Read the passage carefully. Answer question 40 to 46.

Your answer must be based on the passage.

One day, a dog decided to look for food in the forest. As he was walking and looking around, his nose started to twitch.

"What a wonderful smell!" he thought to himself. "If I'm not mistaken, it's the smell of roast meat!" He put his nose to the ground and tried to sniff out the smell. It was not from the grass. It was not at the base of the tree either. Where could it possibly be?

The dog lifted his nose in the air and sniffed again. His attention was drawn to the loud flapping of wings above him. A crow had just landed on a tree. In his beak was a large juicy piece of roast meat.

The dog's mouth watered as he wanted very badly to have the tasty meat. The dog came up with an idea.

"What a gorgeous bird! What shiny green feathers!" he looked up at the crow and exclaimed. The crow was delighted.

"I wonder if you also have a sweet voice. No other creature could compare to you if you had a sweet voice to match your beauty," the dog continued to praise the crow. When the crow heard the dog's praises, he wanted very much to show off.

The dog was ready and waiting. Opening his mouth wide, the crow began to caw loudly. As he did so, the fat piece of meat fell from his beak!
