Today is Billy's seventh birthday. He receives many presents such as books, toy cars and chocolates. However, the gift he likes best is a cage for catching birds.

There is a small trap-door at the opening of the cage. When seeds are put in the cage and a bird comes to peck at them, the trap-door will snap shut.

Billy goes into the garden and throws some seeds inside the cage. He stands near it and waits anxiously. The birds do not go near the cage. They are afraid of him.

Billy then goes into the house to eat his lunch. After his meal, he comes out into the garden. He looks at the cage and sees a little bird in it. He is so excited that he shows it to his mother. She is not pleased and says that it is wrong to do so. She tells him to let it go. Billy obeys his mother.
