SECTION A: THEMES

Answer TWO questions, each from a different Theme. The Themes are numbered A1 to A18.

Do not answer two questions from the same Theme

A1: Revolution and Reaction: France, 1789–1830

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

1. Revolution

This question is about the Revolution from 1789 to 1799.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two events that led to the setting up of the Constituent Assembly in June 1789.

Voting in the Estates-General	The storming of the Bastille
The Declaration of the Rights of Man	The Tennis Court Oath

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect on the Revolution in France.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why Louis XVI became more unpopular in 1791–92.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the Terror.

The Jacobins	The Law of Suspects
Robespierre	The Committee of Public Safety

(8)

- (e) Study the Source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Napoleon Bonaparte was an artillery officer who dealt with a riot in Paris in 1795. He came to the notice of the Director, Barras, and was given command of armies in Italy and Egypt. In 1799 he returned to France and became Consul.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the rise to power of Napoleon to 1799.

(8)

(Total for Question 1: 25 marks)

A1: Revolution and Reaction in France, 1789–1830

If you have answered Question 1 do not answer Question 2.

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

2. Reaction

This question is about Louis XVIII and opposition to Charles X.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two conditions that Louis XVIII had to accept when he returned to France for a second time in 1815.

An indemnity towards the cost of the war	The loss of French colonies
The borders of France as they were in 1792	Occupation by Allied troops

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect on France.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why the ‘White Terror’ took place after 1815.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain why they opposed Charles X’s policies.

The Middle Classes	Liberals
The Press	Republicans

(8)

- (e) Study the Source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

By the summer of 1830, opposition to Charles’s actions was overwhelming. On 27 July there were demonstrations across Paris. An attempt by the army to crush them on 28 July failed and the army was forced to evacuate Paris on the following day. By then protests had turned into full-scale rebellion.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe how Louis Philippe became King of the French in 1830.

(8)

(Total for Question 2: 25 marks)

A2: Reconstruction and Nationalism in post-war Europe, 1815–1840: The Great Powers and the Rise of Nationalism in Belgium and Greece

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

3. The Great Powers

This question is about international co-operation.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two countries that joined the Holy Alliance.

Britain	Austria
Prussia	Turkey

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe that country's attitude to the Holy Alliance.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why the number of German states was reduced to fewer than forty at the Treaty of Vienna.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the attempts to control France after 1815.

Military occupation	The United Netherlands
Prussia	The Quadruple Alliance

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

The Great Powers had worked together to end the threat from Napoleon. In 1815 it seemed sensible to continue co-operation after the war. The Treaty of Vienna had made many changes to Europe. There were new rulers to support and no government wanted revolution or any more warfare.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the creation of the Congress System.

(8)

(Total for Question 3: 25 marks)

A2: Reconstruction and Nationalism in post-war Europe, 1815–1840: The Great Powers and the Rise of Nationalism in Belgium and Greece

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

4. Nationalism in Belgium and Greece

This question is about Belgian independence.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two reasons why Belgium became part of the United Netherlands in 1815.

Defence against France	Religion
Trade	Most of the people spoke Dutch

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect on relations between the Dutch and the Belgians.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why the way that the United Netherlands was governed angered Belgians.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the Belgian Revolt.

Industry	Customs duties
Taxation	Agriculture

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

The Treaty of Westminster (London) was finally signed in 1839. The United Netherlands was divided into two separate countries. Neither Belgium nor the Netherlands got exactly what they wanted. The Great Powers were more interested in making sure that the settlement was fair.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the Treaty of Westminster (London).

(8)

(Total for Question 4: 25 marks)

A3: The Making of the Nation States: Unification of Italy and Unification of Germany

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

5. Italy 1852–1870

This question is about Italian Unification.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two parts of Italy that were ruled by foreign powers in the early 1850s.

Lombardy	Naples
Piedmont	The Papal States

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe how that part of Italy was governed. (3)

- (c) Give two reasons why Cavour wanted to unify parts of Italy. (4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the unification of Italy.

Garibaldi	Napoleon III
The Crimean War	The four duchies

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Venetia did not become part of the Kingdom of Italy until 1866. During the Austro-Prussian War, the Italian army and navy tried to take possession of Venetia. But it was actually handed over after the war because of an agreement between Austria and France.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe how Venetia became part of the Kingdom of Italy in 1866.

