MARK SCHEME for the May/June 2013 series

0411 DRAMA

0411/12

Paper 1 (Written Examination), maximum raw mark 80

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2013 series for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level components and some Ordinary Level components.

Section A

- 1 Suggest one piece of advice you would give to the actor playing the part of BLACKIE at the opening of the extract (lines 41-57). How would your advice help to make the performance effective?

Blackie is physically deformed. Described as ‘menacing’ in the play, his physicality is his defining feature. He is obsessively attached to Queeny. He is a thief, and offers to bring back for Queeny whatever she wants.

1 mark	An appropriate piece of advice to the actor playing BLACKIE.

1 mark	An appropriate reason as to why this advice would be likely to make the performance effective.
--------	--

Total = 2 marks
------------------------	--

	IGCSE – May/June 2013	0411	12

- 2 List three props that would be needed for this extract, and say how each one could be used effectively in performance.

There are several props used in the extract. Possibilities include: table cloths; cigarettes; clock; bottles; suitcase; colourful fabrics and so on. Credit should be awarded for demonstrating the way in which each could be used. For example: the way in which the table cloths are used as Johnny bargains with Queeny; the way Queeny holds the cigarette to show her mood; the way that Blackie holds the clock at different points.

Allow credit for any props that may be required in the extract. However, if a prop is not mentioned in the stage directions, only allow credit if its presence on stage and subsequent usage help the action along.

1 mark	An indication of how the chosen prop could be used effectively.
and/or

- 3 Look at the section between line 553 ('Sit down while you're waiting for the coffee') and line 582 ('Maybe it's like that with you') and say how you would want the actors to pace the drama to make it effective.

The style of the dialogue here differs from what comes before, and there are a number of short questions and answers that almost overlap as Queeny, sensing some kind of hope, tries to find out about Johnny. This culminates in a contrasting short speech from Johnny that gives an insight into his views on life.

Candidates should show awareness of the style of the dialogue here and the way in which the pacing would be likely to be quicker. Suggestions of the effects that could be achieved might vary, however, so be prepared to consider any workable approach if it is given with a rationale that could be successful.

1 mark	Able to give enough information to demonstrate understanding of the drama. The response is typified by general comment.
2 marks	The candidate offers 1 or 2 suggestions as to how the dialogue could be enhanced through pacing and makes specific reference to the text.
3 marks	A competent grasp of how the dialogue should be paced in the passage. The candidate explores the majority of the given extract, making suggestions as to how pacing might be executed. References to the text fully support the given response.
4 marks	A clear discussion about contrasts of pacing and the way in which different lines could be approached. The candidate is able to show awareness of the style of dialogue and the effect that might be achieved.

- 4 What four pieces of advice would you give to the actor playing QUEENY between line 751 ('I been getting sick of it lately') and lines 764-5 ('You think I'm mad?') in order to make the most impact on the audience?

This speech marks an emotional point in the drama – Queeny has just thrown Patrick (and his money) out of the shebeen and has just silenced Sam by throwing his words back at him for the first time. There is a sense of emotional climax as she progresses through the speech and as she hints to Johnny that she's fed up with her life but doesn't know where to start in order to change it.

Allow credit for creative and detailed approaches to delivery of the speech, both physical and vocal.

5 Write briefly about how you would want the actor playing PATRICK to perform the role.

Although Patrick is a minor character, he represents the effect of life in the townships: a poor man with few employment prospects, a growing family and a desire to escape from the squalor of everyday life through drinking at Queeny’s shebeen. Queeny despises him and all he stands or staggers for, yet he now contributes to her income in the shebeen as he spends what little money he has in there. In rejecting him, she also rejects the men from her past, and her wanting to be rid of Patrick is a longing to be rid of worthless men.

1 mark	Able to give enough information to demonstrate understanding of the character of PATRICK.
2 marks	Offers a few ideas as to how the role should be brought alive in the extract.
3 marks	A competent grasp of how the role should be performed, with some examples.
4 marks	A clear discussion about how the role should be performed, with several examples.
5 marks	A proficient discussion of the role of PATRICK, with detailed suggestions as to how it can be realised.

