~~Set in a unique out of public site.
everything breaking showed that there was a fight going on and the hero was going to win.
editing = good use of colour that go with the dull genre.~~

1): Audience of the Action, adventure genre (AA) expect quite a few things from ~~the~~ movies of this genre. The type of things they expect are violence, non-diegetic sounding, hero's and villain's, etc.
~~The character of~~ Lara Croft is a character in the extract from "Lara Croft Tomb Raider: The cradle of life". She fits into the Action adventure genre because of her costume and her violence. Lara is wearing a grey wetsuit, this goes with the genre as it is expected to find a character wearing a certain type of suit that stands out from the rest; ~~for example~~ these type of suits are often worn by the hero / main character of the movie.

Lara Croft also fitted into the action adventure <sup>genre</sup> ~~genre~~ because of all the violent behaviour, which is mostly expected from ~~from~~ a movie of this genre. The violent behaviour was the fighting in the water and shooting using guns. the shooting showed violence which the audience expect to see.

2) ~~From~~ non-diegetic sounds were used in the extract to keep the audience entertained and to cause tension. Such sounds are expected in action adventure movies as it shows something ~~is going~~ unexpected is going to happen. The use of camera shots created effects that fit the action adventure genre. they used zoomed in shots like when Lara was ~~from~~ looking at the video camera. they did this to show her <sup>facial expressions to the</sup> sudden change of mood and to create tension as to why she suddenly looked worried and ~~surprised~~ surprised. The editing done in the extract was also to compliment the action adventure genre and to create the scary, tension feeling / atmosphere. the editing done were the colours used to create the dull <sup>and unique</sup> look of the setting.

The mise-en-scene was loud and ~~dark~~ tension creating, ~~which~~ it would have the audience engaged due to the sudden sound changes e.g the water falls to the rushing sound to know what is going to happen next.

3) In this extract women are represented as the greater and braver sex. This is shown as Lara is a girl and she is leading the group, and she has two male ~~helpers~~ helpers. I believe this stereotypes that women are better than men. I also think this because Lara is shown doing all the stunts not a man which shows that she is the action hero, and the stronger sex. Overall women are taken <sup>into</sup> more account and shown as hero's and leaders as they believe they are the stronger sex.

4a) Benadorm is a comedy programme which was scheduled on ITV. The reason why benadorm was scheduled on ITV was because it met the ITV institutional ethos; the ITV institutional ethos is to entertain and inform the audience that watch this channel. This is scheduled after the watershed as it contains language which is not appropriate for children.

4b) The audience pleasures offered by "Benadorm" and "gavin and stacey" are very similar as the both are about families with ~~the~~ characters that have different personalities. This means that everyone in the targeted audience can relate themselves to at least one of the characters in both the programmes. this makes it easier for them to understand the comedy and story as. Both the programmes contain ~~dry~~ adult humour as they are not family shows. the adult humour used is of different kinds e.g Sarcastic humour and a bit Obvious humour, there are different types of humour so people with different personalities and like's and dis-likes. can also enjoy the programme, E.g "the swearing used for comedy may not seem funny to some of the audience therefore they use Sarcastic humour",