(8)

(Total for Question 5: 25 marks)

A3: The Making of the Nation States: Unification of Italy and Unification of Germany

The first Dreikaiserbund 1873	The Treaty of Berlin 1878
The second Dreikaiserbund 1879	The Reinsurance Treaty 1887

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Bismarck had always tried to keep Russia allied to Germany, but in the end he failed. After he was forced to resign in 1890, there were no more attempts to form alliances with Russia. Instead Russia and France began to draw closer together.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the development of the Triple Entente.

(8)

(Total for Question 7: 25 marks)

A4: The Road to War in Europe, 1870–1914

If you have answered Question 7 do not answer Question 8.

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

8. International Rivalry

This question is about relations between Germany and Britain.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two parts of the Kaiser's Weltpolitik in the 1890s.

The Boer War	The Reinsurance Treaty
Berlin-Baghdad Railway	The German Colonies

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

The Schlieffen Plan was drawn up by the German Chief of Staff in 1905. It was an attempt to cope with a war on two fronts. But the Plan was changed on a number of occasions and by 1914 there were important differences. Even so, the basic plan remained the same.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the Schlieffen Plan.

(8)

(Total for Question 8: 25 marks)

A5: Reform and Reaction in Russia, 1855–1917

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

9. Reform

This question is about attempts to reform Russia.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two clauses that Russia had to accept in the Treaty of Paris in 1856.

Closure of the Straits to warships	Loss of Sevastopol
Protection of Turkish boundaries	Bulgarian Independence

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why Bloody Sunday (1905) had serious consequences in Russia.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the growth of discontent in St. Petersburg in the years to 1914.

Sergei Witte	Industry
Living conditions	Employment

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

In the years before the outbreak of war there were many protests against the government. But in August 1914, the Russian people rallied behind the Tsar. This support did not last long. Within a matter of months, as the Russian army suffered heavy defeats, Nicholas once again became very unpopular.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe how Nicholas II became very unpopular during the First World War.

(8)

(Total for Question 10: 25 marks)

The Assembly	The Council
The International Labour Organisation	The Secretariat

(8)

- (e) Study the Source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

The League of Nations was set up to try to preserve peace. There was a great deal of support for its aims and many countries joined. But there were also some important countries that did not. This made it appear that the League had been set up for the ‘victors’ of the war. The League was also most popular in Europe. In other parts of the world there was less support.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the weaknesses of the League of Nations in the 1920s.

(8)

(Total for Question 15: 25 marks)

A8: International Relations 1919–1939: Collective Security and Appeasement

Germany	Italy
Japan	The Soviet Union

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect of that country's leaving the League of Nations.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why the reoccupation of the Rhineland in 1936 was a serious blow to the League of Nations.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the Munich crisis in 1938.

Neville Chamberlain	Benito Mussolini
The Sudetenland	Konrad Henlein

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Hitler made no secret of his hatred for Communism. Stalin knew that Hitler planned to attack the Soviet Union and wanted to put off the threat for as long as possible. Stalin also wanted to expand into Eastern Europe to make the Soviet Union even stronger. Both sides could see advantages in an agreement.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the terms and aims of the Nazi-Soviet Pact.

TOTAL FOR SECTION A: 50 MARKS

SECTION B: SPECIAL TOPICS

Answer ONE question from the Special Topics, numbered B1 to B10.

B1: The Napoleonic Wars, 1803–1815.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

1. This question is about the 1812 campaign in Russia. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From Kutuzov, the Russian commander, writing to the Council of War before the Battle of Borodino, September 1812.

You are afraid of falling back through Moscow, but I consider it the only way of saving the army. Napoleon's advance is like a flood which we are, as yet, unable to stop. Moscow will be the sponge that will suck him dry and destroy the spirit of his army.

SOURCE B: From a colonel in the French army, writing about the effects of the Battle of Borodino, September 1812.

We have never suffered such losses. Never has the army's morale been so damaged. I no longer find the soldiers in good spirits. A gloomy silence has replaced the songs and amusing stories which previously had helped them forget the exhaustion of long marches. Even the officers appear anxious, and they continue serving only from a sense of duty and honour. This depression is natural in a defeated army. It is remarkable after a decisive action, after a victory which opened to us the gates of Moscow.

