(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

In January 1917, strikes became an everyday occurrence in Petrograd and this resulted in huge numbers of people protesting on the streets. The situation worsened when some of the soldiers stationed in Petrograd mutinied and began to take sides with the demonstrators. For Tsar Nicholas II, this was disastrous – a loyal army had saved him in 1905. On 24 February there were approximately 200,000 workers on strike and three days later Nicholas ordered the duma to dissolve.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the events of January and February 1917 which led to revolution in Russia.

35. Western Europe, 1945–1990s

This question is about European co-operation in the years 1948–92.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two Western European organisations that were set up in the 1940s.

The Organisation for European Economic Co-operation	Warsaw Pact
Benelux	Comecon

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect that it had on Europe. (3)
- (c) Give two reasons why Britain applied to join the Common Market in the early 1960s. (4)
- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part that each played in the European Economic Community (EEC).

The European Parliament	The Common Agricultural Policy
The Council of Ministers	The Commission

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

One of the main forerunners of the Common Market was the European Coal and Steel Community which was set up in 1951. Six years later the members of this organisation formed the Common Market. Expansion continued in the early 1970s when the United Kingdom joined and by the end of the 1980s membership totalled 15. The European Union was established following the Treaty of Maastricht in 1992.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe the development of the Common Market in the years to 1992.

36. Eastern Europe, 1945–1990s

This question is about life in Eastern Europe from the 1940s to the 1980s.

- (a) Look at the boxes below. Write down the two ways by which the Soviet Union tried to prevent western influences reaching Eastern Europe.

Sport	Subsidies
Censorship	Travel permits

(2)

- (b) Choose one of your answers to question (a) and describe one effect that it had on life in Eastern Europe.

(3)

- (c) Give two reasons why religious groups were controlled in Eastern Europe.

(4)

- (d) Choose any two of the following and explain the part they played in state control in Eastern Europe.

Education	Propaganda
The Media	Literature

(8)

- (e) Study the source and then answer the question that follows.

Source: from a modern textbook

One of the first challenges to Soviet control in Eastern Europe came in Poland with the formation of Solidarity, an independent trade union, in 1980. The Polish government had to establish Martial Law to put down the strikes but the demonstrations had influenced people in other Soviet controlled countries. After 1985, Gorbachev's more relaxed approach allowed the Soviet satellite states to have greater freedom.

Use the source, and your own knowledge, to describe how opposition to Soviet control of Eastern Europe grew in the 1980s.

SECTION B: SPECIAL TOPICS

Answer ONE question from the Special Topics, numbered B1 to B10.

B1: The Napoleonic Wars, 1803–1815

You should spend about one hour on this question.

1. This question is about the Peninsular War. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a history of the Napoleonic Wars, published in 2003.

The Spanish guerrillas ambushed French convoys, attacked French camps, and pounced upon, dodged, and fought French columns. The passage of the French troops across Spain and Portugal was seriously disrupted. The French had to be constantly armed against their Spanish enemies, who were everywhere but could not be seen.

SOURCE B: A sketch by a British artist showing an attack by Spanish guerrilla forces on a French convoy.

SOURCE C: A painting by a British artist, 1814, showing the British victory over the French at the Battle of Vitoria, 21 June 1813.

SOURCE D: From a history textbook on warfare, published in 2000.

The Spanish guerrilla campaign seriously disrupted the French war effort. Nevertheless, the main reason for the British success in the Peninsular Campaign was the effective leadership of Arthur Wellesley. His victories were decisive in the outcome of the Peninsular War and earned him the title of the Duke of Wellington. He sometimes had to retreat, but he never lost a battle in the Peninsular War.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the actions of the Spanish guerrillas? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C suggests a heroic British victory. Why might a British artist have shown the event in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) Source D suggests that the main reason for the defeat of the French in the Peninsular War was the leadership of Wellesley. Do you agree that this was the main reason for the French defeat? Explain your answer, using the sources and your own knowledge. (12)

B2: Bismarck's Wars, 1864–1871

You should spend about one hour on this question.

2. This question is about the isolation and defeat of Austria. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a history book about German Unification, published in 1972.

Bismarck made an alliance with Italy. The Italians were determined to drive the Austrians out of Venetia. Bismarck then successfully provoked Austria into declaring war on Prussia. Prussian troops marched into Holstein and Bismarck put forward plans for a united Germany from which Austria would be excluded. Austria called upon other German states to join her against Prussia.

SOURCE B: An account by a Prussian Liberal politician, written in May 1866.

Never has a war been provoked so shamelessly as the one Bismarck is currently trying to start against Austria with the alliance with Italy and actions in Holstein. God knows I am no friend of Austria and I am also devoted to the idea of Prussian influence in Northern Germany. But I would rather cut off my hand than use it in such a disgusting operation as Prussia is now launching against Austria.

