ENVS1342 INTRODUCING PLANNING SYSTEMS

Answer TWO questions.

1. 'We are gradually moving towards a European Super Plan'. Critically discuss with reference to developments in European spatial planning since 1989.
2. Outline the form that planning now takes at the national level in the UK, and how this has changed since devolution to Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.
3. Suggest and discuss an ideal approach to ensure that local communities and local people can have a major voice within the planning system.
4. Critically discuss the government's proposals for local planning as contained within the present Planning and Compulsory Purchase Bill.
5. 'Our proposals for regional planning and regional government in England will allow people a direct say in the future of their region's prosperity'. Critically discuss the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister's proposals for the English regions.
