DOCUMENT 1.

An extract from the Proclamation of the Irish Republic issued by the leaders of the 1916 Rising.

IRISHMEN AND IRISHWOMEN: In the name of God and of the dead generations from which she receives her old tradition of nationhood, Ireland, through us, summons her children to her flag and strikes for her freedom.

Having organised and trained her manhood through her secret revolutionary organisation, the Irish Republican Brotherhood, and through her open military organisations, the Irish Volunteers and the Irish Citizen Army, having patiently perfected her discipline ... supported by her exiled children in America and by gallant allies in Europe, but relying in the first on her own strength, she strikes in full confidence of victory.

The Irish Republic is entitled to, and hereby claims, the allegiance of every Irishman and Irishwoman. The Republic guarantees religious and civil liberty, equal rights and equal opportunities to all its citizens, and declares its resolve to pursue the happiness and prosperity of the whole nation and all its parts, cherishing all of the children of the nation equally, and oblivious of the differences carefully fostered by an alien government, which have divided a minority from the majority in the past.

We place the cause of the Irish Republic under the protection of the Most High God, Whose blessing we invoke upon our arms, and we pray that no one who serves that cause will dishonour it by cowardice, inhumanity, or rapine.

DOCUMENT 2.

These are extracts from two newspapers from Northern Ireland about the introduction of Direct Rule into Northern Ireland in 1972.

A. Irish News, Saturday March 25th 1972.

The experiment of a suspended Stormont and administration by a Westminster Secretary of State who will have the assistance of a local commission, will be watched with interest far beyond our shores....

In this new arrangement, the minority will remain the minority, but their political ideas can be expressed more freely without the shadow of the Special Powers Act falling across them. They can feel some satisfaction that the weakness of permanent Unionist rule has at last been recognised.

But they will be asking if Mr Heath (the British Prime Minister) in dismantling Stormont which was designed to ensure Protestant ascendancy (control), has also recognised that the day must come when Ireland will be united under an all-Ireland government.

B. Newsletter, March 25th 1972.

Betrayal is a bitter, dangerous word that is not used carelessly except in anger.... No assurances that Mr Edward Heath may give or has given, as to the duration of the suspension of Stormont, or on any other matter dealing with the future of the province will remove that word from the minds of at least one million British citizens here.

For close on 50 years the Northern Ireland Government.....succeeded in maintaining stability and in the main the full safety of its people. It was only when our defences were deliberately smashed by Westminster that the floodgate was opened for the terrorist and the criminal.
