You are advised to spend about 1 hour on this section.

Answer Question 1 and ONE other question.

1 Study the sources carefully and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A

A drawing from the Middle Ages showing a patient vomiting after being given a purgative by his doctor.

SOURCE B

A fourteenth-century drawing of people whipping themselves.

SOURCE C

Will you have some microbe? There is some everywhere. The worship of microbes is the fashion, it is an idea which must not be even discussed, especially when Monsieur Pasteur has pronounced the holy words, 'I have spoken.'

From an article in a medical journal, 1881, by Rossignol, a French journalist.

1 (a) Study Sources A and B.

What can you learn from these two sources about medicine in the Middle Ages? Use the sources and your knowledge to explain your answer. [7]

(b) Study Source C.

'There had been little development in ideas about disease in the period from the Middle Ages to the late nineteenth century.' How far does this source support this interpretation? Use the source and your knowledge to explain your answer. [8]

Choose ONE of the following three questions.

You must answer ALL parts of the question you choose.

Remember to explain your answer as fully as possible and support it with specific detail.

You should spend about 1 hour on this section.

Answer Question 5 and ONE other question.

- 5 Study the sources carefully and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A

As dawn breaks the watchmen crawl home after their all-night watch over the safety of London. They are mostly old, unwell men, armed only with a pole or walking stick. At the slightest alarm each man can summon a colleague by sounding a rattle, but normally their only duty is to shout the time every twenty minutes.

A description of London watchmen in 1829, written at the time.

The main aim is the prevention of crime. Officers and police constables should make it extremely difficult for any one to commit a crime.

A constable must make himself perfectly acquainted with all parts of the streets, courts and outhouses of his beat. He is expected to recognise the inhabitants of each house. He is expected to see every part of his beat every ten minutes. He will be polite and helpful to all people.

From the instructions given to Metropolitan Policemen, 1829.

SOURCE C

A picture, entitled 'Lost in London', published in a London magazine in 1888.

5 (a) Study Sources A and B.

Why do these two sources give different impressions of law enforcement? Use the sources and your knowledge to explain your answer. [7]

(b) Study Source C.

'After 1829 the police were a success through the rest of the nineteenth century.' How far does this source support this interpretation? Use the source and your knowledge to explain your answer. [8]

Answer Question 9 and ONE other question.

- 9 Study the sources carefully and then answer the questions which follow.

Why has the Lord brought us here? Oh, I feel so unhappy! We sat on the boards in the work-wagon, packed in so tightly that we could not move, and we drove across the endless prairies with only a few trees. The closer we came to Lake Sibley the more desolate the country seemed and the roads were frightful. The Indians are not far away from here so I can understand why all the men come riding by armed and looking like highway robbers. Gustaf is out with Albinson to have a look at the land he bought and to see if there is any that he would like to have.

From a letter by Ida Lindgren to her mother in Sweden. The letter was written in 1870 when Ida and Gustaf arrived at Lake Sibley in Kansas with their family. They stayed at first with Albinson, who had emigrated to the US a few years before.