SOURCE C: A 19th-century French painting showing Napoleon's retreat from Moscow.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

The most important factor in the failure of Napoleon's Russian campaign was the weather. First it was too hot – making it a dry, dusty Moscow. Then when the retreat began it was too cold. This was a below zero cold that few had experienced before. The weak were the first to die – too exhausted to walk. But then the weather changed and the temperature rose, thawing the frozen roads and turning them into seas of mud. This slowed down the march even more.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the effects of the Moscow campaign on the spirit of the French army? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C portrays the French army retreating in good order. Why might a French artist want to portray the retreat in such a way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D believes that the failure of Napoleon's Russian campaign was due mainly to the weather. Do you agree that this was the main reason for the failure of Napoleon's Russian campaign? Explain your answer. (12)

B2: Bismarck's Wars, 1864–1871.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

2. This question is about the Hohenzollern candidacy and the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a letter from Bismarck to William I, March 1870.

In my view, the acceptance of the Spanish Crown by the Prince of Hohenzollern will bring advantages for both Prussian and wider German political interests. It is desirable for Germany to have, on the far side of France, a country on whose sympathy it can rely. The revival of friendly relations between Germany and Spain, with Spain's long coastline, would provide new openings for German trade.

SOURCE B: Bismarck's reply to the French declaration of war on Prussia, July 1870. This was sent to the heads of state of other European countries.

His Majesty, the King of Prussia, has full respect for the independence of the Spanish nation. He also respects the freedom of decision of the Prince of the Hohenzollern House. The King never thought of putting Prince Leopold on that throne. War, which Prussia could never have thought of, was imposed by France. The whole civilised world will see that France's motives for going to war are false.

SOURCE C: A French cartoon of 1870 which shows Bismarck trying to control Europe.

SOURCE D: From Bismarck's memoirs, 1898, in which he explains how he changed the 'Ems Telegram'.

In 1870, my opinion was that war with France could not be prevented unless Prussia was prepared to lose its honour and allow its national confidence to be weakened. For these reasons, I used the powers given to me by the King of Prussia to publish the contents of the telegram. In the presence of other people, I changed the telegram by striking out several words. I explained that the telegram would provoke France into declaring war on Prussia.

B3: The Balkans, 1876–1914.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

3. This question is about the Bosnia-Herzegovina Crisis of 1908–09. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: A report produced by General Conrad, the Chief of Staff of the Austrian army, in the summer of 1908.

There is a smell of conflict in the Balkans. This will lead to war between Serbia and the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. An uprising in Bosnia would be actively supported by Serbia. I therefore urge, as so often before, that it is essential to respond to Greater Serbian propaganda. We must restore order and the authority of Austria-Hungary in the occupied territories.

SOURCE B: From a letter written by the Archduke, Franz-Ferdinand, to one of his advisers on 20 October 1908. This was two weeks after the Austro-Hungarian occupation of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Please restrain General Conrad. It would be very tempting to cut the Serbs and Montenegrins to bits, but such an easy victory would be useless if it led to a major European war. If that happened, we would find ourselves fighting on two fronts and that would be the end of the story.

SOURCE C: From the Serbian declaration, sent to Austria, accepting the Austrian take-over of Bosnia-Herzegovina, in March 1909.

Serbia recognises that the situation in Bosnia-Herzegovina does not involve any injury to the rights of Serbia. In consequence, Serbia will conform to the decision taken by the Great Powers. Serbia has accepted the advice of the Great Powers and has agreed to stop the protests and opposition which it began in October last year. Serbia will bring back its army and disband the volunteer bodies.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

The crisis of 1908–09 had long-lasting effects. Russia suffered a humiliation far greater than that suffered by Germany over the Moroccan crisis in 1906. Russia could not afford another such humiliation if it was to retain any influence in the politics of the Balkans. Aware of its weaknesses in 1908–09, Russia now embarked upon a programme of military reform to ensure that it was ready for any future crisis.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about Austria's policy towards Serbia in 1908? Explain your answer.

(5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C suggests that Serbia was forced to back down over the Austrian annexation of Bosnia-Herzegovina. Why might the Austrian government want to give publicity to this Serbian statement?

B4: The First World War, 1914–1918.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

4. This question is about the Gallipoli campaign. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: An Australian folk song of the First World War.

