The Austrian ultimatum to Serbia	The Schlieffen Plan
Plan 17	The Treaty of Westminster (London)

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

The Austrian ultimatum to Serbia was not sent until 23 July, by which time many people had assumed that the assassination had been forgotten. The Serbs rejected the ultimatum, and Austria now had an excuse for war. But Serbia had a powerful ally.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the events of July and August 1914 that led to the outbreak of war.

(8)

(Total for Question 8: 25 marks)

A5: Reform and Reaction in Russia, 1855–1917

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

9. Reform

This question is about attempts at reform and the growth of opposition to the government in Russia.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two reasons why Alexander II decided to emancipate the serfs.

He was afraid of revolution	Russia had lost the Crimean War
He wanted to reform the army	He was an autocrat

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect that it had on Alexander II.

(3)

Levels of literacy	Differences between rich and poor
Agriculture	Industrial production

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect that it had on Russia.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why the Social Democrats split into two groups in 1903.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the unpopularity of Nicholas II from 1905.

The Duma	Rasputin
The October Manifesto	The Bolsheviks

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Factories were built in areas near the centre of St Petersburg and thousands of people flocked into the city to find work. This was the first time that large numbers of workers had gathered together in Russia. Until then, most people worked in agriculture, spread out across the fields.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe how St. Petersburg (Petrograd) became important in the growing opposition to Nicholas II.

(8)

(Total for Question 10: 25 marks)

A6: The USSR 1917–1964: Bolshevism Triumphant

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why Stalin became the leader of the Soviet Union in 1928.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the Five Year Plans.

Magnitogorsk	Stakhanovites
Gosplan	Women

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Collectivisation was part of the First Five Year Plan. It was an attempt to get rid of the ownership of land by ordinary people and an attempt to solve the food problem in the Soviet Union. Food rationing had been introduced in 1928 because peasants had begun to hoard food. Peasants were forced to hand over their farms and work together on giant state-run collectives.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the effects of collectivisation on the Soviet Union.

(8)

(Total for Question 11: 25 marks)

A6: The USSR 1917–1964: Bolshevism Triumphant

If you have answered Question 11 do not answer Question 12.

The Hitler Youth	The National Labour Service
The Mutterkreuz (Mother's Cross)	The League of German Maidens

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Hitler blamed Jews for the defeat of Germany in the First World War. He wanted to purify German blood by eliminating all Jews and other minority groups. From 1933 Jews were subjected to increasing persecution in Nazi Germany. At first they were banned from some professions: doctors, dentists, the civil service, for example.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the persecution of Jews from 1933 to 1938.

(8)

(Total for Question 13: 25 marks)

A7: The Rise of Fascism in Europe: Germany and Italy, 1919–1939

If you have answered Question 13 do not answer Question 14.

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

14. Italy

This question is about Mussolini's rise to power.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two reasons why many Italians were dissatisfied with the treatment of Italy at the end of the First World War.

The Treaty of London, 1915	Weak coalition governments
Proportional Representation	460,000 Italians had died in the war

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect that it had on Italy.

King Victor Emmanuel	Facta
Mussolini	The army

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

Finally, in 1929, Mussolini signed the Lateran treaties with the Pope. These brought to an end the hostility that had existed between the Pope and the Italian State since the occupation of Rome in 1870. Mussolini agreed to give the Pope 1,750,000,000 lire.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the Lateran Treaties and their importance to Mussolini.

(8)

(Total for Question 14: 25 marks)

A8: International Relations 1919–1939: Collective Security and Appeasement

Total: 25 marks. You should spend about 45 minutes on this question.

15. Collective Security

This question is about the successes of the League of Nations.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two areas of successful League of Nations actions in the 1920s.

The Aaland Islands	Vilna
Corfu	Upper Silesia

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one action taken by the League of Nations in that area.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why the Soviet Union did not join the League of Nations in 1920.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the League of Nations.

Self-determination	Collective Security
Sanctions	The Covenant

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

During the 1920s the League was generally regarded as a success. The people of many countries took the League very seriously. The Locarno Pacts and the Kellogg-Briand Pact both appeared to back up what the League was trying to achieve. The later years of the 1920s seemed to suggest that the world could look forward to a lengthy period of peace.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the effects of the Locarno Pacts and the Kellogg-Briand Pact.

(8)

(Total for Question 15: 25 marks)

A8: International Relations 1919–1939: Collective Security and Appeasement

16. Appeasement

This question is about the failures of the League of Nations.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two reasons why the Japanese invasion of Manchuria was a serious blow to the League of Nations.

The Disarmament Conference collapsed	Germany resigned from the League
The League was shown to be powerless	Japan was a Permanent Council Member

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect that it had on the League of Nations.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why the League's response to the Italian invasion of Abyssinia (Ethiopia) was ineffective.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that they played in the Anschluss (1938).

