Mark Scheme for June 2010

OCR (Oxford Cambridge and RSA) is a leading UK awarding body, providing a wide range of qualifications to meet the needs of pupils of all ages and abilities. OCR qualifications include AS/A Levels, Diplomas, GCSEs, OCR Nationals, Functional Skills, Key Skills, Entry Level qualifications, NVQs and vocational qualifications in areas such as IT, business, languages, teaching/training, administration and secretarial skills.

It is also responsible for developing new specifications to meet national requirements and the needs of students and teachers. OCR is a not-for-profit organisation; any surplus made is invested back into the establishment to help towards the development of qualifications and support which keep pace with the changing needs of today's society.

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and students, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which marks were awarded by Examiners. It does not indicate the details of the discussions which took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking commenced.

All Examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the published question papers and the Report on the Examination.

OCR will not enter into any discussion or correspondence in connection with this mark scheme.

4 Answer this question using Television and/or Radio Comedy programmes you have studied.

(a) Discuss in detail how and why one comedy programme was scheduled on one or more channels. [15]

The question asks for a discussion of the relationship between institutional context and scheduling practices, on the one hand, and one text the candidates have studied, on the other. Better answers will focus on how the text fits the institution and its scheduling. Weaker answers might focus solely on the text, or might simply list facts about the institutions.

Candidates should discuss:

- whether the text is scheduled on mass audience or niche audience channels/stations
- the channel's brand identity and marketing and programme mix
- the days and times of transmission for the text (and perhaps the mix of programmes scheduled before and after it and/or on competing channels/stations at the same times)
- how this time slot would attract the target audience (preferably using evidence from the schedules, not unsubstantiated assertions)

B322

Candidates might touch on factors such as:

- regulatory requirements (eg Public Service Broadcasting)
- channel ethos and history (where relevant, eg the distinctiveness of the BBC or Channel 4)

Level 1 (0–3 marks)

Describes the scheduling of one comedy Minimal or inaccurate use of terminology Shows minimal knowledge of TV or radio channels and scheduling Minimal or no understanding of how channels use scheduling to reach audiences Some simple ideas expressed with errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar that obscure meaning. Writing may also lack legibility.

Level 2 (4–8 marks)

Accurately describes the scheduling of a comedy Limited use of terminology Shows some knowledge of TV or radio channels and scheduling Some understanding of how channels use scheduling to reach audiences Simple ideas expressed appropriately but possibly with some errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar that obscure meaning.

Level 3 (9–11 marks)

Describes and evaluates the scheduling of a comedy Some accurate use of terminology

Shows sound knowledge of TV or radio channels and scheduling with some understanding of how programmes reflect institutional contexts

Sound understanding of how channels use scheduling to reach audiences

Ideas expressed with some clarity and fluency; errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar do not obscure meaning.

Level 4 (12–15 marks)

Discusses the scheduling of a comedy

Precise and accurate use of terminology

Shows detailed knowledge of TV or radio channels and scheduling with understanding of how programmes reflect institutional contexts

Thorough understanding of how channels use scheduling to reach audiences

Ideas expressed clearly and fluently in well structured sentences with few, if any, errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Mark Scheme

(b) Compare the audience pleasures offered by two comedy programmes.

Higher level answers will compare several pleasures offered by the texts with exemplification of these pleasures by reference to one or more episodes of the programmes.

Middle level answers are likely to discuss fewer pleasures and more limited examples, probably from only one episode or part of an episode.

Lower level answers are likely to describe the texts with little identification of pleasure beyond the text 'being funny'.

Answers that only discuss one text will be limited to a maximum of top of level 2.

Level 1 (0–3 marks)

Describes one or two texts Shows minimal knowledge of audience pleasures Minimal or no understanding of how programmes offer audience pleasures Some simple ideas expressed with errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar that obscure meaning. Writing may also lack legibility.

Level 2 (4–8 marks)

Shows knowledge of one or two audience pleasures Basic understanding of how programmes offer audience pleasures Some textual exemplification Some ideas expressed appropriately but possibly with some errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar that obscure meaning.

Level 3 (9–11 marks)

Shows sound knowledge of different audience pleasures Sound understanding of how programmes offer audience pleasures Relevant textual exemplification with some detail Some understanding of differences between programmes Ideas expressed with some clarity and fluency; errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar do not obscure meaning.

Level 4 (12–15 marks)

Shows detailed knowledge of audience pleasures Thorough understanding of how programmes offer audience pleasures Detailed and appropriate exemplification Thorough understanding of differences between programmes Ideas expressed clearly and fluently in well structured sentences with few, if any, errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar.