We sailed off to Gallipoli.
How well I remember the day
When the blood stained the sand and the water
And how in that hell that they call Suvla Bay
We were butchered like lambs to the slaughter.
Jonny Turk was ready,
He primed himself well,
He showered us with bullets and he rained us with shells
And in five minutes flat he'd blown us to hell
Nearly blew us back to Australia.

SOURCE B: An eyewitness, John Masefield, describes the landings at Suvla Bay, August 1915.

From every Turkish rifle and machine-gun began a murderous fire upon the ships and boats. Almost all the shots hit their target. Many were killed in the water and many who were wounded were swept away and drowned. Others, trying to swim in the fierce current, were drowned by the weight of their equipment. But some reached the shore. These instantly rushed to try and cut the wire entanglements, and were killed. Only a handful reached cover.

SOURCE C: An official photograph showing the Allied landings at Anzac Cove, April 1915.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History book about Gallipoli.

There was a lack of up-to-date knowledge about Turkish troop positions. The instructions for the campaign were vague. Kitchener had only a hazy idea of what was needed. General Hamilton was the Allied Commander of Gallipoli. His only intelligence consisted of a 1912 manual on the Turkish army, some old and inaccurate maps, a tourist guide book and what little could be found out from the Turkish desk at the Foreign Office.

B5: Weimar Germany and its Challengers, 1919–1924.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

5. This question is about German reactions to the Treaty of Versailles. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a speech by Count Rantzau, the head of the German delegation at Versailles, June 1919.

The victors hate us and demand that we should be punished and made to pay. They demand that we should accept that we alone are guilty of having caused the War. Such a confession would be a lie. We deny that the people of Germany, who were convinced that they were fighting a war of defence, should be burdened with the sole guilt of that war.

SOURCE B: A view of the Treaty of Versailles written by a British journalist in 1929.

It was a peace of vengeance. The victors insisted that Germany had to accept the War Guilt Clause and pay all the costs of the war, for the damage and ruin she had caused. In other words, the victors were saying that every German peasant, every German worker on starvation wages, every university student, every ten or eleven year old, shares the responsibility for the actions of Germany's rulers and military leaders.

SOURCE C: A German cartoon about the Treaty of Versailles published in a German magazine in July 1919. It shows the French President Clemenceau, sucking the blood of the figure lying on the bed which represents Germany.

SOURCE D: The views of a German journalist, written soon after the signing of the Treaty of Versailles.

As the terms of the peace became known, it dawned on us what it meant to lose a war against two dozen nations. The terms were harsh and humiliating. Worst of all was the bill of reparations, to be paid by a Germany stripped bare of its economic power.

B6: Russia in Revolution, 1914–1924.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

6. This question is about the Revolution of February 1917. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a letter sent by the Tsarina Alexandra in Petrograd to Tsar Nicholas II, 26 February 1917, explaining the growing unrest in the city.

This is a hooligan movement. Young people run about and shout that there is no bread simply to create excitement, along with workers who prevent others from working. If the weather were very cold they would all probably stay at home. But all this will pass and become calm, if only the Duma will behave itself.

SOURCE B: A message from the President of the Duma to the Tsar, 27 February 1917.

The situation is serious. The government is paralysed; the transportation system has broken down; the supply systems for food and fuel are completely disorganised. General discontent is on the increase. There is wild shooting in the streets and some of the troops are firing at each other. It is necessary that someone enjoying the confidence of the country should be given the job of forming a new government straight away. There can be no delay.

SOURCE C: From a child's textbook published by the Soviet Government in 1976, explaining how the February Revolution came about.

In response to the call of the Bolsheviks, workers in the Petrograd factories went on strike. The Bolshevik Committee met late at night in a small house on the outskirts of the city. 'We can no longer wait and do nothing. The time has come to act openly. We shall begin tomorrow. We must seize the terms and disarm the police', the Committee decided.

SOURCE D: From a police report made at the end of 1916 on the situation in Petrograd.

The workers here are on the verge of despair. It is thought that the slightest explosion will result in uncontrollable riots. The cost of living has trebled; it is impossible to find food and more and more people are dying of starvation. The time spent queuing outside shops has become unbearable.

B7: The USA, 1917–1929.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

7. This question is about the Roaring Twenties. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: Herbert Hoover speaking during his campaign for the US Presidency in New York in October 1928.