Schusnigg	Seyss-Inquart
Hitler	The plebiscite

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

The Anschluss meant that Germany now surrounded Czechoslovakia on three sides. It was obvious that it would be Hitler's next target. On 12 September 1938, Hitler demanded self-government for the German speaking Czechs in the Sudetenland. Chamberlain, the British Prime Minister, flew to Germany to meet Hitler and try to tackle the crisis.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the crisis of September 1938.

SECTION B: SPECIAL TOPICS

Answer ONE question from the Special Topics, numbered B1 to B10.

B1: The Napoleonic Wars, 1803–1815.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

1. This question is about the Battle of Trafalgar. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: From one of the British captains at Trafalgar, 1805.

My men had such skill in throwing grappling irons that we could depend on being able to get to grips with an enemy before her side touched ours. My ship's company had great confidence in the tactics I intended to use. Several times before the battle they asked me to put our ship alongside the first enemy ship we saw and attack it.

SOURCE B: From Villeneuve, commander of the French fleet at Trafalgar, 1805, soon after the battle.

The British sailors worked as if they had not been fighting a dreadful battle. We were all amazement, wondering what the British seamen were made of. They were so disciplined and determined. All our seamen were either drunk or disabled, and we, the officers, could not get any work out of them.

SOURCE C: A painting by a British artist showing the death of Nelson at Trafalgar. It was painted soon after the event.

© National Maritime Museum, London, Greenwich Hospital Collection

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

Villeneuve had 18 French and 15 Spanish ships. Nelson, with only 27 vessels, was outnumbered but he was confident of the superior seamanship of his men. He steered his ships in two columns straight into the enemy lines. He used superior fire power to smash the fleet.

Questions

B2: Bismarck's Wars, 1864–1871.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

2. This question is about Bismarck's policies in the early 1860s. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a speech by Bismarck in September 1862.

Prussia must prepare herself for a favourable moment, which has already been missed several times. The great decisions of the time will be made not by speeches and majority votes but by blood and iron.

SOURCE B: From a book written by a liberal politician from Cologne, in 1864.

If German unity comes about because of force, which Count Bismarck and the Prussians want, then it will not last. It must be founded on something beyond war. Unity must be based on a respect for law and popular self-government if it is to last. The unity of Germany can be brought about only by and with the German people.

SOURCE C: From a letter sent by Bismarck to a Prussian diplomat shortly before the outbreak of war with Denmark in 1864.

I am certain that this whole Danish business over Schleswig-Holstein can only be settled in a way that benefits Prussia by going to war. We need to find a reason for waging such a war. Austria and Prussia signed the London agreement over Schleswig-Holstein. Neither of us can free ourselves from the consequences of that agreement except by war.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

Historians have argued for over a century about Bismarck's motives and his aims in dealing with the Schleswig-Holstein affair. Bismarck himself later claimed that he used the crisis to manoeuvre Austria into open confrontation with Prussia as a way of settling the problem of leadership in Germany.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about how a united Germany should come about? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C suggests that, in 1864, Bismarck wanted to work with Austria to achieve his aims by force. Why might Bismarck want to portray his policy in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that Bismarck wanted war with Denmark in order to provoke a later conflict with Austria. Do you agree that this was the main reason for the war over Schleswig-Holstein in 1864? Explain your answer. (12)

B3: The Balkans, 1876–1914.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

3. This question is about the Balkan Wars of 1912–13. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a Modern History textbook.

The Balkan crises brought war one step nearer. Serbia became almost twice as large and even more determined to unite with the Serbs in the Austrian Empire, especially after the loss of Bosnia to Austria. Austria, in turn, was more determined than ever to crush the Serbs before they became too powerful.

SOURCE B: Maps showing the Balkans before and after the Balkan Wars, 1912–13.

Before the Balkan Wars

After the Balkan Wars

SOURCE C: A cartoon, of October 1912. The figures represent the five Great Powers, (from left to right) Russia, Britain, Germany, France and Austria-Hungary.

SOURCE D: From a report of a secret meeting between Kaiser Wilhelm II and his top commanders, December 1913.

The German Kaiser promised support for Austria. He predicted that if the Austrians did not face up to the Serbian menace they would have considerable trouble from the Slav peoples within the Austro-Hungarian Empire, especially if those peoples were supported by Russia.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the effects of the Balkan Wars on Serbia? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows the situation in the Balkans reaching boiling point. Why might a cartoonist portray the situation in the Balkans in this way in 1912? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that the main effect of the Balkan Wars was closer relations between Germany and Austria. Do you agree that this was the main effect of the Balkan Wars? Explain your answer. (12)

B4: The First World War, 1914–1918.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

4. This question is about the Schlieffen Plan. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: From a Modern History textbook.