6 In your piece based on Family matters, how did you use physicality, and how effective was it?

The focus of the question is on the way that the physical aspects of performance were considered and used in the piece. Discussions that simply tell the story of the piece should not be credited.

1 mark	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how physicality was used in performance OR makes a general comment as to its effectiveness.
2 marks	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how physicality was used in performance AND makes a general comment as to its effectiveness.
3 marks	A good discussion of at least two physical aspects of performance and how they were effective in the piece.
4 marks	A detailed discussion of the use of physicality and a good insight into its effectiveness in the piece.

7 How did you use contrasts (such as movement/stillness, sound/silence, light/darkness etc.) to add interest to your piece based on A long-distance call?

The focus of the question is on the approach to the piece to build interest through the use of contrasts.

Some credit is allowed for simple description of the plot if there is reference to contrasting sections/approaches, but most credit should be awarded for discussing the way contrast was created in the drama.

No credit should be awarded for purely narrative responses.

1 mark	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how contrast was used in performance OR makes a general comment on how it adds interest.
2 marks	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how contrast was used in performance AND makes a general comment on how it adds interest.
3 marks	A good discussion of at least two contrasts in performance and how they added interest to the piece.
4 marks	A detailed discussion of contrast and a good insight into how it added interest to the piece.

8 How successful was the style of dialogue you used in your piece based on First prize!?

The focus of this question is about the style of dialogue that has been chosen for the piece and its effectiveness in conveying the subject matter and characterisation. Allow credit for any other features mentioned that are relevant to the style of dialogue.

No credit should be awarded for purely narrative responses.

1 mark	The candidate is able to give at least one example of the style of dialogue in performance OR makes a general comment on its success.
2 marks	The candidate is able to give at least one example of the style of dialogue in performance AND makes a general comment on its success.
3 marks	A good discussion of how the choice of style contributed to its success.
4 marks	A detailed discussion of the style of dialogue and a good insight into its success in performance.

Section B

- 9 You have been cast in the role of SAM, but you have had to pull out and the part is going to be played by your understudy. Write detailed notes to help this new actor understand your approach to the role.

Fugard tells us that Sam is about the same age as Queeny, but he is meticulously dressed whereas she is inclined to be slovenly. He is a large, self-assured man, full of the sort of confidence that a little money brings. We learn that Sam has a shop across the street from Queeny's shebeen, that he comes into the shebeen for drinks, and that he is also her drinks supplier.

We also learn of the power relationship between the two characters. In the past he has controlled and exploited her, making a good living for himself in the process. He now seeks to transfer this power into his overseeing of her business activities. Whilst she is a powerful and self-assured figure, Sam is more taken in by the trappings of success and seeks to exploit these for his own ends.

The nature of the notes will vary between candidates. The crucial thing is they demonstrate insight into the nature of the character and the approach that would be taken. Solutions must be offered with close reference to the extract, and a clear understanding of the purpose and functionality of the role in performance.

How would you direct the extract to show this?

The play reflects the power and abuse of power in the black townships of apartheid-era South Africa. It shows the dream of breaking free from the apparently insuperable shackles of poverty, oppression, lack of human rights and sense of inevitability, although it is possible that candidates will offer a more nuanced view of the play.

The purpose of the quotation in the question is to lead candidates to a mainstream view of the play in order for them to discuss how the vision could become reality. This might include the way in which certain lines are delivered, how particular encounters are handled, how the use of space and the proxemics of the performance are crafted.

Allow credit for any appropriate suggestions with evidence from the text.

11 You have just attended a production meeting for Nongogo. What were the main design issues identified by either the costume designer or the lighting designer?

The purpose of the question is to allow candidates to think about the most important considerations that would need to be covered by one of the designers mentioned. Candidates will need to address the play's themes and contrasts, and offer practical solutions as to how the designer should approach key aspects of the extract.