Home ownership has increased. Today there are almost nine automobiles for every ten families. Seven years ago there were only four for every ten families. Our people have more to eat, better things to wear, and better homes. Wages have increased; the cost of living has decreased. The jobs of every man and woman are now made more secure. Over a short period of time the fear of poverty, the fear of unemployment and the fear of old age have all decreased.

SOURCE B: From the New York Herald Tribune in 1929.

Any US citizen willing to get up early enough can look out of his own windows and see a trail of thousands of workmen's automobiles driving down the boulevards to their factory or new building destination. Even ten years ago this great mass of labour had to live around the corner in a hovel next to the factory or hang on street cars (trams) at six o'clock in the morning in order to reach the building site.

SOURCE C: An advertisement for a car in 1927.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

By 1920 Americans owned a total of seven million cars. By 1930 the total had risen to nearly twenty-five million. Car ownership brought a major change in people's lives and the success of the car manufacturers ensured the prosperity of other industries too. For example, they were major buyers of US steel, and of glass, rubber and other commodities. The manufacture of cars also ensured that the fuel industries made a good profit.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

8. This question is about the treatment of the Jews after Kristallnacht in 1938. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From an article by Joseph Goebbels, November 1941.

The Jews are our destruction. They provoked and brought about this war. What they mean to achieve is the destruction of the German state and nation. This plan must be frustrated. Every soldier's death in this war is the responsibility of the Jews. They have it on their conscience; therefore they must pay for it. The Jews are to blame for this war. They more than deserve the treatment we give them.

SOURCE B: Part of a homework exercise set in a German school early in the Second World War.

1. The Jewish race is much inferior to the Negro race.
2. All Jews have crooked legs, fat bellies, curly hair, and look untrustworthy.
3. The Jews were responsible for the First World War.
4. They were to blame for the Treaty of Versailles.
5. They caused the inflation of 1923.
6. All Jews are Communists.
7. They are the rulers of Russia.

SOURCE C: A poster of 1939. It suggests that Jewish butchers used rats to make sausages.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

After Kristallnacht the position of German Jews got rapidly worse. Most serious of all, Jews were banned from running businesses and employing workers. Jews in Germany were forced to pay a fine of one billion marks. They also had to surrender their precious metals and jewellery. Jewish children were excluded from schools. Jews were banned from many public places.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about Nazi views of the Jews? Explain your answer. (5)

9. This question is about Blitzkrieg. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: The French General, Gamelin, speaking at the beginning of 1940.

We need tanks of course, but we cannot hope to achieve a real breakthrough just with tanks. They will not be decisive during this conflict. Nor will air power. It will not play the part you expect. Air attack will have short-term effects on the enemy. There will be no quick victories. This will be a long drawn-out conflict.

SOURCE B: From a description of the German advance into France in 1940 written by General Rommel.

Our tanks went at a steady speed. Every so often a quick glance at the map by a shaded light and a short wireless message to Divisional Headquarters to report the position and this was the success of the 25th Panzer Division. We were through the Maginot Line! It was hardly believable. Twenty-two years earlier, we stood here for four and a half years before this self-same enemy.

SOURCE C: A painting by a German artist in 1940 of a Stuka dive bomber attacking an industrial area in France.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

France contributed to its own defeat by not preparing very effectively. The French expected the war to be like the First World War and dug in to defensive positions. They constructed the Maginot Line, which did not prevent the German invasion. The French also believed that the Germans would not be able to get through the thickly wooded Ardennes Forest and had prepared few anti-tank defences there.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

- 10. This question is about China during the Hundred Flowers Campaign. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a Modern History textbook.

In June 1957, Mao Zedong suddenly cracked down against his critics. Many were arrested and sent off to camps in the countryside for ‘thought reform’ and confession of their crimes against the people. Others were sacked from their jobs. People were forbidden to speak freely and the press was censored. Then the ‘Hundred Flowers Campaign’ withered as rapidly as it had bloomed.

SOURCE B: Someone who was arrested during the Hundred Flowers Campaign describes the choice he was offered by government officials. He spent seven years in prison.

In front of you are two paths. You can confess everything and obey the government, which will lead you to a new life. Or you can resist the orders of the government and stubbornly remain the people’s enemy to the very end. This path will lead to the worst possible consequences. The sooner you confess your crimes, the sooner you will go home. The better your confession, the quicker you will go home.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

Historians still argue about why the Hundred Flowers Campaign took place. It was probably an easy way for Mao to find out who his opponents were, so that they could be arrested.