The Germans did not particularly fear the British. The Kaiser merely ordered his men to ‘destroy the treacherous English and walk all over their contemptible little army’. The British Expeditionary Force, however, was excellently trained and got much the better of the Germans in their first battle, at Mons on 23 August 1914. This delayed the German advance.

SOURCE B: From the memoirs of a German soldier writing about the Battle of Mons.

From now on matters went from bad to worse. Wherever I looked, right or left, there were German dead or wounded. We had to go back. A bad defeat. In our first battle we had been badly beaten, and by the British – by the British we had so laughed at a few hours earlier.

SOURCE C: A British cartoon from the beginning of August, 1914, just before the outbreak of war. The small figure represents Belgium and the large figure holding the club, Germany.

BRAVO, BELGIUM!

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

The combined British and French forces were able to stop the German advance along the line of the River Marne in September 1914. They then counter-attacked and pushed the Germans back to the River Aisne. The Schlieffen Plan had failed. Neither side could make any progress and both sides began digging trenches to protect themselves from sniper and shell fire.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the quality of the British Expeditionary Force? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows Belgium trying to stop Germany entering its territory. Why might a British cartoonist portray the Belgians and Germans in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that the main reason for the failure of the Schlieffen Plan was the Battle of the Marne. Do you agree that this was the main reason for its failure? Explain your answer. (12)

B5: Weimar Germany and its Challengers, 1919–1924.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

5. This question is about opposition to the Weimar government. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: From a speech by Rosa Luxemburg, one of the leaders of the Spartacists, December 1918.

We want democracy. The rule of the working class means real democracy. It means the use of power to get rid of middle- and upper-class people. It means the smashing of the ruling classes with all the brutality that the working class can develop.

SOURCE B: From an article written in a newspaper by a member of the Weimar government, January 1919.

The terrible actions of Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg spoil the revolution of November 1918 and threaten all of its achievements. The masses must not sit quiet for a minute longer and allow these brutal beasts to force the people into civil war.

SOURCE C: A poster produced by the Spartacists, December 1918, called ‘What do the Spartacists want?’ The three heads represent militarism, capitalism and the landowners.

SOURCE D: From a Modern World History textbook.

The greatest threat to the Weimar Republic came from the Kapp Putsch of March 1920. The army refused to stop Dr Kapp and his 5,000 followers, who seized power in Berlin and set up a new government. The Putsch was eventually defeated by a general strike organised by the workers of Berlin.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the aims of the Spartacists? (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows the Spartacists trying to destroy various powerful groups in Germany. Why might the Spartacists portray themselves in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that the Kapp Putsch was the greatest threat to the Weimar Republic in the years 1919–1924. Do you agree that this was the greatest threat in this period? Explain your answer. (12)

B6: Russia in Revolution, 1914–24.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

6. This question is about the Civil War of 1918–21 in Russia. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: From a History of the USSR written by a Soviet historian in 1981.

The Communist Party sent its members to join the Red Army. By the end of 1918 the Red Army numbered 1,700,000. It was a strong force. Even so, on every battlefield Red Army units had to fight against an enemy which was better equipped, better trained and which outnumbered them.

SOURCE B: From a Modern History of The Russian Civil War.

From the winter of 1918–1919 the White commanders, Kolchak and Denikin, and their troops faced a struggle against great odds. The Bolsheviks had had a year to strengthen their position. They now controlled most of the resources of old Russia. They had more popular support, and their forces outnumbered those of the Whites by ten to one.

SOURCE C: A Bolshevik poster of 1919. The names written on the dogs are Denikin, Kolchak and Yudenich. The three men in the background represent the USA, France and Britain.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook about Russia.

The task of raising an army to fight against the Whites was given to Trotsky. In March 1918 Trotsky became Chairman of the Supreme War Council and it was his brilliance in organisation and fighting that was mainly responsible for the Reds' victory in the Civil War.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the strength of the two sides during the Civil War? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows the White commanders being controlled by foreign powers. Why might the Bolsheviks want to portray the Whites in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that Trotsky's leadership was the main reason for the Bolshevik victory in the Civil War. Do you agree that this was the main reason for the Bolshevik victory? Explain your answer. (12)

B7: The USA, 1917–1929.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

7. This question is about new forms of entertainment in the USA in the 1920s. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: Extract from a sermon by a US clergyman in 1925.

Modern dancing makes divorce more likely. It is heathen, animalistic and damnable. It degrades women and men. Now is the time to say plainly that it is one of the most evil of modern customs.

SOURCE B: A photograph showing the new dance, the Charleston, in 1925.

SOURCE C: An advertisement for the cinema in 1929.

All the adventure, all the romance, all the excitement you lack in your daily life is in the Pictures. They take you completely out of yourself into a wonderful world. Out of the cage of everyday existence, if only for an afternoon or evening – escape!

