Unit 3

Local and Global Citizenship

[GLW41]

WEDNESDAY 8 JANUARY, MORNING

SOURCE A

Insert: Local and Global Citizenship

For use with Questions 4 and 5.

The Northern Ireland government has a role to play in preventing discrimination in society. For example, people could face discrimination because of their gender or age. The government can help to prevent discrimination by promoting equality. It can do this by passing laws, supporting the work of the Equality Commission and by raising citizens' awareness about equality.

Promoting equality can help to reduce racism. People can also help to reduce racism in their communities. For example, they could set up a group to promote diversity and inclusion. This group could include people from the different ethnic minorities who live in the community. The group could work together to organise shared cultural events.

The school can make young people aware of racism. Youth clubs also give young people from different cultures the chance to meet and learn about each other.
