General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the first candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the last.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- There is no ceiling on achievement. All marks on the mark scheme should be used appropriately.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded.
   Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification may be limited.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, the team leader must be consulted.
- Crossed out work should be marked UNLESS the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

1(c)	Award one mark for each thing. Award further marks for each development of the thing up to a maximum of four marks. Award one further mark for any relevant source of wisdom or authority.  • From the life of Prophet Muhammad Muslims may learn the importance of worshipping the one true God (1). 'And we will never associate with our Lord anyone.' (Surah 72:2) (1). This teaches Muslims that the Prophets were focussed solely on the will of Allah (1)  • Muslims may learn the importance of obedience to Allah in all things (1). Muhammad is described as 'An excellent pattern for anyone whose hope is in Allah and the Last Day and [who] remembers Allah often' (Surah 33:21) (1), showing that Muhammad's obedience to Allah acts as an example to all Muslims (1)  • Muslims may learn the importance of treating others with respect and kindness (1). The Hadith teaches that 'None will have faith until he loves for his brother what he loves for himself' (Sahih al-Bukhari 13) (1), demonstrating that love must be extended to everyone (1).	<ul> <li>Repeated thing/development</li> <li>Development that does not relate both to the thing given and to the question</li> <li>Reference to a source of wisdom that does not relate to the thing given.</li> </ul>	(5)

1(d)	Candidates must underpin their analysis and evaluation with knowledge and understanding. Candidates will be required to demonstrate thorough knowledge and understanding as well as accuracy of religion and belief when responding to the question and in meeting AO2 descriptors.  AO2 Arguments for the statement:  The Qur'an teaches that 'The punishment of your Lord is ever feared' (Surah 17:57). Muslims must strive to lead a good life according to the will of Allah and pray for his mercy in order to achieve paradise and avoid the punishment  Muslims believe life is a test determining where a person will spend eternity. Allah's judgement of the quality of a life is based on the life on earth so they must be conscious of Allah's judgement in every choice they make  Since Allah already knows the outcome of the decision determining where a Muslim will spend eternity the purpose of a Muslim's life is to do Allah's will and fulfil their destiny by achieving paradise.
	<ul> <li>Arguments against the statement:</li> <li>The Qur'an says that Allah 'intends for you ease and does not intend for you hardship' (Surah 2:185) so some believe that life is to be lived to the full and enjoyed, rather than living in fear of judgement</li> <li>There are many aspects of life in this world which Allah has decreed and a Muslims purpose is therefore to fulfil Allah's will, rather than serve Allah in expectation of future reward</li> <li>'Allah is Forgiving and Merciful' (Surah 2:182) so Muslims should live life to the full and trust that Allah will judge their intentions and show them mercy since no-one is without sin. No-one can achieve paradise unless Allah wills it.</li> </ul>

2(c)	Award one mark for each way. Award further marks for each development of the way up to a maximum of four marks. Award one further mark for any relevant source of wisdom or authority.  • Islam teaches that men and women are equal before Allah (1). The Muslim men and Muslim womenfor them Allah has prepared forgiveness and a great reward.' (Surah 33:35) (1). Allah judges both men and women on faith and actions rather than gender (1)  • Both Muslim men and Muslim women are expected to seek learning (1). The Prophet said 'Seeking knowledge is an obligation upon every Muslim', (Hadith Sunai Ibn Majah 224) (1). Both men and women are expected to use their knowledge for the benefit of the family and the community (1)  • Both men and women can seek a divorce (1). 'And if a woman fears from her husband contempt or evasion, there is no sin upon them if they make terms of settlement between them' (Surah 4:128) (1). Allah understands that sometimes marriages do not work out and provides the means to try again (1). 2(d)	AO2 12 marks  Candidates must underpin their analysis and evaluation with knowledge and understanding. Candidates will be required to demonstrate thorough knowledge and understanding as well as accuracy of religion and belief when responding to the question and in meeting AO2 descriptors.
	AO2 Arguments for the statement:
	<ul> <li>Muslims believe that Allah gifts a family with children. 'He creates what he wills. He gives to whom He wills female [children], and He gives to whom He wills males.' (Surah 42:49) Children are therefore in the hands of Allah and there is no need to interfere</li> <li>The family is held in high esteem in Islam so using contraception may cause issues in the wider community, e.g. with parents who expect grandchildren. Couples often feel a responsibility to have more children, since Allah will provide</li> <li>Some forms of contraception are forbidden in Islam, including some types of the contraceptive pill, since they can act as an abortifacient. This may make Muslims reluctant to consider family planning.</li> </ul>
	Arguments against the statement:
	The Hadith shows that coitus interruptus was practiced in the time of the Prophet. This is used as evidence that it is possible to use contraception to space children out so that they receive a proper Islamic upbringing
	Many non-religious people would argue that contraception for family planning is essential, in order for a couple to be in a stable financial and emotional state to give children a good standard of life
	<ul> <li>Other non-religious people would argue that contraception is needed because the world is already over-populated and for people to have large families is irresponsible.</li> </ul>	(12)
