The Tortoise and the Geese

An old tortoise once lived by a lake with his friends, the geese. The tortoise loved telling many tales. The geese thought that he actually talked too much.

One year, the rain failed to come and the lake began to dry up. "We must fly away from here!" said the geese. "We must fly to the Faraway Mountains where the lakes are always full."

"But you can't leave me behind! I need water, too! Please take me with you!" the Tortoise begged.

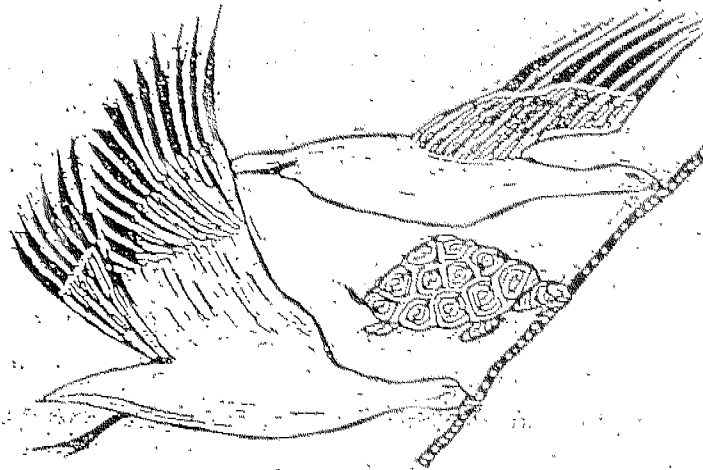

The geese thought of how they could take Tortoise to the Faraway Mountains, and finally hit on an idea. They decided to carry a long, strong stick between their bills and told Tortoise to clamp his jaws tightly around the stick as they fly across.

The geese then advised Tortoise, "Now listen Tortoise, do not open your mouth during the flight. If you do, you will fall to the Earth. We know how hard it is for you to keep your mouth closed!"

"I can do it! I can do it!" said the tortoise. So the three took flight together. How beautiful the flight was! Soon they passed a village and many children were playing outside. They looked up, saw the tortoise and began to laugh and point up towards the sky.

"Look at that silly tortoise!" they cried. "Did you ever see anything so ridiculous as a flying tortoise?"

"What do you mean, silly? How dare you laugh at me!" said Tortoise. But of course when he opened his mouth to say this, he lost his grip on the stick and fell down to Earth.

Section D: COMPREHENSION OPEN-ENDED (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully.

Sea Lions

Sea lions are friendly-looking animals. Their round faces and whiskers remind people of the faces of small dogs. The almond shape of their eyes gives them a look of intelligence. Whether it is true or not, sea lions often look as though they are thinking.

Sea lions love water and spend most of their lives in it. Usually, the water is very cold. Sea lions do not feel cold as their bodies are covered with a special layer of fat called blubber. The blubber is like a thick coat. It keeps the sea lion's body-heat in and the bone-chilling cold out.

Like people, sea lions are mammals. They are warm-blooded. Baby sea lions are born on land and feed on their mother's milk. Like humans, baby sea lions snuggle up with their mothers when they nurse. The mother knows just what her own pup smells like. She will only nurse her own baby.

Sea lions behave like playful children. They sometimes push each other off rocks or slide into the water. Sometimes they even body surf! They often ride the crest of waves and let the waves carry them near the shore. Then they swim back out to ride more waves.

Sea lions can be taught many tricks. They can balance balls on their noses and jump through hoops. Their trainers reward them with fish. Sea lions look very pleased with themselves when they perform.

(Adapted from Master Skills Series)

Answer the questions in complete sentences.
Begin with a capital letter and end with a full-stop.

53. How can a mother sea lion tell which pup is hers?
