Crime

Crime is a major problem in today's society. Seldom a day goes by without some reference to this problem in the media.

There are many different types of crime including theft, attacks on foreigners and the elderly, or some other aspect of anti-social behaviour, even murder.

Without doubt it is believed that there is a strong connection between crime and the problem of alcohol and drugs.

Crime is also associated with poverty. In the poorest areas there are drug pushers and addicts who would do whatever is necessary to get money.

Television and video games are to blame also. According to the experts there are far too many violent images on the screen that young children and adults watch. These images have a major influence on a person's behaviour.

What can be done about this terrible problem? Well, first and foremost the Government must tackle this problem urgently to create a safer society for its citizens.
