speakers in the poems say about memory.

Which poem do you find more interesting? Give reasons for your opinions.

In your answer you should consider:

- what each poet has written about;
- what you learn about the thoughts and feelings of each speaker;
- how each poet uses language to convey these thoughts and feelings;
- relevant background material.

Examiners should note that candidates must address the stem of the question.

Reward candidates who can sensibly acknowledge and discuss similarities and differences (AO3) and offer an informed personal response (AO1), backed up by a discussion of each poet's use of language (AO2) and by knowledge of context (AO4).

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–10
Band 2 Emerging	11–20
Band 3 Some	21–30
Band 4 Competent	31–40

Selection of a second poem:

This question is about what each speaker tells us about memory, how the poets convey this and the candidate's personal response. Ensure that the self-selected poem is appropriate for discussion with the named poem.

What the named poem is about:

At Castle Boterel

- the speaker of the poem, whilst making a journey, remembers a previous occasion when on the same road with a former love, in his youth;
- during the poem the speaker evaluates the conversation between his lover and himself as they climbed the hill;
- the speaker widens the time-frame within the poem to consider all this particular hill has witnessed since primeval times and concludes that nothing the hill has witnessed is greater than the love between the girl and himself;
- the speaker goes on to reflect that time grinds on and that there can be no reliving of this happiness.

Candidates' response to use of language:

- the poem opens with the metaphor of the speaker at a "junction" in his life between looking back on the past and moving on with his own limited future;
- the metaphors of the speaker in the second verse who sees himself in the spring of his life "in dry March weather" whereas in the final verse the speaker is in the autumn of his life and is aware that his "sand is sinking";
- use of regular rhyme scheme with each verse ending in a rhyming couplet;
- each verse "dies" with truncated final line;

- frequent use of enjambment to emphasise the importance of the events in the speaker's memory;
- use of rhetorical devices, "But was there ever/A time of such quality, since or before/In that hill's story?", to elevate the speaker's experience and to highlight the speaker's experience of love with this girl;
- the speaker takes the micro experience of the love shared between himself and this girl and uses the imagery of the "Primaeval rocks" to make it a universal experience;
- the speaker personifies "Time" to emphasise how this moves mercilessly forward, leaving no possibility of reliving former happiness;
- the repetition of "shrinking, shrinking" and the use of alliteration here and in "my sand is sinking" to emphasise the speaker's ageing and the fading of his memories;
- the emphatic and abrupt last line "Never again".

Similarities and differences in the poets' attitudes and the candidates' personal preference:

Reward clear connections made between the attitudes to memory described by Hardy and those shown in the self-chosen poem. Reward also comparisons and contrasts made between the poems as regards poetic technique and relevant contextual material.

Reward a clearly argued preference.

Candidates' awareness of contexts:

Candidates may show awareness of some of the following:

- At Castle Boterel is part of Hardy's collection Poems of 1912–1913 which features intensely personal poems in which Hardy reflects on the meaning of his own life, the death of his wife, Emma and how to reconcile loss and grieving with ongoing existence;
- Castle Boterel was identified by Hardy with Boscastle, Cornwall.

Reward candidates who engage meaningfully with each poet's use of language.

Credit any other valid suggestions.

Section C: Poetry

In this section we are assessing two assessment objectives:

AO1

Respond to texts critically and imaginatively; select and evaluate relevant textual detail to illustrate and support interpretations;

AO2

Explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, themes and settings;

Guidelines to Assessing AO2 in Candidates' Response to Poetry (Foundation Tier)

Assessment Objective 2 requires candidates to "explore how language, structure and form contribute to writers' presentation of ideas, characters, themes and settings".

This will be effected through:

Key term in the question (Foundation Tier):

"the ways the poet uses language . . ."

And:

Key Term in the bullets (Foundation Tier)

"the language used in the poem"

Use of Language and Stylistic Devices/Poetic Techniques

When assessing candidates' responses to poetry, some of the following uses of language and stylistic devices may be noted. (This list is neither prescriptive nor exhaustive, but is intended as a helpful guide to examiners.)

- versification and structure (use of some terms, e.g. quatrain, couplet, octave, metre, iambic rhythm);
- specific forms (e.g. ode, sonnet, monologue, lyric);
- similes and metaphors;
- imagery and use of the senses, (especially visual imagery and auditory imagery);
- alliteration and other "sound" features (e.g. assonance, consonance, repetition, rhyme and rhythm);
- vocabulary choices;
- repetition of words or ideas;
- use of punctuation;
- visual impact of the poem on the page.

12 Section C: Unseen Poetry

Adrian Henri's Talking After Christmas Blues

By referring closely to the details of the poem and particularly to the ways the poet uses language, show what you learn about the speaker in the poem.

In your answer you should consider:

- how the speaker spends Christmas and the New Year;
- the speaker's thoughts and feelings about his lover;
- the language used in the poem;
- the form and structure of the poem.

Band 0 None	0
Band 1 Very Little	1–5
Band 2 Emerging	6–10
Band 3 Some	11–15
Band 4 Competent	16–20

Reward candidates who can present a personal response and informed argument (AO1), backed up with understanding of the poet's methods and intentions (AO2).

How the speaker spends Christmas and the New Year:

- he wakes up in bed;
- he searches through his Christmas stocking;
- he eats his Christmas dinner;
- he pulls crackers;
- he drinks a variety of alcoholic drinks;
- he goes back upstairs to bed, drunk.

The speaker's thoughts and feelings about his lover:

- he misses her;
- he cannot forget about her;
- memories of her hurt him;
- he laments a future without her.

The language used in the poem:

- the poet personalises the poem by including his own name in the title;
- modern idiom reflecting modern treatment of theme: "I don't know girl, but it hurts a lot";
- literary allusion to 'Bond' novels, "stirred but not shaken";
- written in the vernacular: "Well I woke up.." "I'm feeling fine";
- informal syntax: "there was apples";
- contrast festive cheer with loneliness: "Christmas Day", "but no you";
- the disappointment conveyed by the repetition of the final item of each list, "but no you";
- sparse punctuation

The form and structure of the poem:

- rhyming couplets to begin each verse;
- the upbeat rhythm of the first four lines of each verse fizzles out into disappointment;
- conversational style;
- using lists repetitively;
- progression between verses;
- the talking, musical rhythm of the piece
- varied line length;

- use of suspension points to indicate poignant pause;
- the stark denouement of each verse, particularly the final line.

Reward candidates who engage with the “blues” of the title and the mournful qualities of that form, especially any who engage with the form known as “The Talking Blues”.

Be receptive to other suggestions which are text-based.