Marks should be awarded as follows:

23–25	Shows a sophisticated practical understanding of design elements and offers creative solutions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Comprehensive discussion of the way that design elements might be addressed.</li> <li>Excellent, practical solutions with sustained and detailed reference to the extract.</li> </ul>	Upper band – application

Section C

12 Discuss the way in which you made use of the performance space in your piece based on Family matters. What, if anything, would you change?

The focus here is on the choice of performance space, and the way this informs the staging of the drama. It is anticipated that most performances will have occurred in a traditional space, either proscenium-arch or in-the-round, although some may have taken the title literally and used (for example) a sitting room. Whatever the choice of performance space, concentrate on the way it was used and how this reflected the content of the piece.

Candidates might discuss the following points:

- the performance space they chose to use, its dimensions, layout, nature etc.;
- the way in which the piece moved from the ideas phase to the performance space;
- the reasons for making the choices they did;
- which aspects were successful and why this was so.

13 What opportunities were there for set design in your piece based on A long-distance call?

Allow for a number of creative solutions here, as well as the possibility that no set design was used for the actual performance and the answer is written as a reflective exercise as to what set design might be appropriate in the light of the performance. There should be a clear relationship between the set design and the action of the piece.

Marks should be awarded as follows:

23–25	Shows a sophisticated practical understanding of the nature of set design <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A comprehensive discussion of the opportunities for set design</li> <li>Excellent, practical suggestions: the proposed solution is completely relevant and there is sustained and detailed reference to the devised piece.</li> </ul>	Upper band – application

14 How successful were you in creating dramatic tension in your piece based on First prize!?

The devised piece should intentionally create dramatic tension through the use of contrast, pacing, shape and a variety other techniques as appropriate. These should form the basis of the detailed evaluation of how successfully this was achieved.

Marks should be awarded as follows:

23–25	Shows a sophisticated practical understanding of how to create dramatic tension <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A comprehensive discussion of how dramatic tension was achieved, showing sophisticated understanding of the techniques used.</li> <li>• Excellent, practical evaluation of the success of the piece in creating dramatic tension with sustained and detailed reference to the devised piece.</li> </ul>	Upper band – evaluation
20–22	Shows a perceptive practical understanding of how to create dramatic tension <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• An assured discussion of how dramatic tension was achieved, showing perceptive understanding of the techniques used.</li> <li>• Insightful practical evaluation of the success of the piece in creating dramatic tension with frequent and well-selected references to the devised piece.</li> </ul>
17–19	Shows detailed practical understanding of how to create dramatic tension <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• An effective discussion of how dramatic tension was achieved, showing detailed understanding of the techniques used.</li> <li>• Well-formulated practical evaluation of the success of the piece in creating dramatic tension with consistent and appropriate references to the devised piece, although there may be scope for further refinement.</li> </ul>
14–16	Shows secure understanding of what techniques are required to create dramatic tension <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A consistent response that considers the ways in which dramatic tension was achieved.</li> <li>• A good level of detail with some appropriate references to the devised piece.</li> </ul>	Middle band – process
11–13	Shows some understanding of the nature of dramatic tension <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Variable approaches to creating dramatic tension, some of which are workable.</li> <li>• Able to reflect on the more obvious examples of dramatic tension.</li> </ul>

Section A

- 1 Suggest one piece of advice you would give to the actor playing the part of MRS GUPTA in Scene 7. How would your advice help to make the performance effective?

Mrs Gupta appears only in Scene 7, and is a high-status character in the extract. There is detail about her appearance, especially her hairstyle, and she has a controlling role in this scene and, by implication, elsewhere in the play.

1 mark	An appropriate piece of advice to the actor playing MRS GUPTA.
and
1 mark	An appropriate reason as to why this advice would be likely to make the performance effective.
Total = 2 marks

- 2 List three props that would be needed for this extract, and say how each one could be used effectively in performance.

There are several props used in the extract. Possibilities include: cloth, sewing machines, money, crockery, bags of hair, and so on. Credit should be awarded for demonstrating the way in which each could be used.

Allow credit for any props that may be required in the extract. However, if a prop is not mentioned in the stage directions, only allow credit if its presence on stage and subsequent usage help the action along.