SOURCE C: A painting by a Prussian artist in 1867, showing Crown Prince William of Prussia leading the Prussian army to victory against Austria at the battle of Sadowa-Königgrätz, 3 July 1866.

SOURCE D: From a history book about German Unification, published in 1980.

Austria was successfully isolated by the diplomacy of Bismarck. However, the main reason for the defeat of Austria was the strength of the Prussian armed forces, brilliantly led by Count Helmuth von Moltke. The Prussian army was equipped with a new machine gun which had a rate of fire four times greater than the weapons used by the Austrians.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the outbreak of the Austro-Prussian War? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C suggests an heroic victory by the Prussian army at the Battle of Sadowa-Königgrätz. Why might the artist have portrayed the battle in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) Source D suggests that the main reason for the defeat of Austria was the strength of the Prussian armed forces. Do you agree that this was the main reason for the defeat of Austria? Explain your answer, using the sources and your own knowledge. (12)

B3: The Balkans, 1876–1914

You should spend about one hour on this question.

3. This question is about the Bosnia-Herzegovina Crisis of 1908–09. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: A report produced by General Conrad, the Chief of Staff of the Austro-Hungarian army, in the summer of 1908.

There is a real possibility of conflict in the Balkans. This will lead to war between Serbia and the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. An uprising in Bosnia would be actively supported by Serbia. I therefore urge, as so often before, that it is essential we respond to Greater Serbian propaganda, which is encouraging such an uprising. We must restore the authority of Austria-Hungary.

SOURCE B: From a letter written by the Archduke Franz Ferdinand to one of his advisers on 20 October 1908. This was two weeks after the Austro-Hungarian occupation of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Please restrain General Conrad. It would be very tempting to cut the Serbs to bits, but such an easy victory would be useless if it led to a major European war. If that happened, we would find ourselves fighting on two fronts and that would be the end of the story.

SOURCE C: From a proclamation issued in October 1908 by the Emperor Franz Joseph to the people of Bosnia-Herzegovina. This followed the Austro-Hungarian annexation of the two provinces.

Remembering the ties that existed in the past between our glorious ancestors, we now extend our sovereignty over Bosnia and Herzegovina. The people of these provinces will enjoy equal rights for all under the law and equal protection for all religious and racial groups. The freedom of the individual and the welfare of the whole community will be the aim of our government in the two lands.

SOURCE D: From a history of Europe, published in 1981.

The annexation of Bosnia-Herzegovina was carried out to increase the prestige of the Austro-Hungarian Empire and to exploit the weaknesses in the Turkish Empire. Moreover, it was a warning to Austria-Hungary's great rival Russia, the champion of Slav nationalism. However, the most important reason for the annexation was to frustrate Serbia's plans for the creation of a Greater Serbia.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about Austria-Hungary's attitude towards Serbia in 1908? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C was issued soon after the annexation of Bosnia-Herzegovina. Why might the Emperor Franz Joseph have issued this proclamation? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) Source D suggests that the main reason for the Austro-Hungarian annexation of Bosnia-Herzegovina was to frustrate Serbian plans. Do you agree that this was the main reason for the annexation? Explain your answer, using the sources and your own knowledge. (12)

B4: The First World War, 1914–1918

You should spend about one hour on this question.

4. This question is about the War at Sea. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From the German government's official statement, 28 May 1915, about the sinking of the Lusitania on 7 May.

The German Government must state that certain important facts directly connected with the sinking of the Lusitania may have escaped the attention of the Government of the United States. It is known to the German Government that for some time most English merchant ships have been provided with guns, ammunition and other weapons. When the Lusitania left New York, it undoubtedly had guns on board which were hidden under its decks.

SOURCE B: From the official note sent to Germany by the government of the USA on 9 June 1915.

Whatever the facts regarding the sinking of the Lusitania, the main fact is that a great liner, carrying more than a thousand people who played no part in the war, was torpedoed and sunk. There was not even a challenge or warning. Men, women and children were sent to their death in circumstances not seen before in modern warfare.

SOURCE C: From a British newspaper, 10 May 1915, showing some of those who died on the Lusitania.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN BABIES MURDERED BY THE KAISER

SOURCE D: From a modern history textbook, published in 2001.

British control of the sea was challenged by German raids on the east coast in 1914 and the Battle of Jutland, May 1916. However, the most serious threat came from unrestricted U-boat warfare. By April 1917, Britain had less than six weeks supply of food and was close to being starved out of the war.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the sinking of the Lusitania? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows some of the American and British passengers who died on the Lusitania. Why might a British newspaper have wanted to publicise this? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) Source D suggests that the U-boats posed the greatest threat to the Allies during the First World War. Do you agree that this was the greatest threat to the Allies during the First World War? Explain your answer, using the sources and your own knowledge. (12)

B5: Weimar Germany and its Challengers, 1919–1924

You should spend about one hour on this question.

