

In the poem 'My mothers Kitchen' Choman describes her thoughts clearly in Stanza one. For example "an ugly collection" this suggests she finds her mums collection ugly and she does not want her mum to give the collection to her. Also in Stanza one "rusty pots she cant bare throwing away" the word "bare" implies the writer is frustrated that her mother wont throw away these "rusty" pots that need to be thrown away. Also "cups bought in a rush" this suggests that her mother put no thought in to what she was buying and in a "rush" she just bought the cups. On the last line of Stanza one when her mother says "soon all of this will be yours" the way it is said it implies to the Reader she would say it in an annoying way to suggest she does not want her mothers "rusty" collection.

The poem 'Sea timeless song' presents different thoughts than the poem 'my mothers kitchen' because it is a positive attitude for example "hurricane come" "hurricane go" this implies ~~that she is fast~~ ~~that she is fast~~ that Grace has a better attitude where as Choman is moody and Sarcastic. In the poem 'my mothers kitchen' she is ~~moaning~~ moaning for the 3 stanzas where as the second poem is on holiday and is calm.