1 mark	An indication of how the chosen prop could be used effectively.

- 3 Look at the end of the extract (line 1128: ‘Who’s there?’ to line 1201: ‘Over my dead body will I ever give up this flat’) and say how you would want the actors to pace the drama to make it effective.

This is the end of the extract and a point where the drama moves into a higher gear as the rent collector turns up. There is a quicker pace, and an air of menace, confrontation and accusation, which quickly leads to violence and recrimination.

To access the higher mark bands, candidates should show awareness of the style of the dialogue here and the way in which the pacing would be likely to be quick and tense. Suggestions of slowing the pacing are unlikely to work, even if supported by discussions of psychological reflection, but be prepared to consider any workable approach if it is given with a rationale that could be successful.

1 mark	Able to give enough information to demonstrate understanding of the drama. The response is typified by general comment.
2 marks	The candidate offers 1 or 2 suggestions as to how the dialogue could be enhanced through pacing and makes specific reference to the text.
3 marks	A competent grasp of how the dialogue should be paced in the passage. The candidate explores the majority of the given extract, making numerous suggestions as to how pacing might be executed. References to the text fully support the given response.
4 marks	A clear discussion about contrasts of pacing and the way in which different lines could be approached. The candidate is able to show awareness of the style of dialogue and the effect that might be achieved.

- 4 What four pieces of advice would you give to the actor playing MONKEYMAN between line 494 ('Come here, Tikka, come here...') and line 512 ('...like your innocent sister's') in order to make the most impact on the audience?

This speech forms something of a contrast with the rest of the action of the play, especially the bulldozing of the slums that comes immediately before. Monkeyman is an itinerant street performer whose first appearance in Scene 3 is to entertain with the monkey and the dog. However, this changes quite dramatically now that the monkey is dead, having been bitten by the dog. The speech finishes with Monkeyman preparing to cut the dog's throat in sacrifice.

Allow credit for creative and detailed approaches to delivery of the speech.

5 Write briefly about how you would want the actor playing MANECK to perform the role.

Maneck is a seventeen-year-old student who lodges with Dina. He is shrewd and clever and understands the situation of the two tailors, Om and Ishvar, who Dina has hired. He acts as her moral conscience.

1 mark	Able to give enough information to demonstrate understanding of the character of MANECK.
2 marks	Offers a few ideas as to how the role should be brought alive in the extract.
3 marks	A competent grasp of how the role should be performed, with some examples.
4 marks	A clear discussion about how the role should be performed, with several examples.
5 marks	A proficient discussion of the role of MANECK, with detailed suggestions as to how it can be realised.

6 How successful was the style of dialogue you used in your piece based on Letter from abroad?

The focus of this question is about the style of dialogue that has been chosen for the piece and its effectiveness in conveying the subject matter and characterisation. Allow credit for any other features mentioned that are relevant to the style of dialogue.

No credit should be awarded for purely narrative responses.

1 mark	The candidate is able to give at least one example of the style of dialogue in performance or makes a general comment on its success.
2 marks	The candidate is able to give at least one example of the style of dialogue in performance and makes a general comment on its success.

7 In your piece based on Going green, how did you use physicality, and how effective was it?

The focus of the question is on the way that the physical aspects of performance were considered and used in the piece. Discussions that simply tell the story of the piece should not be credited.

1 mark	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how physicality was used in performance OR makes a general comment on its effectiveness.
2 marks	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how physicality was used in performance AND makes a general comment on its effectiveness.
3 marks	A good discussion of at least two physical aspects of performance and how they were effective in the piece.
4 marks	A detailed discussion of the use of physicality and a good insight into its effectiveness in the piece.

8 How did you use contrasts (such as movement/stillness, sound/silence, light/darkness etc.) to add interest to your piece based on Festival banquet?

The focus of the question is on the approach to the piece to build interest through the use of contrasts.

Some credit is allowed for simple description of the plot if there is reference to contrasting sections/approaches, but most credit should be awarded for discussing the way contrast was created in the drama.

No credit should be awarded for purely narrative responses.

