PEARSON

Answer Question 1, Question 2 AND Question 3.

Question 1

Study Sources A and B.

Source A: A record of payment made to the Bow Street Runners in 1761.

Sir John Fielding paid three men for their work on several nights. They were part of the horse patrol on the roads leading to this town, trying to catch a highwayman. They also distributed small 'Wanted' posters containing a description of the highwayman and his horse.

Source B: A newspaper report, published in 2013, about a police appeal for information.

An appeal was broadcast on the BBC Crimewatch television programme. The police asked for information about a murder that took place 20 years before.

The Detective Chief Inspector said that after the appeal they had many telephone calls but two were very significant. One caller suggested a possible eyewitness to the attack. The other caller gave very good background information about suspects already known to the police.
