Dear Colleague,

We are looking for enthusiastic young people interested in music to help with the launch of a range of new monthly magazines dedicated to different genres of music. As you know, this is a very competitive market and we are looking for a dynamic team to make this venture a success.

The magazines will be available as print publications and on-line versions. Our readers can then choose to buy over the counter or subscribe to our on-line site. We aim to take the best and make it better so that our range of publications will appeal to a wide audience of all ages and all tastes.

We are looking for creative people, able to focus on one style of music that they find particularly exciting. If you want to be in our team, working on this vibrant project, complete the following tasks and submit them to me promptly.

Yours truly,

Bethany Sharp

Task 1*Total for this question: 25 marks

Tell us the qualities that music publications should demonstrate to make them successful in their appeal to readers. These might be print and/or on-line. You should compare at least two different examples, one of which was published before the mid 1980s.

Task 2*Total for this question: 25 marks

Identify your chosen genre and target audience. Now give us your suggestions for:

- a title
- a possible contents list
- regular features
- potential advertisers
- structure and organisation.

Task 3*Total for this question: 25 marks

Focussing on the launch edition for your chosen genre, design:

EITHER the front cover of the print version of your new publication

OR the on-line home page for that publication.

You should bear in mind the appropriate conventions. Use the A3 design sheets.

Task 4*Total for this question: 25 marks

Explain the appeal of your publication to the target audience in terms of:

- title
- contents list
- regular features
- advertisers
- cover/home page
- structure and organisation.