1 mark	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how contrast was used in performance OR makes a general comment as to how it adds interest.
2 marks	The candidate is able to give at least one example of how contrast was used in performance AND makes a general comment as to how it adds interest.
3 marks	A good discussion of at least two contrasts in performance and how they added interest to the piece.
4 marks	A detailed discussion of contrast and a good insight into how it added interest to the piece.

Section B

- 9 You have been cast in the role of DINA, but you have had to pull out and the part is going to be played by your understudy. Write detailed notes to help this new actor understand your approach to the role.

Dina is the central character in the play. She is a Parsi widow, which sets her in religious distinction to the Hindus around her. She is proud and does not want to re-marry following the death of her husband. Neither does she wish to live on her brother's charity. She is enterprising and outgoing and determined, seeking to set up in business by selling/supplying clothing garments to Mrs Gupta. She is dependent on the work of the two tailors, Om and Ishvar, who she encounters at the start of the play. Their perception of her is someone who has power, but the drama demonstrates the relative nature of this power and she is dependent on them to produce the goods.

The nature of the notes will vary between candidates. The crucial thing is they demonstrate insight into the nature of the character and the approach that would be taken. Solutions must be offered with close reference to the extract, and a clear understanding of the purpose and functionality of the role in performance.

10 'A Fine Balance shows the effect of big politics on little people.' If you were directing this extract, how would you bring out this view of the play?

The play is set in 1975 at the time when the Indian Prime Minister, Mrs Indira Gandhi, has declared a State of Emergency. This forms the backdrop to the play in terms of providing both the general context of the action and the specific themes that emerge through the dialogue.

These include the financial situation in which the characters find themselves, the slum clearance projects, the need to flaunt authority in order to make a living wage, the disregard for people's feelings so long as they can make a crust. Dina is trying to survive in this context and the two tailors, Om and Ishvar, sum it up well and it may be that these characters form a central part of the answer. There is ample scope, however, for any of the characters to exemplify this directorial vision.

12 What opportunities were there for set design in your piece based on Letter from abroad?

Allow for a number of creative solutions here, as well as the possibility that no set design was used for the actual performance and the answer is therefore written as a reflective exercise as to what set design might be appropriate. There should be a clear relationship between the set design and the action of the piece.

Marks should be awarded as follows:

23–25	Shows a sophisticated practical understanding the nature of set design <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A comprehensive discussion of the opportunities for set design.</li> <li>• Excellent, practical suggestions: the proposed solution is completely relevant and there is sustained and detailed reference to the devised piece.</li> </ul>	Upper band – application

13 How successful were you in creating dramatic tension in your piece based on Going green?

The devised piece should intentionally create dramatic tension through the use of contrast, pacing, shape and a variety other techniques as appropriate. These should form the basis of the detailed evaluation of how successfully this was achieved.

Marks should be awarded as follows:

23–25	Shows a sophisticated practical understanding of how to create dramatic tension <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A comprehensive discussion of how dramatic tension was created, showing sophisticated understanding of the techniques used.</li> <li>• Excellent, practical evaluation of the success of the piece in creating dramatic tension with sustained and detailed reference to the devised piece.</li> </ul>	Upper band – evaluation

14 Discuss the way in which you made use of the performance space in your piece based on Festival banquet. What, if anything, would you change?

The focus here is on the choice of performance space, and the way this informs the staging of the drama. It is anticipated that most performances will have occurred in a traditional space, either proscenium-arch or in-the-round, although some may have taken the title literally and used (for example) a banqueting hall. Whatever the choice of performance space, concentrate on the way it was used and how this reflected the content of the piece.

Candidates might discuss the following points:

- the performance space they chose to use, its dimensions, layout, nature etc;
- the way in which the piece moved from the ideas phase to the performance space;
- the reasons for making the choices they did;
- which aspects were successful and why this was so.

Marks should be awarded as follows:

23–25	A sophisticated discussion and evaluation of the use of the performance space <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Comprehensive discussion of the use and effectiveness of the chosen performance space.</li> <li>• Excellent, detailed reference to the devised piece.</li> </ul>	Upper band – evaluation