5. This question is about German reactions to the Treaty of Versailles and opposition to the Weimar Republic. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From the diary of a British official who worked for Lloyd George during the Versailles peace negotiations.

The Treaty of Versailles is actually a severe punishment for Germany. Everyone here is unhappy and disappointed with the terms of the treaty. It is not a just or wise peace. Historians, with every justification, will come to the conclusion that we, the Allies, are stupid men. If I were the Germans, I wouldn't sign for a moment.

SOURCE B: From a German newspaper published on the day of the signing of the Treaty of Versailles, 28 June 1919.

Today in the Hall of Mirrors of Versailles the disgraceful Treaty of Versailles is being signed. Do not forget it. The German people will press forward to reconquer the place among nations to which Germany is entitled. There will come revenge for the shame of 1919.

SOURCE C: A German cartoon of June 1919. The German mother is saying to her starving child 'When we have paid one hundred billion marks, I can give you something to eat'.

SOURCE D: From a modern history textbook, published in 1997.

In January 1919, the Spartacists, led by Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht, tried unsuccessfully to seize power. The Weimar Republic was also threatened by the Kapp Putsch of 1920 and the Munich Putsch of November 1923. However, the main reason for opposition to the Weimar Republic was the signing of the Treaty of Versailles.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source A support the evidence of Source B about reactions to the signing of the Treaty of Versailles? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C suggests that German people will suffer as a result of reparations. Why might this cartoon have been widely publicised in Germany in 1919? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) Source D suggests that the main reason for opposition to the Weimar Republic in the years 1919–23 was the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. Do you agree that this was the main reason for opposition? Explain your answer, using the sources and your own knowledge. (12)

B6: Russia in Revolution, 1914–1924

You should spend about one hour on this question.

6. This question is about the February Revolution. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From the memoirs of a member of the Duma describing the events in Petrograd of 26 February 1917.

Unexpectedly for all, there erupted a soldier mutiny. The soldiers refused to fire on the crowd. All at once they laid down their arms and all one could hear from them was ‘Land and Freedom’, ‘Down with the Romanovs’, ‘Down with the Officers’.

SOURCE B: A photograph of soldiers and workers in the streets of Petrograd, 26 February 1917. The slogan on the banner says ‘Down with the Monarchy’.

SOURCE C: A photograph showing women marching for better conditions in Petrograd, 23 February 1917.

SOURCE D: From a history of Russia, published in 1997.

The Tsar was stranded hundreds of miles away at the war front when the situation in Petrograd began to get out of hand and the army joined the protestors. However, the main reason for revolution was the food shortages in Petrograd. Hungry women queued in the cold for hours to buy basic necessities like bread, which was in short supply in shops, and they took to the streets to protest.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the actions of some Russian soldiers in Petrograd on 26 February 1917? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows women marching in protest against the harsh conditions in Petrograd. Why might this photograph have been widely publicised in February 1917? (8)

B7: The USA, 1917–1929

You should spend about one hour on this question.

7. This question is about new forms of entertainment in the USA in the 1920s. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From an article about Jazz music in a US magazine, published in 1921.

Jazz was originally played to accompany the voodoo dancer, stimulating people to the most evil of actions. It has also been used by others to encourage brutality. Scientists have also shown that Jazz has a demoralising effect on the human brain. It produces the most extreme reactions, is harmful and dangerous and its influence is totally bad.

SOURCE B: From an article by a popular Jazz musician, written in 1923.

Jazz is entering more and more into the daily lives of people because of the influence of black musicians. Jazz musicians are not held back by tradition. They have new ideas and constantly experiment. They are causing new blood to flow into the veins of music. Jazz has come to stay because it is an expression of the times – breathless, exciting and creative.

SOURCE C: An advertisement for The Jazz Singer, the first ‘talkie’ movie, in 1927.

SOURCE D: From a modern history of the USA, published in 1998.

The prosperity of the 1920s brought a change of lifestyle for many Americans. They had more leisure time and more money to spend. The entertainment industry grew, with dancehalls and clubs opening. The 1920s was also a golden era for spectator sports such as baseball, boxing and American football. By 1930, 40 per cent of all homes in the USA had a radio set. However, the most popular form of entertainment in the 1920s was the cinema.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the impact of Jazz music in the USA in the 1920s? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C describes The Jazz Singer as a ‘supreme triumph’. Why might the film have been advertised in this way? (8)

Study Sources A, B, C and D and use your own knowledge.