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

Up until 1927 all movies were silent. In 1927 the first ‘talkie’ was made. During the 1920s, movies became a multi-billion dollar business and it was estimated that, by 1930, a hundred million cinema tickets were being sold each week. The cinema had become the most important form of entertainment in the USA.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the impact of new dances in the 1920s? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C describes the cinema as a form of escape from everyday life. Why might the advertisers portray the cinema in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that the cinema was the most important form of entertainment by 1930. Do you agree that this was then the most important form of entertainment? Explain your answer. (12)

B8: The Holocaust, 1939–1945.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

8. This question is about ghettos, 1939–42. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: From a report by an SS officer in charge of the Warsaw Ghetto in Poland, 1941.

There are about 27,000 apartments with an average of two and a half rooms. Occupancy therefore works out at fifteen persons per apartment and six to seven persons per room.

SOURCE B: A survivor remembers his first days in the Vilna ghetto in Poland.

As we entered, we were directed to a house that would have been occupied by a family of four to six people under normal circumstances. Now 25 or 30 of us were crammed in. Everybody was searching for a place to sleep.

SOURCE C: A photograph taken by a Jewish inmate of the Warsaw Ghetto showing hungry children.

SOURCE D: From a modern account of life in a Ghetto.

The suffering produced by systematic Nazi brutality was increased by the harsh climate in winter. The Jewish way of life was also attacked. Going to the synagogue, praying and studying about the Jewish religion were all absolutely forbidden in the Ghetto. Above all the Germans wanted to break the Jewish spirit and morale. They had some success. Many people lost their will to live.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the conditions in Polish ghettos? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows starving children. Why might a Jewish photographer want to take this photograph? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that the main reason why the Nazis set up the ghettos was to break the spirit and morale of the Jewish people. Was this the main reason for the setting up of the ghettos? Explain your answer. (12)

B9: The Second World War, 1939–1945.

You should spend about one hour on this question.

9. This question is about the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: From a Modern History textbook.

Japan wanted to create an empire in the Far East. The main obstacle to Japanese expansion was the USA. The attack on Pearl Harbor was an attempt to knock out US naval power in the Pacific before a war had even started. The military government of Japan believed that the country would have to fight sooner or later and so decided to strike while the USA was unprepared.

SOURCE B: From a speech made by a member of the Japanese government, 5 November 1941.

In the first few months of a war against the US it is very likely that we would achieve total victory. I am convinced that we should take advantage of this opportunity. We should use the high morale of the Japanese people and their determination to overcome the crisis facing our country. It would be better to attack now than to sit and wait while the enemy puts more and more pressure on us.

SOURCE C: A US government poster issued soon after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

Conflict with the USA seemed inevitable – especially after the United States imposed a ban on the sale of oil to Japan in July 1941. The ban was introduced in retaliation to Japanese aggression in Indo-China. It was a severe blow to the Japanese economy since they depended on the USA for two-thirds of their oil supplies.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the reasons for the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C is a US government poster showing a US citizen angry about the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. Why might the US government want to portray the event in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that the US oil ban was the main reason for the outbreak of war between the USA and Japan. Do you agree that this was the main reason for the outbreak of war between the two countries? Explain your answer. (12)

You should spend about one hour on this question.

10. This question is about land reform policies in Communist China in the early 1950s. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions which follow.

SOURCE A: A peasant explaining the effects of land reform, 1952.

Life is much better than before. Now I have land and a house and work to do. There is grain in my house. I work very hard but I enjoy the results of my work because I carry all the results of my work back home and use it for food in my home. In the past I worked very hard but for others, not for me. I had to carry all the crops to someone else's granary.

SOURCE B: From a Modern textbook on the history of China.

The Agrarian Reform Law of 1950 did not live up to every peasant's expectations. After receiving their land, peasants were often bitterly disappointed when they realised they had no equipment to cultivate it, or money to buy the equipment.

SOURCE C: A Communist poster of 1950 showing peasants taking gifts to the Communist People's Liberation Army for New Year, 1950.

SOURCE D: From a Modern History textbook.

During the civil war most landlords had supported the Nationalists, while most peasants had supported the Communists. One of Mao's first tasks in land reform was to take away the power that the landlords had had over the peasants for hundreds of years. He persuaded the peasants to start a campaign against the landlords. By 1952, between two and three million landlords had been killed and their land divided up among the peasants.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about peasant reactions to land reform? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C is a poster showing peasants and the Communist People's Liberation Army getting on well together. Why might the Communist government want to show relations in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) The writer of Source D suggests that the main reason the Communist government began its policy of land reform in the early 1950s was to destroy the power of the landowners. Do you agree that this was the main reason why the Communist government began its policy of land reform? Explain your answer. (12)
