Paper 1 The History and Culture of Pakistan

October/November 2018

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 75

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2018 series for most Cambridge IGCSE™, Cambridge International A and AS Level components and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 17 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

1(c)	Why was India not granted self-rule by Britain in 1919?	7
	Level 3: Explains reasons 5–7 (Five marks for one explanation, six marks for two explanations, seven marks for three explanations) e.g. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Britain was severely weakened after WW1, especially economically. All colonial nations were facing demands from their colonies for independence in one form or another, and Britain viewed India as the jewel of the Empire. • Britain's standing as a world power would be weakened if it gave in to Indian demands. • Strategically, India was important for the British navy and British influence in the region. Therefore the British were reluctant to give in to Indian demands • There were many thousands of British people living in India who could not be abandoned. The British government did not want to lose these businessmen, missionaries and civil servants.
	Level 2: Identifies reasons 2–4 (One mark for each identification) e.g. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The British would not give in to Indian demands • Britain did not want to lose trade links with India • Many British people lived there

1(d)	Which of the following had the most important effect on the Pakistan Movement between 1909 and 1919? (i) the Morley-Minto reforms, 1909 (ii) the reversal of the partition of Bengal, 1911 (iii) the Lucknow Pact, 1916 Explain your answer with reference to all three above.	10
	Level 5: Explains and makes judgement / evaluation 10 (As top of Level 4 plus judgement / evaluation)
	Level 4: Explains IMPACT of two or more events 6–9 (Two explanations are worth 6 or 7 marks. Additional explanations on the same two events cannot be awarded more than 8 marks. Explanation of all events is worth 9 marks) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Morley-Minto Reforms became law in 1909 as the Indian Councils Act. The importance of the Councils, which were enlarged, was to ensure that Indian legislators were given a chance to express their opinions. The British also accepted the right of the Muslim community to have a separate electorate • The Hindu community reacted to the Partition of Bengal with protests. The decision by the British to reverse the partition was seen as a victory by the Hindu community, but as betrayal by the Muslim community who now realised how important it was to ensure the success of the Muslim League for the Muslim community to prosper in India. They felt they could no longer rely on either Congress or the British to protect their interests. • The Lucknow Pact of 1916 was an agreement between the Muslim and Hindu communities, which presented a number of political demands to the British government to show a united front and produce common aims. For the first time, the Hindu community acknowledged that the Muslim community had the right to a separate electorate and the Lucknow Pact was seen as a promise of hope for the future.

2(c)	Was British expansion in India the most important reason for the decline of the Mughal Empire? Explain your answer. Level 5: Explains with evaluation 14 (As top Level 4 plus judgement or evaluation) Level 4: Explains WHY British expansion AND other reasons led to the decline of the Mughal Empire 9–13 e.g. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • British expansion into the subcontinent was rapid. They were experienced in warfare and had many weapons and other resources, so they were difficult to defeat. • Other reasons <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Emperors were suspected of spending money with little thought to the effect it had on the economy of the Empire. This led to inefficiencies in the running of the Empire • The absence of a definite line of succession led to a significant amount of in-fighting amongst his successors, which also led to instability • Aurangzeb introduced a tax on non-Muslims, called the Jizya. He destroyed Hindu temples and tried to ban Hindu practices. As a result he faced insurgencies throughout his reign • Taxation was high as Aurangzeb had to pay for the cost of military campaigns such as the Deccan Wars. He also spent highly on luxurious palaces. Because of this he became an unpopular ruler and enabling opposition to his rule and the Empire to grow. • The expense of fighting the Deccan Wars meant there was little money for the upkeep of the Empire • The military lacked investment, which meant they were reliant on outdated weaponry and were easily overpowered • Financial inefficiencies meant that money that could have been used to support the Empire, had been wasted • The size of the Empire meant that it was very difficult to defend from multiple invasions; the Empire's armies became exhausted in trying to repel them. • The Marathas were skilful Hindu guerrilla fighters who defeated a Mughal army in 1737 and took control of Delhi and eastwards towards Bengal. By 1760, they were the most powerful people in India and the Mughals could do nothing to stop it. Level 3: Explains WHY British expansion OR other reasons led to the decline of the Mughal Empire 7–10 (One explanation is worth 7 marks. 3(b)	Explain how the British reacted to Hindu-led protests against the Partition of Bengal between 1906 and 1908.	7
	Level 3: Explains ways the British dealt with Hindu-led protests 5–7 (Five marks for one explanation, six marks for two explanations, seven marks for three explanations) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Newspapers and public meetings had restrictions placed upon them and editors of newspapers / journalists were prosecuted and imprisoned • The Press Act of 1908 placed further restrictions on newspapers and gave the government greater control over them. • One organiser of Hindu-led demonstrations, Tilak of Poona was sentenced to 6 years imprisonment. Others were deported or left the country of their own accord rather than face imprisonment • Another approach intended to win support of the more moderate Hindus by making reforms. Lord Minto the Viceroy worked with John Morley, the Secretary of State for India, on reforms that became the Morley-Minto reforms in 1909.

4(b)	Why did educational reform become such an important issue between 1947 and 1999?	7
	Level 3: Explains reasons 5–7 (Five marks for one explanation, six marks for two explanations, seven marks for three explanations) e.g. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A large proportion of the population was illiterate and many children did not go to school at all. Improving literacy through education will ultimately be of benefit to the economy / nation, e.g. higher GDP, higher growth, less unemployment, reduced poverty • One challenge was the amount of government investment. Successive governments prioritised defence over education. Therefore there was less money available for spending on education. • Spending on education takes years to prove effective. Many saw Pakistan’s problems as being immediate and in need of solution then rather than in years’ time.
	Level 2: Identifies reasons 2–4 (One mark for each identification) e.g. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Many children did not go to school • There were high levels of illiteracy • Some people argued more money should be spent on schools

4(c)	In which of the following did Zulfikar Ali Bhutto have most success? (i) reform and control of the armed forces (ii) constitutional reform (iii) education and health reforms Explain your answer with reference to all three of the above.	14
	Level 5: Explains with evaluation 14 As top Level 4 plus judgement or evaluation.
	Level 4: Explains IMPACT of two or more reforms 9–13 (Two explanations are worth 9 marks. Additional explanations awarded up to 13 marks) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Bhutto was concerned about the army and decided that he should assert his control. He made the army and air-force chiefs resign. This made his position more secure. • A new constitution in 1973 established a Senate giving the opportunity for professionals, academics and specialists to work together. It also safeguarded the interests of minority provinces, which now had an equal status in the Senate. It marked the return to a form of parliamentary democracy, the basis upon which Pakistan has been governed to the end of the twentieth century, apart from when it was suspended due to martial law. One of the main weaknesses of the new constitution was that the focal point of political power lay with the party leadership and Bhutto in particular. When things went wrong he was blamed, which made him vulnerable • His education reforms, introduced free primary education. New schools were planned and all private sector schools were nationalised. The aim was to increase the literacy rate and raise academic standards. The changes in education led to overcrowding in existing schools whilst new ones could be built. The reforms had limitations since the building of new schools and the recruitment of new teachers could not be achieved quickly and was also very expensive. • His health reforms attempted to improve infant mortality and age expectancy rates by introducing Rural Health Centres and Basic Health Units. Pharmaceutical companies were banned from charging for a particular medical brand name and so medicines became cheaper. However, this did see the profits of chemists fall drastically and many international drug companies closed down their operations in Pakistan, meaning that Pakistan lost income.
