Aaron and Julia were at a pet shop with their mother. They were very excited because she had promised to buy them a pet. Aaron wanted a pet dog that he could play and have fun with. This upset Julia because she wanted a nice fluffy rabbit.

“Dogs are too noisy,” Julia said.

“Rabbits are not fun to play with,” argued Aaron.

They argued for quite a while until their mother became quite impatient. She warned them that she would not buy any of the animals unless they agreed on something.

Aaron and Julia nodded and began to look around the pet shop once more. An adorable kitten caught their eyes. Finally they found something they liked and agreed to buy the kitten. Mother was happy and smiled as she paid for the kitten at the cashier.