- (c) Source D suggests that the most popular form of entertainment in the 1920s was the cinema. Do you agree that this was the most popular form of entertainment? Explain your answer, using the sources and your own knowledge. (12)

B8: The Holocaust, 1939–1945

You should spend about one hour on this question.

8. This question is about the camps at Auschwitz. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From a survivor of Auschwitz.

In the morning we were kicked awake and kicked into line. We walked to the factory. At 6 a.m. I stood in front of a machine. The workforce was huge. Dozens of machines stood in ruler-straight lines, each with an operator, each working. The foreman marched up and down checking that we were working hard enough. A Polish prisoner showed me what to do. So I became a machine operator.

SOURCE B: A photograph taken in 1943 of one of the workshops at Auschwitz. The man in the centre in the dark suit is the factory foreman.

SOURCE C: A photograph of one of the workshops at Auschwitz, taken in 1942 by a member of the SS.

SOURCE D: From a history textbook, published in 1997.

At Auschwitz extermination camp, prisoners were divided into two groups. Those who were to die in the gas chambers, and those who were to carry out essential war work. The fortunate prisoners were given jobs in the kitchen. However, most became slave labourers, building a massive factory for making synthetic oil and rubber. They worked long hours and were always treated with great brutality by the camp guards.

Questions

Study Sources A and B.

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the conditions at Auschwitz? Explain your answer. (5)

Study Source C and use your own knowledge.

- (b) Source C shows prisoners working. Why might the SS have wanted to show the conditions in this way? (8)

B9: The Second World War, 1939–1945

You should spend about one hour on this question.

9. This question is about the German invasion of the Soviet Union in 1941 and the failure of Operation Barbarossa. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From the diary of General Guderian, one of the German commanders, December 1941.

At the beginning we thought there would be 200 Soviet divisions. We have already counted 360. The Soviet Union seems to have a never-ending supply of men. As we advance all we find is burned fields and buildings. Everything is destroyed. We have seen bad roads but nothing as bad as this. All motor transport is hopelessly bogged down. The icy cold, our poor clothing, the heavy losses of men and guns are making fighting a torture.

SOURCE B: From a report written by the German Field Marshal Keitel, December 1941.

The severe weather conditions have bogged down our advance. Our losses since the invasion of the Soviet Union have normally been 150,000 a month. Of these, only 90,000 or so can be replaced each month. So the German army is falling in numbers by about 60,000 a month. However, this is not taking into account the losses in big battles.

SOURCE C: A Soviet poster, October 1941. The text says ‘Napoleon suffered defeat and so will the conceited Hitler’. The French invasion of Russia in 1812, led by Napoleon, failed due to Russian resistance and the severe winter.

SOURCE D: From a history textbook, published in 2007.

Hitler made several mistakes. The attack on the Soviet Union was launched too late in the year and he should have concentrated his forces on one breakthrough rather than the three-pronged attack. However, the main reason for the failure of Operation Barbarossa was the leadership of Stalin. He ensured that the Red Army retreated from the advancing German armies and, as they retreated, carried out a 'scorched earth' policy.

Questions

- (a) Does Source B support the evidence of Source A about the conditions facing the German invaders in the Soviet Union in 1941? Explain your answer. (5)

You should spend about one hour on this question.

10. This question is about the Great Leap Forward. Study Sources A, B, C and D and then answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE A: From an account of the Great Leap Forward, published in the Soviet Union in 1969.

Chinese leaders put forward a new programme of economic development which would increase industrial production 650 percent in five years. Farming was expected to cover a twelve-year programme in three years. What self-delusion! The idea of rapid industrialisation by a ‘great leap’ was a total failure. Hundreds of industrial schemes failed or were abandoned after a year due to lack of resources.

SOURCE B: A foreign journalist describes the building of a dam in the valley of the Ming Tombs, 1959.

There were not enough machines. There was no cement or other building materials. The people of Peking (Beijing) were summoned to build the dam with their bare hands and feet. Hundreds of thousands helped, including government officials, doctors and university professors. They scratched away the earth from the surrounding hills using their finger nails. They split stones with primitive tools. In the next six months the dam was built.

SOURCE C: A painting by a Chinese artist, 1958, showing the Great Leap Forward bringing success to China.

SOURCE D: From a history of China, published in 1997.

The communes suffered because of the incredible haste in which they were set up and the lack of technical expertise. Because the peasants were busy elsewhere, crops were neglected. There were bad harvests from 1959 to 1961. The withdrawal of aid by the Soviet Union in 1960 made matters worse. However, the main reason for the failure of the Great Leap Forward was the leadership of Mao. He set almost impossible targets.
