SOURCES A, B and C

Insert: Local and Global Citizenship

For use with Questions 4 and 7.

SOURCE A

Everyone should have human rights. These include the right to life and the right to privacy. In some countries these rights may be abused. For example, people could be tortured or killed by the state. People's actions could be closely watched by the police who could intercept mail and listen to private conversations.

In Northern Ireland one of the government's roles is to safeguard human rights. It can do this by passing laws and making sure authorities and public bodies have policies to promote human rights and ensure these are put into practice.

Young people have rights too. Sometimes people say that with rights come responsibilities and that society expects young people to be socially responsible. Young people can be socially responsible by thinking about how their behaviour can affect others and by helping others and their community.

SOURCE B

Managing Risk Taking Behaviour

Through the school curriculum, e.g. Home Economics and Learning for Life and Work teachers can help young people learn about the dangers of smoking cigarettes, drinking alcohol and taking illegal drugs, etc.

Visiting guest speakers can help to get the message across to young people about the risks they may face and challenge many of the ideas they may have about anti-social and sexual behaviour.

Young people and their peers may become involved in negative risk taking behaviour and must be aware of the consequences of their actions. For example, a group of underage teenagers drinking alcohol and behaving badly may affect the community where they live especially elderly people, neighbours and parents with young children.

Positive risk taking is more likely to give a young person and their peers a sense of achievement through taking up new challenges or raising money for charity.

The Workplace

Applicants applying for jobs are usually interviewed so that the employer can meet the applicant to verify the information on their application form.

If the applicant is successful, it is important that they are aware of the various responsibilities they have to their employer. One of these responsibilities is to ensure that they meet deadlines in the workplace. By doing so, orders will be produced on time and the employee will achieve a high degree of satisfaction.

The employee may decide that they wish to work for themselves and leave their place of employment. They will then be their own boss and make all their own decisions. However, self-employment can involve long working hours and little time for family and social occasions.
